QUICK CONFESSION MAY SAVE KILLER

Last Jan. 22, Earnest Leroy Jacobson picked up his sleeping 22-month-old daughter, took her into the bathroom of his Signal Hill apartment, placed her in a partly filled bathtub and held her under water until she drowned.

On July 9, the jury which had convicted the 33year-old alcoholic of first-degree murder, sentenced him to die in California's gas chamber.

But, Chief Dep. Dist. Atty. Manley Bowler grimly admits a recent decision by the California Supreme Court makes it probable that the conviction will be reversed.

Furthermore, he said, that same decision makes the likelihood of a successful reprosecution of Jacob-

The reason: after Jacobson was arrested, he admitted the murder!

To repeat, Jacobson stands a chance of escap-

because he confessed the crime.

The Supreme Court decision Bowler refers to was handed down Aug. 31.

It holds that a suspect, once a police investigation has focused on him, must at once be informed of his constitutional right to remain silent and to have the benefit of counsel.

The conviction of Robert Dorado, a San Quentin convict who had stabbed to death a fellow prisoner, was set aside on the grounds that he had not been so informed.

The 6-1 decision of the state's highest tribunal came on the heels of a U.S. Supreme Court decision similar in nature but not quite as far-reaching as the California ruling.

After Jacobson had killed his little girl, he called a social worker of the state welfare bureau and told him what he had done. The social worker called police. The police went to Jacobson's Signal Hill home.

He took them inside and showed them the damp, lifeless body of Kelley Grace Babcock, his daughter by his common-law wife.

·He readily admitted the crime. Later, in the police station, he said that if the child's mother had been there, he would have killed her, too.

But no one told him he didn't have to confess, and he confessed.

Because he did, he now may go free "Jacobson's statements are a vital part of the prosecution's case," Bowler said, "I believe it (the Dorado decision) casts serious doubts as to the validity of the conviction.

. The State Supreme Court automatically reviews all death-penalty cases. Bowler said that a reversal, based on the Dorado decision, was "prob-

He said the possibility was strong that Jacobson would regain his liberty.

"But we will prosecute him again," Bowler said, "and hope for the best. The Supreme Court feels it has an obligation to protect the rights of the individual. We feel we have an obligation to

GOV. BROWN BUYS TICKET Hadn't a 6 Win 100 Grand in N.H. Sweeps

By ROSS NEWHAN J, P.T Staff Writer

SALEM, N.H.—California does not go to the polls until November, but Gov. Brown cast the first vote Saturday on one of the ballot's most significant issues.

Through his personal courier, Brown purchased a ticket for the 1965 New Hampshire Sweepstakes and thus gave silent approval to Proposition 16 which would bring a legalized lottery to Čalifornia,

The first such legal event in recent U.S. history (Louisiana briefly conducted an unlawful lottery) was capped at Rockingham Park here Saturday with the running of the $144,820 New Hampshire Sweepstakes race.

THE mile-and-three-sixteenths test for 3-year-olds was captured by heavily favored Roman Brother as jockey Fernando Alvarez took the Harbor View Farm's colt to the lead at the top of the stretch and held off a charge by Knightly Manner, Purser finished third, Roman Brother's time of 1:55.4 bettered the track record by one and one-fifth seconds. The race, however, was anticlimatic, for the center (Continued Page A-4, Col. 3) a.m.

of attention was the lottery, testing the laws of the United States and the conscience of New Hampshire.

According to Howell F. Shepard, chairman of the New Hampshire Sweep stakes Commission, "Those roadblocks have all been hurdled and we have exceeded our expectations."

WHILE the Justice Department may not be ready to vote full approval, the fact that such power personalities as Gov. Brown, Sen, John Pastore and Congressman Carl Albert have purchased tickets for next year would indicate the sweeps is here to stay-at least in New Hampshire.

"We would have been satisfied to turn over $1 million to public education," said Shepard, "for it would have been $1 million they would have never received. Instead, we are

Dora Throws New Punch, Floods Rout Nearly 2,000

FLORIDA, GEORGIA AREAS DELUGED

PERRY, Fla. (UPI)— tropical Storm Dora came to life again Saturday, sending floodwaters rushing rooftop-high and forcing nearly 2,000 persons to flee their homes in two states.

A huge area of north Florida and south Georgia was soaked with up to 18 inches of rain in less than 36 hours.

Forecasters said the resurgent Dora, written off as dead and now a fronical sturm again, would regain hurricane force today when it returns to the Atlantic that spawned it 12 days ago.

The Red Cross said at least 1,000 homes had been evacuated on Florida's west coast above Tampa and another 350 families may have to seek shelter in the Gainesville area. More than 200 homes were caught in Ilash floods at Waycross,

COL. GEORGE L. Robinson, Florida's deputy civil defense director, said at least 1,500 persons had been driven from their homes and more were evacuating hourly. He said 300 to 400 homes were evacuated in Live Oak, where rooftops peeked over the rushing waters and motorboats churned over the tops of submerged auto-mobiles. The water was 30 feet deep in of its banks and civil defense authorities ordered homes evacuated along a 50-mile stretch of the river.

The little fishing village of Homosassa was almost entirely evacuated. The neighboring towns of Homosassa Springs and Chryslal River, a resort town with many expensive homes, was hard hit. About 200 persons had to be evacuated in Cross City.

At Chrystal River, Policeman Giles Fields sat in the city hall in four inches of water answering the telephone. "I've been wearing boots for two days," he said. "The sewer line is out and we've been boiling all the water."

THE plush Port Paradise resort hotel turned out its guests and closed down when water rose four feet in the lobby.

Many $50,000 homes were flooded, Fields said. Some residents, he said, veterans of many hurricanes, had stocked up food before Dora made its first trip through and were sitting defiantly in their homes Saturday night watching water lap at the window sills.

Homosassa was evacuated when the town of about 900 persons lost its electrical power. Most of the village got its water from wells, Fields said, and the water could not be used.

He said about 200 persons had been sleeping in the school at Chrystal River since Thursday night.

President Endorsed by Faubus

JONESBORO, Ark, (A)-Gov. Orval Faubus lined himself up with supporters of the Johnson-Humphrey ticket Saturday and said the President will visit Arkansas, possibly within two weeks.

"I join in support of the Democratic nominees and the Democratic ticket" Faubus told a meeting of a county Democratic central committee here,

It was Faubus' first public endorsement of the Democratic national ticket, ending speculation that the governor's strong states' rights position might keep him at arms length from the national ticket.

"I will be with President Johnson on his first visit to the state, which I be-lieve is Sept, 25," Faubus OUESTIONED by newsmen after his talk Faubus declined to elaborate either on his statement of endorsement or on the word of President Johnson planning an Arkansas visit.

His statement came in response to an introduction by Charles Frierson, chairman of the Craighead County Democratic Central Committee, Frierson had urged support of all Democratic candidates from the township level up through the national ticket.

Faubus, fighting for a sixth term against the strongest Republican effort in a century in Arkansas. previously had said he was keeping his own counsel in the presidential battle,

Accuse Soviets of Gas Assault

BONN, Germany (AP)-West Germany charged Saturday that Soviet agents attacked a communications expert at its Moscow embassy with poisonous mustard gas after he discovered secret microphones in the building.

A formal protest, delivered Friday by Foreign in a West German hospital. Minister Gerhard Schroeder to Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov, demanded a "thorough investigation" of the incident which the Germans said took place Sent. 6 during church service at the ancient Zagorsk Monastery, 40 miles northwest of Moscow.

THE victim of one of the more lurid episodes of diplomatic history was Horst Schwirkmann, a technician who had been scheduled to end his Moscow tour of duty two days later. He was diagnosed by U.S. Army Capt. James Street, a doctor at the U.S. Embassy in

was described Saturday as being in critical condition

Although the official protest did not mention the microphone angle, this was disclosed to newsmen by authoritative government sources.

Government sources here were worried that news of the poison gas attack might have an adverse effect on preparations for a visit here this winter by Soviet Premier Khruslichev.

The news was first broken by Chancellor Ludwig Erhard who told parliamentary leaders about it. Persons present said Erhard called it a "mysterious Soviet intelligence plot."

It was believed the weapon used was a gas pistol of the type used for protection against dogs,

Senator Pierre Salinger is so strongly opposed to Prop. 14 that would repeal the Rumford Act, he refers to all who support Prop. 14 as "bigots." Like Gov. Brown, he is very violent in denunciation of all who disagree with him. Well, this writer supports this initiative because he considers the Governor and legislators who enacted the Rumford Act irresponsible demagogues who would sacrifice property rights under the guise of civil rights. It will take a YES vote on Prop. 14 to repeal the Rumford Act.

Some time ago I gave an example of what could happen under Sec. 4 of Chapter 3 of the Runiford Act. As an example I said: "If a widow living alone in her own home, offered to rent a room but refused to do so to a Negro, she could be in violation of this section." This, of course, is based on the assumption that she had a loan that came under "public assisted," which could mean a bank or savings and loan institution to go into the teaching field. whose deposits are federally insured; or FHA, Cal-Vet or similar loans. * *

After this appeared I received many letters and telephone calls from people who support the Rumford former Miss America and be-Act. They argued that no one should object to this gan her walk down the 120 because they could turn down a Negro the same as a white person if they did not want them. It was also argued the widow need not take a male Negro but could rent her room to a female Negro. Others charged that I was opposed to civil rights, which is not true. The federal and state civil rights laws do not carry such provisions. It was only the California Legislatture and Gov. Brown who enacted the Rumford Act in the closing 1963 session last September.

Not one of these letters or calls questioned that this widow could be in violation of the law and subject to fines if she refused to rent the room to a Negro. It may be called an extreme example. But it is factual. The widow may be seeking companionship as well as supplementing her income. But if a Negro applied and was turned down because of his-or hercolor, she could be subject to action by the government. Her only defense would be to rent the room to the applicant or pay a fine.

Tenants of an apartment may be equally liable under Sec. 8 of Chapter 3. It says the act covers "any person to aid, abet, incite, compel or coerce the doing of any of the acts or practices declared unlawful in this section-or to attempt to do so." This is interpreted to mean that a tenant who may object to Negro neighbors and who gives this reason to the landlord for moving, would be in violation and subject to penalties. His objection may be as much to some white neighbor. But if there is an indication it is because of the color of the neighbor, he is discriminating the same as the landlord would be if he refused to rent to

If these two examples are considered extreme I can only point to the wording of the Rumford Act. As to the interpretation of the law, it must be remembered the commission to enforce it is appointed by Gov. Brown who has used every possible method to keep Prop. 14 off the ballot.

The recently-passed federal civil rights bill does not have such provisions as does the Rumford Act. Its reference to public accommodations-motels, hotels, restaurants and other places-is virtually the same as California has had for many years. Prop. 14 states that repeal of the Rumford Act does not apply to such public accommodations. But a yes vote on Prop. 14 would return the right to property owners to choose their tenants or to whom they wished to sell or lease. If a belief in property rights as applied to single-family dwellings and apartment houses makes one a "bigot," this writer is one-and prefers it to the demagogues who would use racial and religious issues the child was playing with as political expedients.-L.A.C.

Nearly 100,000 Long Beach students will shed their summertime "livin' is easy" ways Monday to report to school early-if not yet bright-for the opening of the fall term.

To ease the shock, school officials have scheduled a short opening day at the 55 grade schools, 14 junior highs and 7 senior highs.

The first-day schedule:

Grade school, 9 a.m.-2 p.m. Junior high, 8:30 a.m.-2 p.m.

Senior high, 8:30 a.m.-2 p.m. City College, 8 a.m.-10 p.m.

All schools will be on the regular full-day sched-

Within the first month, the school district is expected to be teaching more than 100,000 students; with more than 75,000 in the grade schools and junior and senior highs. It will be the first time enrollment has exceeded 100,000.

Long Beach City College is bracing for a 30% hike in day-evening enrollment to more than 25,000.

Among the system's total 1984-65 faculty of 3,100, about 350 will be new to the district.

CITY COLLEGE students will be welcomed by a new president, Dr. Wiley Garner, and find that the college's familiar three divisions (LAD, BTD and GAD) are things of the past

THEY LIVED HAPPILY-Story About a Cat and Bear

By JAMES K. CAZALAS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Once upon a time there was an alley cat who thought he was a hear. Nobody is sure where he came from or what

But one day the keeper went to feed the black bears at the Overton Park Zoo here and there was the cat, lounging peacefully in the cage.

The keepers tried everything to get the little orange and white cat out of the bear's pit.

WHEN THEY called the cat he ignored them. When they offered food he would steal it and run back into the open air cage.

When they chased him he would scurry under the shaggy legs of his friend.

The cat enjoyed life in the bear's den, which had smooth rocks for walls. It wasn't like a cage at all. There was no top. A broad most and a low fence separated the animals from the spectators.

One day the cat got bored and climbed over the smooth rocks and went into the duck's pen. Their loud honking brought the zookeepers on the run and the cat scrambled back into the hulking

After that incident the cat was contented to stay in the bear's cage.

He would lounge on a tree-shaded rock while the black bear sat at the edge of the moat and begged peanuts from the spectators.

Friendship is a two-way street. The cat had a home and a friend.

THE BEAR had more peanuts. When people heard of the cat that lived with the bear they flocked to the cage, and they threw more peanuts.

The bear apparently realized he had a good thing going, for he did nothing when the cat would take some of his meat at supportime, and climb into the rocks to eat.

The zookeepers have just about given up trying to catch the cat. As long as he stays out of trouble he probably will be allowed to stay.

45 Million New Silver Dollars

WASHINGTON (UPI)-Sometime within the next four months, the U.S. Mint will start stamping out 45 million brand new silver dollars-the first to be produced since 1935. They will be issued with unusual precautions to insure that they get into general circulation in the Far West.

Leopoldville a City of Weird Contrasts

CONGO (A)-This is a city of amazing contrasts.

A riot or the sacking of an embassy has not been enough to divert some residents from a quiet drink at their favorite sidewalk

Rioters in the streets after independence in 1960 were watched by curious diners at several cafes. The British embassy was in-vaded by demonstrators last year while, less than 100 yards away, patrons quietly sipped drinks at a sidewalk restaurant.

Right from the start Leopoldville has managed to fit the everyday routine of city living around political turmoil and civil strife.

Life in Leopoldville seems to newcomers an endless series of bizarre divergences.

THE MAYOR HAS started a clean-up, paint-up, fixup campaign to beautifly this city. Those who don't cooperate can be fined, though many small back streets are virtually blocked with heaps of garbage.

American cowboy films with French sound tracks play at two movie theaters while politeians hold news conferences in the city

Venus Is Sluggish Planet

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) - In the interests of truth it has to be said: Venus, the loveliests of planets, named after the loveliest and sprightliest of the Roman Goddesses, is sluggish and retarded.

Because Venus perpetually hides her real self under shining and gossamer cloak of clouds, astronomers have been itching for centuries to learn more about her.

At long last, thanks to ra dar, they have been able to satisfy their curiosity about some secret aspects of Venus which could not be observed by optical telescopes, no mat ter how keen their vision. To the sun and a lot more mysterious. The earth is a fairly open and above-board planet Everybody knows it turns over once every 24 hours, no matter what, and manages to pirouette around the sun once every 365 days.

BUT, BECAUSE of those clouds, there was no telling what Venus was up to. Did she rotate at all? If she did, how often? In recent years both U.S. and Soviet radar scientists have been trying to solve what the astronomers call this "classical problem."

The Russians a while back bounced radar puses off Venus and concluded that she whirled on her axis once every 10 to 14 days. American scientists at the jet propulcouldn't see this.

Their radar plumbing of Venus' nimbus indicated a considerably less lively be havior. As far as they could tell, it took Venus darn near an earth year to make one

When the Space Agency's Mariner probe whizzed past Venus in December, 1962, it sent back word that the dazzling planet seemed to be rotating slowly in a direction opposite to earth's.

NOW THE WORLD'S largest radar-radio telescope, the 1,000-foot dish scooped out of a mountain bowl in the Puerto Rican "lost world" near Arecibo, has taken a long look at Venus and spelled the unglamorous facts about this most radiant of evening or morning "stars" Venus, it develops, never gets a wiggle on. She just floats out there, lazy as pig. Once every 253 days, as meas ured on earth, she moves around her own axis. And her motion is retrograde-that is, opposite to that of earth and most of the other planets. According to the Air Force Office of Scientific Research which supports the Arecibo observatory, there is small hope of ever reconstituting

Venus as a frisky goddess. The real lowdown about her sluggish behavior, the Air Force said, has been established with an accuracy "five times greater than hitherto achieved."

ABERDEEN, S.D. (A)-Aberdeen is a busy prairie city of 23,000 peo-ple-pretty big in these parts-where they raise grain and cattle, and produce farm machinery and wood products.

It is a real and wholesale center, and there is a state teachers college, a hospital and an airport.

But Aberdeen has one other thing that makes it absolutely unique. It has quintup-

No other hamlet, village, town, city or metropolis in the United States can make that claim.

One year ago-on Sept. 14, 1963 - Mrs. Andrew Fischer, then 30 and the mother of five children, doubled her family in 90 minutes. Aberdeen and the Fischers have never been the same and never will be.

COMES Monday there will be no birthday party for the Fischer quintuplets. Mrs. Fischer is expecting again, at any moment, and such is the burden of fame it is a secret whether or not it will be a multiple birth.

This is only one facet of the world of the Andrew Fischers, at once blessed and perplexed by the mathematical chance one in 42 million-of five live births at one time.

Until a year ago, Andrew and Mary Ann Fischer lived in a gray stucco home on a farm a mile north of town. They had met at a bowl-worked in a wholesale grocery warehouse in Aberdeen as a shipping clerk, at $80 a week.

The house, which they rented from Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Harrington, was weather-beaten, and in a blue barn out back the Fischers kept two cows to ease their milk bill.

WELL ALONG in her sixth pregnancy, Mrs. Fischer was told by her physician, Dr. James Berbos, she could expect a multiple birth. On Sept. 11 Dr. Berbos confirmed from X-rays that she was carrying quintuplets, He told only the Fischers.

The delivery at St. Luke's Hospital began at 1:58 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 14, and was completed at 3:01 a.m. Four of the infants were girls, and the only boy arrived next to last. He weighed four pounds, the girls from 2½ to 3½ pounds. All were healthy and no anesthesia was used in the delivery.

Then it began. Within hours, the hospital, the city of Aberdeen and the Fischer home became centers of world atten-

Dr. Berbos announced he would not charge for his services, Nash-Finch announced that Fischer could stay away from work as long as necessary, the Harringtons offered him the rented home, the hospital indicated there would be no bill, the Aberdeen Chamleague, married and ber of Commerce planned had five children, Danny, Charlotte, Julie, Evelyn and Denise, Andrew "I'm very happy but it's like a dream."

ANDREW Fischer engaged Joseph H. Barnett and Stan Siegel of the law firm of Agor, Siegel, Barnett and Schutz to protect what had suddenly become national property -- his family. Within a fortnight the Fischers had succeeded in retreating behind a barrier of semi-privacy from which they have never emerged.

In the meantime the children had been named -Mary Ann, Mary Mar-Mary Catherine, Mary Magdalene and James Andrew. They thrived, and by Christmas were at home with their parents and brothers and sisters. The Fischers no longer lived on the Harrington place.

home in town, on a quiet street.

It is a split-level, painted light blue, with white shutters, and has a split - level, spacious back yard closed in with red snowfencing. Andrew still works at Nash-Finch, and the older Fischer children are often seen around the neighborhood, The quintuplets are rarely scen, even by the neigh-

A year after the birth of the United States' only quintuplets, the four Fischer girls and one boy, life has changed for their family and their home town, Aberdeen, S. D. "Dad... can I have $20,000 for college?"

> Free booklet tells how you can be sure you'll have the money to send your children to college!

In both public and private colleges, the costs of education have risen sharply in recent years. At an average private school, for example, the annual expense is about $3,000. By 1974 the cost will have soared to $5,220—and it will continue to rise about $56 each year.

These are the frightening figures facing today's parents. They are spelled out in detail in a timely new booklet written especially for New York Life by a nationally-known authority on education.

He points out the increasing importance of education beyond high school. "Generally, the youngster who goes to college will gain faster job advancement, higher income and greater economic security than the youth who does not."

security than the youth who does not."

Planning is the key. This expert holds out the hope that "any qualified student can find a suitable school to go to"—and irill if parents plan ahead realistically. He suggests that "the earlier you start, the easier and cheaper it is to accumulate the funds you need." There are many ways available to finance a college education: long-term loans, installment loans, personal long-range savings, government bonds, stocks, life insurance and a variety of scholarships. The booklet tells you the comparative advantages of each.

ALWAYS AT your call Photo Device Is Potential Aid to Blind

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md. (AP)---A hand-held photoelectric device that vibrates when it senses obstacles or changes of terrain in its path was described by the Air Force today as a potential aid to the blind.

The environmental sensor was developed by Santa Rita Technology, Menlo Park, Calif., under an Air Force contract.

Air Force Systems Com mand headquarters here said research is continuing on this and another type of "tactile transducer" — operating through the sense of touch that is aimed at supplying speech to the human hearing system without using the ear or a bone conduction.

THE PHOTO-ELECTRIS device for locating obstacles is about the size of a two-cell flashlight,

Changes in light values caused by objects ahead, or by terrain changes such as steps and curbings and slopes, are detected by the sensor.

The information is fed to a photo resistor, which changes value with the amount of light hitting it. This in turn applied to an oscillator is applied to an oscillator which changes frequency with changing light values.

The user feels these pulse changes as vibrations on the inside of his hand. The nulses vary from four to 400 a second, depending on the values sensed from the environment,

Flags Fluttering From TV Mast Cause Fire Call

BALTIMORE (A)-Firemen rushed to Baltimore's television tower Friday night but found only three American Flags bathed in spotlights, creating a flame-like effect as they fluttered in the air.

An excited resident of the area near the candelabrum-shaped, 1,000-foot tower had telephoned in the alarm.

The flags are flying night and day from the tower as Baltimore observes the 150th anniversary of Francis Scott Key's writing of the national anthem.

Ban Beer Drinking

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (UPI) - The district council at Mwanza on Lake. Victoria has banned all beer drinking except on weekends. It said excessive drinking of African-brewed beer known as "pombe" has caused too much absenteeism among cot ton pickers.

Troubles We Don't Talk About

What Troubles? Complaints so personal that few people talk about them - burning, irritation and itching in the sensitive per-ianal (rectal and genital) area. What Causes Them? Many things, but especially the lack of hygiene. Doctors say that lack of proper cleanliness often prevents the condition from clearing up. This is true because the perianal area is repeatedly contaminated with potentially harmful bacteria and fungi.

What Do Specialists Recommend? Thorough and regular cleansing, particularly after each howel movement. This halts the vicious "itch-scratch" cycle. In many cases, this alone will solve the problem of burn-ing, itching, and irritation.

Why Not Plain, Ordinary Soan? Because soap washes away natural skin oils. Frequent and rebeated use of soap can cause dryness and irritation, resulting in itching.

What Should Be Used? A new foamy aerosol medication called ANULL. It is a gentle but thorough cleanser to be used on toilet tissue or cotton. ANULL is an antibacterial, antifungal cleanser-soothing emollient and pro-tective. Soothes burning and irritation. Helps to protect against secondary infection of raw, irritated skin.

The Best Way to stop itchirritation is never let it get started. Begin regular use of ANULL this week. Or if you suffer now, begin relief in seconds with ANULL. It relieves itch-irritation without local pain killers that can mask symptoms and postpone sound medical treatment. If your discomfort persists by all means see your doctor. Ask your doctor whether it isn't wise to use ANULL with other medications.

Effective Deodorant: Women especially, can be troubled with embarrassing odor. ANULL is an effective deodorant foam hecause of its superior cleansing and antibacterial actions. Makes you feel fresher. Secure. Com pletely groomed.

Most people, after they have tried ANULL, never use toilet tissue without it. And so in-expensive. You'll find ANULL in your phar-

Rivals Slugging as Political 'War' Opens

By HARRY SHARPE

The rival presidential candidates began slugging it out in earnest last week. So did their running mates.

President Johnson made campaign sorties to De-troit, Mich., and Harris-burg, Pa. He challenged Republican nominee Barry M. Goldwater's position that NATO alliance nations must, for self-protection, be armed with "conventional" nuclear battlefield weapons which could be triggered by the NATO supreme commander.

Johnson also invited Republicans to join him in repudiating "reckless factions which demand that you choose a doctrine alien to America."

GOLDWATER, swinging from the West Coast into the Midwest, denounced what he called the "Kennedy - Johnson administration's four years of mistakes, retreat and weakness" its conduct of foreign affairs. He also blamed Johnson's civil rights law for "violence in the streets." He predicted the situation would grow worse "until there is leadership in the land that will demand respect for law."

GOP vice presidential nominee William E, Miller barnstormed New England charging that "scandal and sin in the Johnson administration is corrupting the young people of America and leading to lawlessness in the streets." He also called on the Johnson family to divest itself of Texas. radio-television interestsnow in trust-because they "a government-regulated business."

DEMOCRATIC vice presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey told an Ohio audience that Goldwater was "being impulsive and inconsistent" when he recently suggested ending the military draft while advocating a stronger defense. In South Dakota he declared that Goldwater, if elected, would take away federal protection for farm-

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made a third Senate speech declaring that Goldwater's nuclear policy could lead to "the incineration of a hundred million Americans, to say nothing of hundreds of millions of human beings in other countries including Russia."

The President told his audience that "there is no such thing as a conventional nuclear weapon." He said that unleashing of the atom "would lead us down an uncertain path of blows and counterblows whose outcome may never be known."

HE ADDED that President of the United States can divest himself the responsibility for such a decision." In Harrisburg he accused the Goldwater-Miller ticket of being "contemptuous toward the will of majorities, arrogant toward allies, callous toward the plight of minorities, careless toward peace, and belligerent toward adversaries." He said 'This is a doctrine which invites extremism to take over our land. . .?

Goldwater brushed aside the slogan that American politics stops at the water's edge, He asserted that "the record of disaster, failure. retreat and confusion" in Johnson foreign policy "is an unbroken chain right around the world."

HE BLASTED the late President John F. Kennedy's solution of the 1962 Soviet missile crisis in Cuba as "timed to have its maximum political effect" in the 1962 election. He asked: "Where did it lead? What did it prove?"

At Boise, Idaho, Goldwater linked violence in the streets with an attack on the U.S. Supreme Court's state legislative reapportionment and school prayer decisions. He charged the Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a press conference that in dealing with the issues of war and peace "Goldwater has a basic lack of understanding of the responsibilities of the president." He said the GOP nominee's declarations had thrown bi-partisan foreign policy over-board and "need a great deal more clarification."

Johnson's Detroit speech was his first major campaign pronouncement in his bid for a full four-year term in the White House. He dealt primarily with the booming economy which Guldwater has called "artificial."

GOLDWATER bimself pledged to an audience in Los Angeles that if elected he would ask Congress to cut taxes 25% over a five-year period. He said the cuts would be made possible by a tight check on federal spending and rising federal revenues from an expanding economy free from government controls.

Johnson adherents pointed out that Goldwater voted against the President's $11.5 billion tax cut last spring on grounds it was "fiscally irresponsible."

The President asked the FBI for a full report on its investigation of recent racial violence in eastern cities and the South to see if the outbreaks fitted a common pattern. He told a press conference that "considerable agitation" ob-viousiv was involved. He declined to say whether the FBI had found any signs of outside agitation or political motivation. The New York World-Telegram and Sun said it had learned that the FBI had found no evidence that Communists played major roles in some of the eastern disturbances. Fear of an immediate strike in the booming automobile industry was eased when the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers reached a three-year, $90 million pattern-setting agreement with Chrysler, smallest of the big three.

IF FORD and General Motors accept the pattern, there would be cause for rejoicing in the Johnson administration, A crippling strike could damage the economy and take some of the lustre off the President's "peace and prosperity" campaign theme.

I'VE been going over the list of poor women I've danced with in the last year or so, trying to figure which one has reported me.

My review of dancing partners began with a telephone conversation a couple of evenings ago. Said a feminine voice when I answered the 'phone:

"Mr. Epley, we have a great opportunity for you. H you can answer a question I'm about to ask you, you will win $35 worth of dancing lessons,"

It was a rude shock. This person, I cogitated, thinks I need dancing lessons. And how could she get that idea if someone I'd danced with hadn't told her.

The call clarified some things for me,

I remembered, for instance, that women I've danced with were always hard to find for a second round on the boards, And also, I recalled, my dancing partners always wanted to cut things short, hustling me off the floor when just a pause in the music gave an excuse. Some of them developed headaches, or short breath, or some other reason for calling off our terpsichorean exercise while the orchestra was still playing and I thought things were going fine.

And now one of them. fearful that fate might throw us together again, had obviously advised some dance studio that I needed training.

TO the voice on the phone, which had waited during my painful reminiscences, I

"Oh, we have reason to believe they would be useful for you," said the voice, significantly. "Now if you'll just try on that question. . . '

"But listen," I said, "I don't think I need dancing lessons, even if you do. If I answer your question, can't you give me $35 worth of something else? Horseback riding, for instance?"

"No, Mr. Epley, just dancing lessons." And then, pointedly, "you'll find you need them."

The hurt was boring deeper. No doubt about it, I was getting the word.

But I didn't take humiliation lying down. I had to prove to this gal that while I might be a lousy dancer. I had some brains in my nogquestion.

Pilot Roland Barton, air officer for the County Fire Department, may not win any awards for his aerial dancing, but he won the admiration of three score observers who watched him put the chopper through a series of maneuvers that may prove to be the greatest boun to fire fighting since the fire hose was introduced.

THE SIXTY persons were members of the Los Angeles County and Cities Disaster and Civil Defense Commission, and they were watching Barton demonstrate the art of acrial fire fightingan art that includes the laying of fire hose from the air, the sending of a wall of fire retardant splashing down on a forest fire hot spot, and the plopping of its 105-gallon load into a portable reservoir. Barton showed all three.

As time goes on, the collapsible 1000-gallon reservoir can expect to see increasing service, officials indicated. Because it's casily set up, it can be placed almost anywhere - on the ground, on the roof of a building or at the scene of a brush fire.

the demonstration, held at the department's fire comhat training school in East Los Angeles, will not replace fire trucks, shovels, men in the battle against brush fires in Southern California, but it will become - if it hasn't already-a valuable new firefighting tool, said Klinger.

"We used to say, what would we do without radios; now we say, what would we do without the choppers," he declared.

"These things are saving us hundreds of man-hours. For example, what 30 men can do in two hours at a fire, the helicopter can do in five minutes alone."

Among other things, explained Klinger, the chopper can lay 600 feet of hose at a time---and in seconds.

KLINGER said the counly fire department has only one aerial fire engine in its arsenal, but he added that the Sheriff's Department has four other copters which are always available for fire-fighting chores. Moreover, the fire department has two of its own aerial tanker planes.

Klinger said he looks forward to the day when the department will have even bigger and better whirlybirds at its disposal. "They will be able to carry nine passengers or a 387-gallon load of fire retardant (no longer borate, incidentally).

"They're already manufactured," he declared, adding wistfully, "All it takes is money."

Dr. Brown says his calculations indicate that virtually every visible star should have a planetary system. In addition, he says, there are millions of many small, dark stars-stars not massive enough to sustain the nuclear reaction which provides the energy that makes visible stars shine.

SCIENTISTS know that movements of visible stars ---movements indicating that gravitational force of invisible companions is influencing them.

Dr. Brown estimates that every visible star has 50 planets revolving about it. And perhaps two of each of the 50 would lie at an appropriate distance from its star to receive the right amount of heat to foster life processes.

The real question is why should a person who is not married and physically fit be eligible for the draft and a married man or one who has a minor physical defect get to remain home making three or four times as much money? The draft could cost college graduate over $4,000 a year in wages.

Why should one man pay $8,000 for the defense of his country and another man pay nothing just because he is married or has flat feet? The draft is forcing boys to get married before they are ready for it. TIM C. FRANK

Give More Thought to Constitution

EDITOR:

A real American holiday which receives little attention but certainly should receive more is Constitution Day, Sept. 17.

The Constitution of the United States was planned not just for the period in which it was drafted, but for all time. And yet we constantly hear that our Constitution is outgrown, outmoded and useless in the present state of "progress."

In our daily life, do we meet our fellow citizens enjoying domestic tranquility or is everyone jittery and disturbed and wondering what lies ahead?

Is our common defense as well protected for us as is the defense of the nations of world, with our best troops policing the rest of the world? Is our general welfare being promoted or is it being ruined by confiscatory taxes used in buying enemies in all countries? Are the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity very secure when we are burdened with confiscatory taxes, none of which return to us, as donors? Are we considering our posterity when we leave them this heritage, not the priceless one of liberty but the staggering debt never to be paid.

Intruder's Target Battles Darkness

The man whose home was invaded by a rampaging Torrance car salesman Tuesday is leading a campaign to light Appian Way and the alley on which his house fronts.

Al Wallbank, of 5315 Appian Way, Saturday had 100 signatures on petitions asking the City Council to put street lighting on the east side of Appian Way and along the alley where homes are located in the 5300- and 5400-block of Appian Way.

Wallbank's home was invaded by the Torrance man, identified by police as Gregory J. Puckett, 24, of 1311 W. 227th St., who did an estimated $6,000 damage in 15 minutes and terrorized Wallkan's wife, Mary, and their daughter, Betty Lou, 13.

. Wallbank and his neighbors say the area sur-founding their homes is unlighted. The intruder, Wallbank said, slipped past several persons in the darkness and got into his home.

"It is so dark along the lane in front of my house that I've accidentally bumped into other people while walking from the garage to my front door," Wallbank said.

More names will be sought on the petitions before the demand is put before the council, he said.

Cuban Deal 'Proof'

By BOB GEIVET

Proof that the United States guaranteed it would not invade Cuba-or permit other hemisphere nations to wage war with Castro's island-was affered to the press by Dr. Noland Frizzelle of Newport Beach, president of the California Republican Assembly.

He called a press conference at Anaheim's Disneyland llotel Friday to back up charges by Congressman William Miller, GOP vice presidential nominee, that there 'a deal with Khrushchev" about Cuba.

The head of the statewide volunteer Republican groups called for repeal of the Rumford housing law by a "yes" vote on Proposition 14, and defeat of the school-bund proposals Nov. 3.

A HALF-CENT sales tax would be "far better" finance the schools than would bonds, he asserted. Various governmental agencies are eveing a half-cent increase of the four-cent sales tax, It's "a cinch" that another half-cent will be added-and it should be for schools, he

Dr. Frizzelle submitted photostatic copies of Soviet Weekly, published in London, Nov. 1, 1962, with the so-called complete text of the Soviet premier's reply Oct. 28, 1962, to then-President Kennedy's letter of the day before demanding Russia's withdrawal from Cuba.

"I REGARD with respect and confidence the statement you have made in your message," Khrushchev wrote to the President, "that there will be no attack and no invasion of Cuba — neither by the United States nor, as you have said in the same message, by any other nations of the Western Hemisphere."

This "guarantee" still is in effect, Dr. Frizzelle said, addthat "it has not been repudiated" by President Johnson.

ASKED FOR details of Kennedy's letter of Oct. 27, 1962, to the Soviet leader, Dr. Frizzelle said he did not have

"It is part of the managed news," he explained.

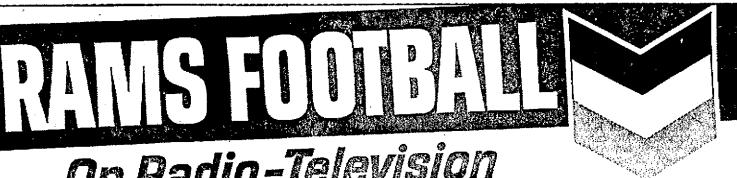

He called for a "yes" vote on Proposition 14, to repeal the Rumford housing act, by charging that "it's not civil rights at stake, but discrimina-

DR. FRIZZELLE asserted that a property owner — or anyone else — "has the right to discriminate" and make his own decisions about how he might dispose of his property.

"The Rumford Act takes away this essential freedom,' he insisted, "and vitiates against us all. It gives the Negro the right to force the issue in the courts, to obtain rights you and I don't have.

"The Negro has the right to a job and a right to a house, but has no right to force it."

In his opinion, the Rum ford law "is not civil rights it is discrimination. Social pressures are the issue, and we must face up to it. The Negroes are trying to browbeat social changes," Warned.

It's Shetland Pony Day

Those old cowhands, Lex Connolly and Cal Winfrey, started something recently that, from all indications, has the sky as its limit.

When the men with the 10-gallon hats named a bull after yours truly during last year's rodeo at Long Beach

Arena, they didn't realize that was the beginning of something big. (By the way, ornery Hurricane Hank remains a terror. Not a cowboy yet-and some 70 have tried-has managed to ride the fearsome critter.)

Then, just last week in faraway Ruidoso Downs, N.M., the good mountain country citizens cheered during the featured "Hank Hollingworth Purse." (Of course, none of the citizens knew for whom they were cheering, but I suspect most had tickets on the winning

Now today, there's another spectacular at Los Alamitos Race Course The Hank Hollingworth Shetland Pony Roadster

Class Championships." If that stops you, let me explain initially that I am NOT going to ride a tiny Shetland, much to the chagrin of James Mangan, currently Long Beach Community Hospital publicist but better known as the man who used to publicize State College's long string of football losses.

HOLLINGWORTH

The Shetland event is being held in conjunction with the Fourth Annual National Benefit Horse Show, which winds up a four-day stand today (9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.). It is sponsored by the Community Hospital Auxiliary.

IT WAS INDEEN an honor to leapfrog into the borse show class, despite the wicked inclinations of Mr. Mangan, who has never forgiven my nickname of "Mausoleum" his favorite college. Like this note from him:

"You have apparently agreed to participate in an event which will have Shetland ponies pulling two-wheeled carts. You have apparently agreed further to participate by driving the cart, leading the pony or driving the pony. "Your thousands of loyal readers who will be on hand will be able to identify you in the miniaturized Ben Hurlike action event because you will be wearing the colors of the stable which supplies your trusty steed. This pony participation is a continuation of a long and illustrious sports career which only recently saw you refuse to ride a bull in a rodeo.

'Congratulations on stepping down in class. In case of accident, if you are still conscious when the ambulance arrives tell the driver to take you to Community Hospital—the Auxiliary Ladies have a fine therapy project for patients on the orthopedics floor.

"P.S.: If you chicken out, maybe one of your daughters will participate."

Nice fellow, that Mangan. Anyhow, I did take his last suggestion. My daughter, Lisa, 10, will be my substitute rider. (Anyway, the SPCA probably would cite me if I dared ride a pony or act Ben Hurish with one of those little fellows:)

MRS. GEORGE MOORE, Auxiliary president, was kinder and more explicit than Mangan.

The naming of this event in your honor was occasioned by several thoughts. We wished to honor someone locally who had an interest in sporting events, and who could be more interested than you. Your keen interest in the Hambletonian made the naming of this particular class after you a natural. This is NOT a race, but there is a similarity in that the ponies are harnessed to a twowheeled cart and the drivers wear stable colors.

You probably have more women readers than you realize, so many of us were aware that you had a hull named for you and had been challenged to ride him, so why not go to the other extreme and have small, gentle ponies competing in your name?"

Why not, indeed? Only I really think I need a middleground-something between a bull and a Shetland. Any ideas, anybody?

AN INTERESTING NOTE to this horse show, informs Mrs. Moore, is that it is entirely organized, staffed and if recent is recently organized. operated by women ("unique in the history of such

Ah, but the ladies can dig their oars (or is it spurs)

"We challenge you," says Mrs. Moore, "to participate by leading the entrants into the ring for this event (either by driving the cart or riding the pony). We hope you accept our invitation to show the public that, given a four-footed animal of proper size and gentleness, you will

I'm afraid of a bull, but afraid for the pony. Thus, my daughter will perform the afternoon's chores (about 3:30 p.m., by the way).

In 1956 Morris also failed to make the team. He was, perhaps, the most unhappy man on the field on both occasions, In 1956 he wept, Saturday he was simply bitterly disappointed.

For Morris, whose lifetime best is 16-51/2, it was a combination of timing troubles and a gusty wind. He couldn't get his step, and to a pole vaulter missing a step is like falling off a cliff. Color him

Brown, on the other hand, was very encouraged with his fourth-place effort in the 10,000. "I felt miserable the last three laps, but I was thrilled with my time." He ran 29:33.6, nearly 20 seconds better than ever before,

The Montana State junior said that he would "cool his heels for two weeks and wait for the coaches' decision," as well as second-place winner Bill Mills'.

Mills also qualified for the marathon and has to choose whether to tun both or concentrate on one event.

All the toil and sacrifice and months, even years, boiled down to this day for U.S. Olympic 10,000-meter candidates. Pete McArdle (5) leads here but finished 6th, failing to qualify. Winner was Gerry Lindgren (8) in 29:02.0, followed by Billy Mills (4) and Ron Larrieu (arrow).

Jones, fastest starter in the business, seemed in control with a yard advantage over the second hurdle, but surprisingly that was ob-literated halfway through, first by Lindgren and then Davenport.

Davenport (13.6) pulled out, Jones (13.6) couldn't quite match it and Lindgren (13.8) faded, but was well in front of Russ Rogers (13.9).

One of the greatest cheers was directed to a thirdplace finisher.

How did you get the "Faintin" tag, Frank?

The Compton football team is like a sleeping giant which soon may arise and cop the Western States Conference title.

The Tartars, who finished fourth last year, are given no better than an outside chance at the loop crown hecause they have just too many question marks.

The big question marks are the offensive and defensive backfields, which boast only three returning lettermen, but there is no doubt that Compton will be solid in the line, with 15 return-

The Tartars are long in experience, but short on depth and it will be up to head coach Chuck Williams to fill the gaps. He will be joined by two new mentors Dallas Moon and Gene Far-rell, both former Long Beach State gridders.

It's Packers in West, Giants in East

As the National Football League season gets under way, the form charts point to the Green Bay Packers and Cleveland Browns as the most likely candidates to gin in the Western Division. A loss for the Browns in this important inter-division contest could well change the entire complexion in the Eastern part of the league.

Inter-division contests are very important. For instance, this season Cleveland draws the Detroit Lions, who have always been a jinx to the Browns, as well as Green Bay. The New York Giants also draw Detroit . . . but get the Minnesota Vikings as their other foe. The other contenders in the East get better

This is not likely to happen again . . . although the Bears should not slip as far as most people think. Their great defensive unit is intact . . . and defense is the name of the game. # Golf, International Sport, Belongs in Olympics States Open golf champion, and Tony Lema, British Open winner, are going to play an exhibition match in Washington in early October for the United States Olympic Fund.

There are at least 7 million golfers in this country. With two class guys setting the example and with the match as a show piece at-tracting national attention, it should not be difficult to persuade the dedicated duffers of America to send a dime or a dollar to the Olympic Committee, raising a kitty that would assure our sweaty youth strawberries in the winter time.

The match could also be a springboard for a movement to have golf included in the Olympic program. There is no reason why it should be one of the few truly international sports left out. Even tennis, vol-

There is room on the Olympic bill for basketball, boxing, canoeing, cycling, riding, fencing, field hockey, gymnastics, judo, rowing, shooting, soccer, swimming, track and field, water polo, weight lifting, wrestling, yachling, skating, skiing, and ice hockey. Not many of these match golf in popularity.

Guys like Venturi and Lema have no personal interest in Olympic recognition, of course, having given up competing for medals some time back. Indeed, they're approaching the point where not even money can interest them. an embarrassing predica-

Going back to Washington, Venturi returns to the scene of his greatest triumphs. The last time the capital saw him he was

Great News for Pacific Flyway

When President Johnson signed Senate bill 793, dedicating four Pacific Coast wildlife refuges primarily to the protection and preservation of waterfowl on the Pacific Flyway, it meant far more than most hunters are able to visualize.

It also marked the finish of a hard and long battle which Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel started three or four years ago in an effort to settle the conflicts between wildlife and agricultural use of water on the Tule Lake, Upper Klamath, Lower Klamath and Clear Lake Wildlife Refuges, which were established originally by presidential order.

The bill requires Secretary of the Interior Udall to regulate water levels in the Tule Lake Refuge in accordance with a 1956 contract with the Tule Lake Irrigation District, at the same time giving maximum consideration to waterfowl management needs.

More than 80% of the Pacific Flyway's waterfowl pass through the Tule-Klamath Refuges on their spring and fall migratory flights. The refuges play an important role in retarding the southbound fall flights until most crops are harvested in California's Central and Imperial Valleys, thereby reducing crop repredations to a minimum. Yet some agricultural interests fought the Kuchel bill for many months. They wanted more drainage of the area for farms and homesteading.

THE GEORGE D. WILLIAMS family is quite a fishing outfit. You may remember that George Sr. caught the first broadbill of the season off Catalina Island on July 12. It weighed 309 pounds and George's two boys, Craig, 8, and George Jr., 10, were very proud of their father's feat. They were on the family boat, Reel George, at the time Since that time the boys have added to the family's laurels. Last weekend Craig caught a marlin that weighed 1151/2 pounds on light tackle in 1 hour, 20 minutes. Then George Jr. got a 134-pounder in 2 hours, 40 minutes, but there's a real story back of that fish.

George Jr. had the fish ready for gaffing within 40 minutes, but dad had bought a new gaff handle, and he couldn't run the boat and make the handle and gaff match. In fact, they didn't match. So he had Junior let the marlin have line while he radioed Clarence S. (Tommy) Thompson, who was fishing nearby on his Tom Tank.

Thompson quickly ran over to the Reel George and loaned them a gaff. By this time the marlin was getting its second wind and putting on a batch of aerial aerobatics. Junior stayed with the fish, however, and finally brought him in tail-wrapped and belly-up.

Oh yes, George Sr. has caught only one marlin for himself. It weighed 1811/2 pounds. He is trying again this weekend off San Diego.

EVEN THOUGH WILLIAMS and Thompson, two of the Southern California Tuna Club's most energetic anglers, say that there are hundreds of marlin out beyond the 43-Fathom Bank and that they feel the fish are working northward, the totals in this area are small, compared with those of last year.

One marlin and one broadbill have been weighed in at the Long Beach Marina Fire Station for the entire season. Only seven fish have been weighed in at the Tuna Club (Avalon). Balboa Angling Club has had a total of 62 fish, caught mostly off and south of Dana Point and fairly close in, but at this time last year BAC had recorded 211

Anglers off San Diego piled up 91 fish at the Marlin Club through the long Labor Day weekend to increase the total there to 226, below last year's fantastic figures.

One of the notable achievements at San Diego over the last weekend was Ray Chanhall's catch of a marlin weighing 1091/2 pounds on three-thread line in 27 minutes. He is a member of the Marlin Club of San Diego.

All the anglers catching or hooking fish at San Diego are not residents of that city. Ninety percent of them are from this area and they virtually live on their boats there every weekend. And they don't keep those boats at the docks: they really spend their time fishing

Workpower TRUCKS FOR 65!

More models, more engines, more Chevy workpower!

That line of Chevy trucks is just as long—and strong—as it looks. It's rolling in for '65 with miles of new working equipment. Like that handsome Fleetside pickup that leads the pack... one of the 18 pickup models in the fine this year.

Further along, you'll find economical Chevy-Vans, a wide selection of walk-in vans, a bigger choice of big trucks, more job-tailored components—frucks built to fit your business and your budget.

And under those Chevrolet hoods you'll find the best in 4- and 6-cylinder, V8 and diesel power, 18 tough truck engines in all including 4 brand-new lower cost diesels. Here's the huskiest bunch of haulers that ever came looking for work!

Our word for all this is workpower. That's the stuff that makes a fruck a real truck. A hard-nosed money-saver. Yes, workpower's here and Chevy's got it, in such a variety of types and sizes that picking the best truck for your job will be easier than it's ever been before. Stock Numbers Plainly Marked on Every Car

Like the boy who cried "Wolf" too often, no one believes the merchant who cries "Sale" 52 weeks a year. We would rather do it once a year and have it mean something to the customer and ourselves.

This is a combination sale of brand new cars and demonstrators. Every car carries the full factory warranty. Sale prices include everything except California's 4% sales tax and license fees.

Every car is equipped with automatic transmission, radio, tinted glass, wheel covers and whitewall tires. All cars have heater-defrosters. Most of the cars have considerably more equipment.

Sale prices apply to these 30 Buicks, only, and are good until Sunday, September 20th. Every car is ready for immediate delivery and is offered on a first come first served basis.

Voting for LBJ in Ala. Is Tough

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)-It will be difficult to vote for President Johnson in Alabama this November.

Judging from the sentiment one hears most often from mined and organized write-in both politicians and voters, it campaign with everyone vot-would make little difference ing for the same electors for whether the President were on the Alabama ballot.

The decision reached Aug. 31 by Gov. George Wallace's electors were chosen over a impledged Democratic presidential electors to stay on the ballot rather than resign virtually assured the voters. They wouldn't get a chance to pick between the President and Sen. Barry Goldwater.

GREEK MONARCH WEDS ON FRIDAY

Young King to Have Youngest Queen

By PHILIP DOPOULOS

ATHENS, Greece (A)-A handsome young Mediterranean king—the world's youngest monarch and a teen-age princess from a Viking land will be married Friday in a storybook romance clouded by the Cyprus war threat.

Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark and King Constantine of Greece will exchange vows before a glittering assemblage of kings and queens, princes and princesses, nobles, diplomats and churchmen in a hyzantine ceremony. President Johnson has designated his elder daughter, Lynda Bird, as one of his personal representatives at the wedding.

More than a million spectators-Greeks, visiting Danes, and other foreign tourists-are expected to fill Athens to cheer the couple along the wedding route as they enter their new life in a golden horsedrawn carriage.

WITH LESS THAN a week to go, wedding fever is rising fast. And no wonder. For besides linking Greece and Denmark in an historic union, the mar riage will blend storybook traditions of royalty and romance with ultra-modern glamor.

It will turn a lovely, soft-spoken 18-year-old girl into the world's youngest queen-for the world's youngest king. Constantine is 24. In today's workaday world of diminished royalty, any blue-blood wedding is enough of a novelty in itself to attract worldwide attention, But there has never been a royal wedding quite like this. Anne-Marie and Constantine belong as much to the glamor magazines to today as to the history books of tomorrow.

EVEN IF SHE weren't a princess, Anne-Marie has the kind of lithe, Scandinavian good looks that turns heads. Constantine is a rugged black-haired youth who smiles easily, handles a race car like a pro and walked away from the 1960 Rome Olympics with a gold medal in yachting. Their life as king and queen won't be all gla-mour by any means. Greece is caught up in the grim, dangerous Cyprus problem that could plunge the country into war with Turkey.

The king's powers are limited but he is the armed forces' commander-in-chief and appoints prime ministers in times of political crisis.

In this country, the king is no mere figurehead and even Constantine's strongest admirers acknowledge that 24 is very young for the job. In the king's absence the queen may be appointed regent to act for him, a tricky job requiring diplomacy and tact.

FOR ALL THEIR evident pleasure with Anne-Marie as fiancee for their king, Greeks will be watching her more critically after she becomes Constantine's mother, Frederika, was often criticized when she was queen. Not a few of her subjects thought she meddled in politics beyond her rights. In this country popular objections to royal ways can have more than academic meaning, In the last century the Greeks have thrown out monarchs from time to time.

But matters of state lie ahead. Now it's the wedding that counts here. In the elegant salons and the clipped formal gardens of the Athens palace there will be parties and balls for the titled and the privileged invited by the royal families. There also will be two open-air receptions given by the Greek royal family for the public.

If there won't be room for everybody - and there probably won't be-the others can toast the couple with glasses of throat-scorching retsina, the resin-spiked wine served in the popular taverns of

The wedding will take place in Athens' Orthodox Cathedral, under the shadow of the Parthenon.

APL to Put Another Ship Into Service

in accordance with American President Lines' policy to offer regular and dependable service to shippers, the purchase of a cargoliner by the company for use during an interim period in trans-Pacific service has been announced by APL President George Killion.

The cargoliner, to be named SS President Harding, will join the APL fleet of 24 ships, including three passenger

It will operate between West Coast ports and Japan, Korga, Okinawa, Taiwan, Hong Kong and the Philippines. Formerly the SS Gulf Shipper, the ship has been in service between ports on the Gulf Coast of the U. S. and South America.

THE NEED for an additional cargo-carrying ship came with the retirement from service of the passenger liner President Hoover. The President Harding will serve API. for approximately three years when she will be replaced by a new cargoliner of advanced design that will be under construction in the next year.

APL's new President Harding is scheduled to arrive in the San Francisco bay area in you get to Lima, be sure to met and shook the hand of look up General Pizarro."

I remembered this urging from Harry Frishman, Long Beach traveler extraordinario to Latin countries of the Americas, as Panagra's big DC8* swung in from 34,000 feet over the white-tipped Andes and began dipping its

Now we were on the runway of Lima/Callao Airport. The great engines taxied the Long Beach-made bird to the airport entrance and were cut off. Almost before we knew it we were rolling by bus to the Gran Hotel Bolivar in the heart of the city.

One does not have to look for General Pizarro, He is everywhere on the lips of history of this, perhaps the most Spanish, capital in South America; for it was Pizarro who founded Lima to make it the seat of the viceroy and center of Spain's power in the new Lima also lies astride the old Inca empire, and had it not been for the Incas, Pizarro's name might never have bobbed up on the pages of history.

PIZARRO, from what I can gather, was little more than a hold and greedy soldier of fortune who, having heard of the Incas' fabled fortune in gold, entered Incaland at a most propitious time-when the two ruling brothers were feuding. With 200 soldiers, he ambushed one of the brothers and then proceeded from the north of Cuzco (now about 31/2 hours by autocarril from Lima) to meet the other. Huascar was so pleased to hear of Atahaulpa's death that he welcomed Pizarro as his ally, Instead, Pizarro looted Cuzco of its treasures, made the Indians his slaves, and eventually founded Lima,

(Lima became known as the "City of Kings" because its site was chosen on Jan. 6, the feast of the Wise Men or Three Kings.)

And so, as Harry Frishman had said, no one comes not much money. Any to Lima without looking up

> I found him in the Cathedral of Lima, facing the Plaza de Armas, which is the main square in this city of 2 million people, and the site the famous conquistador selected as the nucleus of his town. His mummified remains rest somewhat nervously inside a glass coffin. A bronze lion, symbol of the Castilian family, sits on top of the glass case as if to guard the gnarled bones. Holding up the case are statuettes of Indians crying for their conquerer. Under "Capitan General Don Francisco Pizarro, Founded Lima Jan. 18, 1535. Died 1541."

GROUPED ABOUT the Plaza de Armas are buildings in which Peruvian history has been made, and certainly is being made today. Among these is the elegantly baroque Government Palace, whose original foundation, like that of the Cathedral, was laid by Pi-

LIMA, PERU-"When zarro. It was here that I President Fernando Belaunde Terry, a Peruvian engineer graduated from the University of Texas, a man deeply pro-United States who is making tremendous strides to give his country solid economy and to make his people literate and self-supporting.

In the Palace I sat in a chair that was Pizarro's, but this gave me no particular urge to go out and conquer anything or anybody. And I stood under a fig tree in one of the patios of the gleaming white palace which was planted by the General.

THIS ONE-TIME capital of all the Spanish colonies of South America is today one of the loveliest metropolises anywhere. Paved streets and tree-lined avenucs have replaced rough cobblestone thoroughfares, but ancient names linger on. A street named Espaderos, for example, recalls the fact that Spanish sword makers once fashioned and sold their wares there: the street of Siete Pecados (seven sins) was famous as the abode of seven ladies of leisure; and the street of Mata Siete (kill seven) owes its name to a tale of murder. However, Lima's "Fifth Avenue" is Jiron Union, about seven blocks long, linking the Plaza de Armos with another famous square, the Plaza San Martin.

On Jiron Union the tourist can buy anything from llama slippers to the finest silverware, exquisite handloomed fabrics, costumed dolls and other Peruvian articles at bargain prices. Here, too, are theaters and tea rooms jammed with friendly Peruvians.

A DRIVE through Lima is a delight. Austere homes of another era, venerable colonial churches and Moorish arches contrast artistically with modernistic homes. apartment houses and skyscrapers. If you go by taxi, you may well be jostling along in an American car of ancient vintage, its body badly dented but its motor humming happily (I saw at least two Model A Fords on taxi row, and both were flitting about with the vitality of a young Pizarro).

If you go in for sports, you may have your choice of cockfights at the Coliseo, bullfights in the Plaza de Acho, soccer games at the National Stadium, polo matches at the elegant Country Club, or horseracing at the new Hipodromo

There is a multitude of gay nightclubs, such as Pigalle where the strip is on. Restaurants are mediocre to elegant. We lunched at Las Trece Monedas, declared by world travelers to be one of the five finest in South America. Here, as elsewhere, you may order the Pisco sour, Peru's most popular and fashionable drink whose base is a delicious local brandy. It can kick hard!

Pisco sours, unfortunately, were discovered after Pizarro came to rest in his glass case. Otherwise, who knows, the Incas still might be ruling the roost in Peru,

Travelers, commuters, natives and newcomers—chancing to look up from their world of push buttons and status symbols—have long pondered the wondrous beauty of East Long Beach's tree-shrouded hacienda on the hill.

Few contemporaries have set foot on its historic, unspoiled grounds.

For Rancho Los Alamitos—or Bixby Ranch, as it is more often called—is today a world apart.

As if to rise above the incessant roar of today's mechanized society, it stands aloof, a hauntingly beautiful shrine to the wealth and beauty that IS California—and to the men who swept West to fulfill it.

For here are Southern California's deepest roots — some pushing their way through the earth's surface, exposing their age-old strength, producing a magnificent fusion of yesteryear and today.

ONE OF FIVE homes on the Women's Architectural League Home Tour, the historic landmark next Sunday will—for the first time—open its gates to the rush of modern man.

To browse through the 19-room ranch house, to plod through its now-deserted stables and barns, to stroll through the many lush gardens is to relive the romance of early-day California.

The beholder feels the spell and, suddenly, understands what makes California more than a fertile frontier, a booming economic giant, a sunny playground.

For here there has been magic union, a rendezvous between man and nature.

THE HISTORIC domain on the hilitop off E. Seventh Street has, for 14 years, been "managed" by jovial, gregarious George J. Salzer of the Ranch Co. (If he had a title, it would be "manager," says he, but in the casual way of the Bixbys, beloved by employes and friends, nobody ever bothered to give him a title.)

For more than 80 years—longer than Long Beach has been a city—it has been the home, the livelihood, the life of the Bixby family.

First part of a vast Spanish land grant, the original 26,600-acre spanse was, in earlier days, owned by Don Manuel Nieto (he built the original adobe house in 1784), Jose Figueroa, California governor, Don Abel Steams, and an investor or two.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bixby (he was a former school teacher) and their 18-month-old son, Fred, moved into the long unoccupied Alamitos ranch house in 1877. The adobe structure, regarded as the oldest residential landmark in the vicinity of long Beach, was "almost a ruin" when Bixby successfully undertook its rehabilitation and improvement of the grounds.

In 1906, after death of his mother, Fred H. Bixby and wife (Florence Green), moved into the old adobe with their three children (soon to be four, later five).

THE FAMILY STORY unfolds colorfully at one strolls through house and grounds.

There's the original adobe house with its 3-foot walls (front part of present home)... the massive wardrobe built, carved and mirrored by John Bixby ("pretty good for a school teacher," he's reported as saying)... the lamp made from an old cider jar by a ranch hand for Mrs. John Nicht.

And there's the massive, carved billiard table the elder Bixby ordered from the east as a gift for the YMCA. (The YM refused it on the grounds "it would corrupt our youth." Result: All members of the Bixby clan have been expert billiard players.)

THERE'S THE steady succession of additions—the living room, the parlor, the library and the dining room (all with fireplaces) . . . a couple of kitchens, a mess hall for ranch hands, the milk room, pantries, and an unending parade of bedrooms (I lost count), many with their own sitting

The story is that Fred Bixby built bedrooms as the children were born. When the rambling structure hit the tank house, they quit having children. "It's too expensive to tear down the tank house," Bixby is quoted as saying.

In the dining room is a massive, glass-smooth cherry wood sideboard referred to by the family as "father's folly."

Be an Informed Voter

NOT an impossibility.

And, NOT being informed is certainly a lame excuse Tor failing to east a ballot.

The League of Women Voters is out to see that no one can fall back on such rationalization when it comes to the next election.

To do so they've put out two boks to clear the way to understanding our electoral system.

The first, "California Voter's Handbook," gives the newest information on what services various levels of government provide, how much government costs and how citizens can control government through electoral process.

Included are requirements 1940. for voting, election infor-mation, political party in-many objective articles on

Encourage West to Err

South was pleased with West's diamond opening. He played the ten from dummy and then East followed with the five, South quickly played the queen. He was able to make this play quickly because he worked out the whole play of the hand before playing from dummy.

Then he entered dummy with a spade and played the deuce of clubs and finessed his jack, West won with the king of clubs and led a second low diamond. West thought that South had started with the ace and queen of diamonds alone. West's friendly play allowed South to make 10 tricks.

WEST REALLY should not have fallen for the falsecard. He should have realized that even if South held a doubleton diamond that the diamond return would give South nine tricks. If West wanted to beat the hand, it was up to him to lead the heart king. He should have made this shift, but did not.

However, if South had saved his queen of diamonds at trick one, West would have seen that the continued attack on the diamond suit was hopeless and almost surely would have found the heart shift.

Hyatt, Allen

Three flower girls, attired in yellow Irish linen and carrying daisies, preceded Geraldine Allen down the aisle of Neighborhood Church, Palos Verdes Estates, when she became the bride of Lawrence Alian Hyatt Thursday evening.

The bride wore white em-broldered linen designed with a short train and overskirt. Daisies fashioned her headpiece from which fell a short veil of silk illusion, At-tired in olive green linen with fresh daisies in their hair were her sister, Christine Allen; bridesmaids, Dee-Dee Watkins and Donna Ferrante. The flower girls were her cousins, Janet Burns, Miraleste, and Susie and Wendy Lagerstrom, Palo Alto.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother, Greg Hyatt. Groomsmen were the bride's brother, Fred Allen Jr., and John Hendricks.

Parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Allen of Rolling Hills received 150 guests during the reception at the church. Among the guests were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hyatt, Placentia, and his sisters, Jill and Wendy.

.. Auditions will take place to fill openings in the orchestra for union and nonunion musicians.

College and senior high school musicians who have orchestra experience are especially invited, since one of the important services the symphony performs for the community is the offering of an opportunity for orfessional quality to young people. Among the musicians who started with the symphony as student players are many who have since graduated to professional orchestras.

THE SYMPHONY will play 14 concerts during the fall and winter season, including two regular series, youth concerts, and a special debut concert for winners of the Long Beach Student Auditions. Rehearsals are held Monday evenings at 7:45 p.m. at 350 E. Ocean Blvd.

Among guest artists who will appear with the orchestra during the season are Camilla Wicks, violinist; Luboshutz and Nemenoff, duo-pianists: the Marmon week, at the Center Harbor festival of modern music, there was a piece by Pauline Oliveros named Trio for Flute, Piano and Page Turner. That pleased a lot of us. They say that when a musician does not make it, he becomes a critic. Perhaps, but many also become page turners-the lost children, the unsung, dedicated, forgotten specialists who (we think) have lived under the shadow of the concert artist for too long.

"PART OF THE joys of incessant concert-going is studying page turners. They come in all sizes, and the lanky-long-armed ones are Choir of Southern Califor- generally best fit for the job. nia; Julien Musafia, pianist, Just as dramatic sopranos > and flick the page. "The best page turners have a poker face. Never do they let the audience know what they are thinking. Less experienced ones leave no doubt, They tap their feet in rhythm, they even count along, their lips forming a silent one and two and three. When a difficult passage comes up, they tense. When the passage is conquered, they relax. Often this kind of empathy is transmitted to the audience.

> "Page turning is not easy. It demands flair, a certain kind of savoir faire, What a pleasure to watch a real professional at work! His arm snakes out, thumb and forefinger extended. The top of the page is deftly turned, snaked over and smoothes, in the easy, consecutive, flowing motion of Tony Lema following through with a 5-iron shot. This feeling of unruffled confidence security comes of course, from years of experience.

"THE SUPREME test of a page turner is when he is required to handle string parts at the same time he is at the pianist's side, and it is here that specialists are unique. At precisely the proper moment they rise from the far side of the piano and levitate, wrathlike, to the cello. The page seems to flip of its own accord, and then the turner is back at the piano, nobody in the audience any the wiser.

"Anyway, Pauline Oliveros with her new composition for piano, flute and page turner has struck a blow for the cause of a misunderstood art. Perhaps, if the work enjoys success, she will follow it with a work for five page turners and no instrumentalists."

Adams is a valued figure in the local art scene: he is chairman of the art department at Poly High as well as an instructor in evening classes at LBCC. A member of the California Watercolor Society, he is also an active participant in the Long Beach Art Association.

HAPPILY, Adams "took this summer off to paint," and this show is the en-chanting result. While he is an abstract painter, the most realistic viewer will feel the expressiveness of these works from Nature and her seasons

"Enveloping Light" is in a technique employed earlier by Adams—a pattern of short brushstrokes in small rectangles of lozenges of harmonious color, this one in golds to rich henna. With this exception, Adams appears to have moved into a freer, less tightly conceived mode, using a variety of brush widths.

ACTUALLY, these works resemble music or poetry in their composition with harmonies, rhythms, themes echoed, and the whole canvas as an instrument "Green Countermotion" is played in leafy greens to blues to tans, with color laid over color,

His "Earth Cycle" series are in rollicking and explosive strokes, laying on rich pools of pigment. While *I" is mustard and mauve, "#2" is yellow golds and greens; "#3" gives a sense of gorgeous color, though the browns, blucs, and beiges are greved.

Adams combines drippy wet with dry strokes, thin strokes and thick ones, sometimes, a pensive calligraphy. He evidently enjoyed his summer and the viewer will enjoy his re-

Fashion definitely wasn't at a standstill when Buffums opened its newly renovated third floor Saturday night— but the models were!

They didn't slither and slink like models do, or drag minks down the ramp. They didn't even bat a false eyelash (not very often, anyway).

Instead, the store's 10 statuesque statues of style stood stalk-still on strategically placed pedestals throughout the store.

This effective new innovation in fashion modeling was all part of the show for Symphony Juniors' benefit champagne party which formally launched Buffums' new

WHILE THE real live mannequins stared off into space (blinking only occasionally!), the ambulatory audience enjoyed taking over in the action department.

They scurried from this model to that, blinked approval, examined price tags and donned specs for closeup views of fabrics and furnishings, At intervals they lounged on the tufted velvet banquette that serves as base for the Designer Circle's spectacular new brass and crystal chandelier, shaped like a palm tree and reminiscent of Nash's columns at the Royal Pavillion in Brighton, England.

MEANWHILE, mannequins were busy turning themselves off and on, alternating be-tween frozen stance (three minutes) and hurried wardrobe changes, community where it seems to be the custom for the married men to have "a night out with the boys." Milton and I have never gone anywhere in the evenings without each other and we don't intend to start now.

When Milton was invited to join this "night out" group, he politely declined and now it's all over town that he is "hen-pecked."

wanted to, but he doesn't care to. How can I get this across without sounding holier than thou? I don't want to make any enemies.—ANNOYED.

DEAR ANNOYED: Don't try. The truth seldom requires an affidavit. If a man is NOT hen-pecked he doesn't have to crow about it.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married 12 years and have four lovely children. My husband travels and we have nothing in common anymore. We've only stayed together because of the children.

One night three months ago, due to car trouble, some friends and I went into a night club about 35 miles from home. A band was playing there, I took one look at one of the musicians and my heart did a flip flop. At intermission he came right to our table and started talking to me. He said he saw me come in and he liked my looks. Abby, I've gone back there almost every night. I drive 70 miles just to sit and talk to him for the few minutes he has during breaks. For the first time since my marriage I haven't been able to get another man out of my mind. We've talked about our marriages. His isn't any good either, and he is just sticking around because of his children, too. I've only seen him at this establishment, and all we've done so far is talked. I know this sounds crazy, but I am very much in love with him. The craziest part is that I've checked up on him and I've found out that he is a liar, I hate liars, but it doesn't seem to change my feelings for him. I know he's no good but I love him. I can't help how'l feel. It doesn't make sense, is there something wrong with me?--NEEDS HELP.

DEAR NEEDS: There is nothing wrong with you that hasn't been temporarily wrong with millions of other people. What you feel is not "love"-it's a strong physical attraction. It doesn't respond to logic, so don't try to figure it out. You may not be able to help how you "feel"-but you CAN help how you behave. Quit seeing this liar and save yourself and several in-nocent people a peck of heartaches.

Tickets for next Sunday's Home Tour, sponsored by the Women's Architectural League, Long Beach District, will be available at the five tour homes. They can be visited in any order.

Only the Bixby Ranch will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; hours for other exhibited homes will be 12 noon to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Arthur V. Hoyer, president of the local chapter, says proceeds from the annual event will go for architectural scholarships at the University of Southern California and to the civic beautification committee of the Women's Division, L.B. Chamber of Commerce, to further its pro-

VARIETY IS the keynote of homes selected for this year's tour.

The David Grand residence, in Huntington Harbour, duly oriented to a landscaped atrium, has a sweeping view of the surrounding water and offers a new dimension to Southern California living.

The beauty of Japan is captured in the Park
Estates home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Donald Locke. The owners, who have traveled widely in the Orient, have brought the serenity and atmosphere of Japan to California with sweeping lines, Shoji screens, Japanese black pines-even a Japanese garden complete with swimming pool and tea

Luxurious spaciousness sets the atmosphere for the rambling contemporary estate home of the Dr. Harry Johnsons, Lakewood, designed for an artistically inclined family. Built on an acre of ground, encompassing a building area of 6,000 so, ft., the home has a magnificent view of the golf course, an interior garden and swimming pool recreation area.

A low cantilevered roof projection over the entry walk presents an invitation to enter the HURTINGTON HARBOR Norman Gottlieb residence, also in Lakewood. A glass-walled living room, deliberately undraped, allows full viewing of a specially landscaped

He 'Kits' Around A Lot

By MILDRED K. FLANARY

He's in the trailer manufacturing business-NOT a producer of aluminum foil or rooster decals. Today's Chef of the Week Thomas G. Fagan, is vice president of Kit Manufacturing Co., which, by the way, maintains three plants.

Shure he's Irish — his grandparents (all four of them) are from the County Meath in Ireland.

Fagan's debut in the realm of trailers, seems rather ambiguous. For he actually has the potential of a writer-AND an entertainer, as well. In fact, he even went so far as to earn a bachelors degree in journalism from the University of Missouri.

FAGAN was born in Pueblo, Colo., but remained there only a few years before going to Colorado Springs, where he completed both grammar and high school. It was there, also, that his writing career began, as a reporter on the Colorado Springs Gazette.

He also boosted the college hudget by accumulating an orchestra of his own. His idol was Harry Owens, who, at that time, was playing at the Antier's Hotel at "The Springs." He could imitate Owens to perfection.

Upon graduation from college, the writing bug still pursued him, and, for a time, he wrote radio scripts and programs.

And then -he took the real ascent. He went to Chicago and joined the Braniff of the clean-up brigade. Air Lines.

HIS KNOWLEDGE of the air stood him well, for World War II happened, and Fagan joined the Naval Air, per-forming most of his duty with the Atlantic Fleet, He took an indoctrination course at Darimouth College, and while there, he found a friend in Whizzer White, the All-American Athlete, who later became a member of the Kennedy official family.

After his release from the Navy, Fagan pursued yet another field-that of refrigeration. He became sales manager of a refrigerator company, specializing in selling the "cold boxes" to trailer manufacturers. And then , he met the president of caps or 12 medium size. the Kit Manufacturing Co., and sold himself, as well.

Aside from his local duties, Fagan is president of the National Trailer Coach Association, and vice president of the Trailer Coach Association of the West. These obligations, plus two Long Beach, for 450 guests. The couple's recent high Kit plants, snugly located in the States of Kansas and noon wedding was solem-Idaho, keen him in transit nized at the Los Angeles

THE FAGAN family consists of Mrs. F. (Margaret), daughters, Margaret Ann, a student at UCLA; Cathy of Poly High, and Tommy, 11, who attends Longfellow. And-not to be overlooked, Bismark, the dog.

DEAR MRS, MAYFIELD:

I was married at 18, mostly because of unwanted pregnancy, and I have had four years of pure hell.

My husband has hit me (I told people I had fallen); he gives me five dollars occasionally and keeps the rest of the money for himself; he is drunk a great part of the time. I keep my house clean and our two children spotless; I have home cooked meals (nothing in cans and no "prepared" foods) because that is what he likes. I never get a compliment or a "thanks," just criticism about everything.

I have been sick lately and the doctor says it's nervous tension. Pm not surprised! I think in his way he loves me. I have no feeling-I don't love him, nor

Thinking of Selling? Here are 10 Reasons why you should list your home for sale with

LARGE SALES FORCE,

Walker & Lee has more than 250 full-time professional sales people selling residential properties in this area. They meet more potential buyers for your home.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING.

Walker & Lee does a large volume of advertising in the Los Angeles, Long Beach and Orange County newspapers for your

REPEAT CUSTOMERS.

It is only natural that people who have bought a home from Walker & Lee will think of Walker & Lee when they're ready to buy another home. Some clients have bought as many as six homes from Walker & Lee. Their seventh home could be yours.

FINANCING.

Every Walker & Lee salesman is kept completely informed on all the latest trends in financing. This helps insure a trouble-free escrow and therefore a faster sale,

SALES CONTROL SYSTEM.

Walker & Lee maintains a system which keeps you completely informed on the progress being made in selling your home. We tell you how many times your home is being shown, what prospective buyers are saying about it, and the price opinions of observative buyers are saying about it, and the price opinions of observative people who evaluate your property in the light of today's market. You know what is happening and why — this hastens the sale of your home . . . a service sellers appreciate.

We have developed a successful system of trading homes. If you are purchasing a home, we can take your present home in trade, with a good chance that you will require no additional cash. Even if you don't need another home, your buyer may have one to sell or trade.

REFERRALS.

We refer prospects from one office to another. A referred prospect could buy your home.

OUR SALESMEN.

The main factor in the success of Walker & Lee lies in a truly professional sales staff. Our continuous training program develops the high level of ability of the Walker & Lee staff . . . from the newest member to the most seasoned veteran. Our salesmen offer you the maximum in service and integrity.

THE MAN IN MANAGEMENT.

Walker & Lee managers are hand-picked. Their capacity for leadership and loyalty to the client has been demonstrated many times. They are available 24 hours a day for any assistance that may be needed to close the sale of your home.

10. WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Walker & Lee is the best-known name in real estate in Southern California. The Walker & Lee insignia is the symbol of integrity and dependability for many thousands of buyers who automatically look for the "Double Diamonds."

NEXE WEEK

New frontiers for man's exploration lie beneath the sea and in the depths may lie the answer to problems of food, fuel and mineral supplies—among other necessities—in the world of the future. Strange vehicles and structures to traverse the sea and for man to exist deep in Neptune's realm are beginning to emerge from the planning board. For some idea of now and the future, afloat and subsea, read "Welrd Ships Explore World's Hostile Deeps" in next week's Southland Magazine.

SOME of the mystery and high drama of a movie thriller surrounded the birth of our atomic age 20 years ago-Sept. 18, 1944, It was on that date that President Franklin D. Roosevelt, after a conference with Winston Churchill, scribbled his approval to a now-historic memo. It read: "When (this) bomb is finally available, It might perhaps—after mature consideration — be used against the Japanese."

There it was-the first official hint that a mystery bomb of unknown power was being developed. One implication was clear; that the bomb-whatever its nature-would be completed too late to drop on German armies and citles.

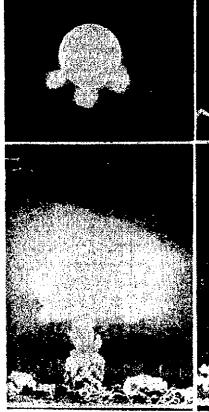

Unsurprisingly, in Warhington, D. C., the world's most politically conscious city, there erupted a fresh spate of rumors, speculation, and whispering. For, incredible as it may seem, Congress itself had been kept in the dark concerning the steps being taken to develop a bomb of tremendous destructive power!

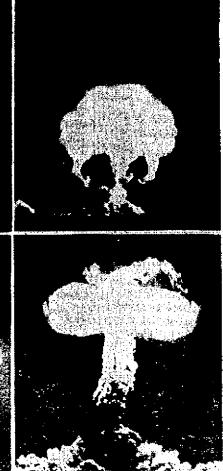

IT TOOK ONE with FDR's political skill and persuasive powers to bring that off. Confidential chats with Dr. Albert Einstein and Dr. Vannevar Bush, as well as other highly respected scientists, had convinced him that an atom bomb could, in time, be developed.

But how effective would it prove to be? Only a test of the completed bomb would reveal the answer to that.

FDR reasoned-and the scientists and military experts agreed with him-that utmost secrecy would be necessary to insure the success of such a project. His enormous prestige at that time made it possible for him to promote a specialand secret — presidential fund for use in developing the A-bomb. More remarkable, the "appropriation" amounted to two billion dollars!

There followed a quiet launching of the shroudedin-secrecy Manhattan Project—a project directed by Lt. Gen. Leslie Groves, That meant full speed ahead on what has since been called "the biggest gamble in world history." Out of it came a homb which was destined to change the course of history, end the Pacific War, and plunge our world chin deep into the challenges, opportunities, tensions, and dangers of the Atomic Age.

When terrifying flames of the atom bomb were unleashed in World War II, the atom era came of age. This later blast depicts its awesome powers.

planning and development rations were being made to of the atom bomb: Dr. Albert Einstein, Dr. Vannevar Bush, Arthur Compton, Enrico Fermi, Ernest Lawrence, and J. Robert Oppenheimer.

FDR knew at the time of his death-on April 12, 1945 that an A-bomb would "be ready for its first test with-in a few months." Vice President Harry Truman, on the other hand, had no knowledge of it! He learned about it-including how much progress had been made in perfecting it - on the night that he took the oath as president.

At the close of a hastily called White House cabinet meeting (soon after FDR's death), Secretary of War Henry Stimson remained behind for a confidential talk with Truman. Stimson confided this piece of startling news: "Mr. President, you should know that we're developing a weapon of enormous destructive power. Our scientists describe it as the atom boinb. This explains the secrecy surround-test the new bomb in the New Mexico desert. He mentioned "early summer" as the target date for that, Thus the full implication of FDR's memo - "this bomb might perhaps be used against the Japanese"—hit an already overwhelmed Harry Truman with dramatic impact.

An interim committee was quickly set up to advise Truman of progress being made on the A-bomb project. Most of his advisers were scientists and military experts. Almost immediately some of them--especially scientific experts -- expressed opposition to the idea of using the atomic bomb against Japan.

BUT SOME OTHERS notably Secretary of War Henry Stimson, Army Chief of Staff Gen, George Marshall, and Lt. Gen. Leslie Groves, head of the Manhattan Project -- strongly favored hitting Japan with the full force of the awesome new weapon. Caught al decision" would have to be his.

Then came the Potsdam Conference in mid-summer of 1945-a summit meeting attended by Prime Minister Winston Churchill, Labor Leader Clement Attiee, Joseph Stalin of Russia, and President Truman. While it was going on, a piece of electrifying news reached Truman.

It was that the mighty atom bomb had been exploded in the desert near Alamorgordo, N. M. Confidential accounts described it as "terrifying and unbelievable in its destructive power."

Almost casually Truman told Joseph Stalin that he now had an A-homb in his arsenal. Thus he left the Russian dictator in doubt as to whether he'd use it against the Japanese. To Winston Churchill, however. he confided that his final decision "probably would be in the affirmative."

Following this win last January, she journeyed to Innsbruck, Austria, where she represented the United States in the Olympic figure skating competitions. Millions of Americans watched Peggy's graceful, slender figure via national television as she performed an intricate, ballet -like dance on ice and won sixth place.

"Wearing the red, white and blue emblem of our country and being its representative was the thrill of a lifetime," Peggy said.

PEGGY HAS been a winner since she began skating at the age of 9. Capturing her first Pacific Coast title that same year, she won another two years later at Squaw Valley, scene of the 1960 Olympics. At that site, watching the preparations underway for the worldwide competitions, Peggy's ambition to become a champion was resolved,

Much Ado With Lids

By Ruth C. Ikerman

NE OF the joys of grocery shopping these days is the fun of finding old favorites in new packages, such as a metal coffee can with a plastic lid. Such packages provide free hobby materials, and there are many things to do with lids.

For one thing you can paint the can itself pink, blue or yellow to match your kitchen, and through the plastic lid you can see at a glance which kind of cereal or dried fruit you are storing inside it. Paint some green and paste daffodil or gladiolus pictures on the lids and use them to store such bulbs.

The material is pliable enough so that a darning needle with six strand thread can be drawn through it, and yet it is durable enough not to tear if embroidery stitches are add-ed to apply initials to make it usable as a club badge. Or apply numerals with colored adhesive tape.

INSERT YARN or ribbon through a hole cut near the top of the lid, and tie several such circles to a plant used as table centerpiece. If for a baby shower, paste pictures of children on the lightweight plastic, allowing the rim to act as a "frame."

Use spray paint on the lids and while they are wet sprinkle them with "glitter" in rainbow colors of silver or gold, such as is used at Christmastime or for New Year parties, and you have baubles to hang from a manzanita branch for a buffet centerpiece.

Paste wallpaper designs in the center of six lids to create a set of doll plates for a five-year-old housewife. Or let her make her own gift for grandparents by splashing the lids with her paints and turning them into water glass coasters.

POKE HOLES in the lids and then put stems of varicolored plastic flowers down through them, and the lid becomes a lightweight but firm base for nosegays or corsages. They may be cut to smaller size by frimming with scissors, colored and strung on yarn for a costume lei.

Paste a larger circle of figured silk or cotton material beneath to make small pin trays for a dresser. Or add ribbon at the edge and an artificial flower in the center as an attractive holder for bobby pins.

Infinite are the uses of the free materials which come with the interesting packages which stock grocery shelves today,

Los Angeles County Fair Takes on Sparkling Look:

'Tomorrow, Today'

By HARRY HOFMANN

WITH THE sparkling look of "Tomorrow, Today," Southern California's major fall attraction, the Los Angeles County Fair, is packed with excitement and ready to burst into a 17-day fun-filled festival.

The most spectacular and enlightening presentation in the 37-year history of the world's largest county fair begins Friday. The exposition this year is displayed before a continuous round of thrilling entertainment and diversion highlighted by hundreds of new and different exhibits.

Long Beach will be saluted with special events on Friday, Sept. 25. Included will be the Long Beach Purse to be run during the pari-mutuel horse racing program and a band concert by the Long Beach Municipal Band.

Free grandstand shows, including a hootenamy starring the Serendipity Singers, a comedy show with the Three Stooges and the Polack Bros. Circus, are planned, as are hundreds of different free community enterlainment features.

OF GREAT INTEREST to fair-goers is the mile-long scenic monorail, part of tomorrow's world today.

More than 40,000 exhibits and dramatic displays present a truly remarkable cross-section of agricultural, industry, cultural and space age achievements all as new as tomorrow and emphasizing the fair's theme, "Tomorrow, Todav."

A new feature of the fair this year is Science, U. S. A., a display of man's progress in space through science. America's top space age industries will feature their latest developments in this rapidly growing field with emphasis on space achievements.

Twenty major divisions of the fair—each an exhibition in Itself—are spread over the 487-acre exposition park with its 200 permanent buildings. The huge Counties Building is overflowing with prize products of the harvest and wealth of natural resources contributed by a hundred California counties, communities and organizations. A premier livestock show has the cream of the flocks and herds of the West.

MORE THAN 6,000 examples of women's handiwork are displayed in the Domestic Arts Building. Bringing the past to the present is a special feature of the fair this year—a complete millinery shop. The shop, restored after more than 40 years, is believed to be the only completely original millinery store in existence.

The latest in appliances, furnishings, decor and conveniences go on display in the Commercial Exhibits Building,

The cultural phase of the fair is displayed for visitors

Horse racing has long been a top attraction at Los Angeles County Fair, and upcoming Fair—Sept. 18 through Oct. 4—will be no exception. There will be thoroughbred, harness and quarter horse competition.

in the Fine Arts Building; shared by the International Photographic Exhibition and arts and crafts, the latter demonstrated daily by creative designers in a special exposition feature, "Art in Action."

THE INTERNATIONAL Building brings the flavor of foreign lands to Southern California in a gesture of good-will and better world relations.

Always a popular feature of the fair is the activity in the Sports Plaza where fans are entertained by water sports experts.

There is the Junior Fair for the younger set and for the tiny tots the fair offers the now famous Story Book Farm where the land of children's imaginations comes to life.

The 37th edition is a giant exposition featuring something for everyone. There is so much to see and do that it is actually impossible to view the entire fair in one day.

OUTSTANDING, but often missed features of the fair include the gay Mexican Village, steeped in the carefree atmosphere and charm of the land below the border; four horse shows featuring some of the finest animals and riders in the Southwest; the Court of the Redwoods, paying tribute to the state's majestic trees; the historical collection of mighty steam locomotives, the world's largest miniature railway, and many, many others.

Daily, except Sunday, race programs are presented on the fast half-mile track. Thoroughbred, quarter horse and harness races are scheduled each afternoon at the meet, third largest in the state in daily attendance.

New this year is a spacious, modern clubhouse, adjoining the 10,500-seat grandstand. An additional 3,500 patrons can be accommodated here, where closed circuit television brings the finish to the fans. The "Top of the Fair" restaurant is a must for fairgoers.

Major highways from the Long Beach area lead to the fair, where parking for more than 45,000 cars is available.

Bombardment treatment of stipping waterfront cliffs might have saved some, at least, of 20 homes lost in Portuguese Bend area, above. Two palatial Brentwood homes were wrecked by earth movement last year. Landslides, earth slipage are the terror of Southlanders who have set up their dwellings on the high places.

Would Electric Shocks Halt These Slides?

By LOU JOBST

ANDSLIDES—terror of cliff-living Southlanders—may soon be prevented by "electric shock" treatment of slipping earth.

Even minute amounts of direct current will dry out moist soil, after its molecular structure and form cementing material in the ground, claims a team of USC engineers.

Cohesiveness of some soils, especially clay, which is found in great quantities in Southern California, can be increased from five to ten times by bombarding the material with electricity.

THE IDEA OF controlling soil slippage and subsequent earth slides by electricity first came to the attention of Southern California engineers when they were successful in using electricity to get additional oil from wells which had stopped flowing naturally.

Laboratory experiments showed that "shocked soil" became more compact and drier the longer it was electrified.

Electrical erosion control is nothing new: during WW II the Germans electrified river banks to keep them from slipping and filling up channels dredged to hide submarines and the Soviet Union has used electricity to prevent landslides where railroad tracks and highways have been cut through soft strata.

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR G. V. Chilingar of Los Angeles, one of the men working on the electrical soil project, said he read in Soviet scientific journals how electrodes can be inserted into the ground when there is danger of shifting after heavy rainsforms.

Chilingar and his associates, who include R. A. Armstrong, graduate student from Laguna Beach and a senior engineer with Union Oil Co., would like to demonstrate their theory in Pacific Palisades, Portuguese Bend or some other critical landslide area in the Southland,

ADD A ROOM Science Gives Swimming Something New

By Jerome Hall

ONE OF these bright autrash of people swimming to Catalina," says a spokesman tumn mornings a halfdozen fraternity boys from Cal State Long Beach will jump into the surf and head for Catalina. Long before dinner hour they'll clamber ashore at Avalon and claim a new world record for dear old Alma Mater, cutting the old record in half,

The IALDS (that's International Alliance of Long Distance Swimmers) will hastily convene and after due consideration, declare the claims void.

"Improper propellants" will be cited by the IALDS.

The fraternity boys, you see, will have been aided in the record-breaking swim by Aqueons, a new device that may have as much effect on aquatics in the next 10 years as the surfboard had the past 10.

The Aqueon is the brainchild of one of the nation's top hydrodynamicists, Calvin A. Gongwer, the senior scientist for Aerojet General, a leading defense and missile manufacturer.

WITHOUT moving his arms, a swimmer using the Aqueon can glide through the water with ease at speeds surpassing those achieved by champions at short distances.

Furthermore, "there's practically no limit to the distance a swimmer can go with the Aqueon," says its inventor, "You can swim just as far as you can walk," because he says it takes no more effort

He doesn't move his hands or his arms except to guide himself. A 3-foot sculling wing blade can be used in his hands for better maneuvering.

"You're just like a hird under water," says Gong-wer. "It's all glide, no strain. It takes only one-third as much effort as swimming with swim fins."

The device may be used with skin diving equipment for deep-ocean swimming. The Aqueon weighs about 15 pounds, is made almost

"It can be used by invasion forces, and I don't mean small teams or frogmen. Large units of men could be landed with these. With underwater breathing aparatus they would not be detected until they were on the beach."

But right now he is interested only in guys and gals using them. "We don't know if we'll sell even one," he says with quizzical expres-"But I keep thinking about the first surfboards that were put on sale in Southern California.

"I'm sure that people looked at them and said 'You expect to find anybody goofy enough to try to stand up on that thing on top of a wave?''

But tens of thousands of people have been goofy enough. That is why, any day now, a bunch of college guys will jump into the ocean and begin pumping toward Catalina

Attractive Jean demonstrates Aqueon in these underwater views. Device, made principally of wood, weighs only about 15 pounds and is operated simply by doing quarter knee bends. Swimmer's speed is greatly increased.

OUTHLAND HOMES

A Wee Bit of Elegance

Glassed-in sun porch lends an effect of more than doubling Porters' living room. Porch also serves to present beauty of garden. Comfortable and pleasant demeanor of area is evident in this photo, Top, exterior view.

N THEIR modest home at 6061 Fairbrook Avenue in Los Altos, Mr. and Mrs. James Porter have created what Mrs. Porter calls "a wee bit of elegance" and the term has won quick acceptance by all who have viewed the achievement. Mrs. Porter accomplished the decorating without outside assistance, although the result is of professional caliber.

The home is small: living room, small dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms and a bath. Before they made a minor structural change, the home had a den; however, the change made a great difference. The front door opens into a small entry which leads to the living room where a wall that formerly divided the living room from the den has been removed, making the whole area a part of the living room-for a spacious result.

Another view of living room, showing excellent decorative values achieved by Porters.

-Phone by CHUCK SUNDADIST

By Stella George

TO FURTHER the effect from the front door is most of space, Porter built a sun room, screen enclosed and with a fiberglass roof, at the far end of the room to house potted and real plants. This area, in turn, views the attractive.

A tall mirror in the entry hall offers interesting reflections, A large curved offwhite sofa at the far end of the room is highlighted with garden. The whole effect an artificial tree in the corner. A comfortable occasional chair and hassock nearby are upholstered in light blue, complementing two other chairs across the way. Opposite the tree is an organ, situated near the large windows. The entire room seems more than twice the size it is because of the sun room in the rear. A brick firenlace in one corner extends around to what was formerly the dining area. Because this space was too small for its original purpose, the Porters have made it into a den-music room, still a part of the living room.

AT THE FAR end of the den stands a desk which looks new (to match the other furniture) but is actually an old one which has been refinished. A cabinet nearby holds a choice collection of old (and new) records.

The kitchen is bright and sunny yellow with an amazing amount of cupboard space for a small home. Modern, up-to-date fixtures have replaced old ones. The dining area looks out to the garden.

The master bedroom is as cheerful and attractive as a summer garden, with flower arrangements (made by Mrs. Porter) and even jewelry used as ornamental adornments. The bathroom received its share of interior decorating with a large mirror above the bathtub doubling the apparent size of the room.

Recipe of the Week

TITH the Southland as a major citrus land, oranges have long been a flavorful adjunct to recipes here, and such is the case with this week's prizewinner submitted by Mrs. E. H. Coy, 524!4 Linden Ave., Long Beach 90812. The recipe:

8 eggs

5.75 63

5 heaping tablespoons sugar

3 oranges, juice and grated rind of 2 oranges

1 lemon, juice and rind

1 cup sauterne

Put all ingredients in large saucepan. Cook over medium fire and stir to combine. Beat slowly with wire whisk beater. When mixture begins to get hot. beat fast. When foamy, remove from fire and pour into large bowl and stir every few minutes until cold. Ladle into sherbet glasses and refrigerate. A dollop of whipped cream is good on top.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Avc., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

Hot Soups Always Hit the Spot

Country Garden Chowder is the essence of a comforting meal on a cool day for those who carry lunches or those who take their midday meal at home.

By Mildred K. Flanary

TOT CHOWDERS, stews and hearty soups are always popular with both hostess and guests (family, too). And speaking of soups, have you ever stopped to think how many places the proverbial can of soup can go?

For instance, right into the chowder pot goes a half cup or so of cooked vegetables with cream of potato soup. Next time you have a chicken or a turkey, get a big one and quickly convert the planned overage into Creamed Chicken (Turkey) and Rice Delight. Another treat is Bubbling Ham and Egg. Sandwich in which condensed Cheddar Cheese Soup is the main ingredient. The following recipes will start your own imagination on its way:

Country Garden Chowder

- 1 can (101/2 ounces) condensed cream of potato soup
- soup can milk
- 1/2 to i cup cooked vegetables (green beans, carrots, peas, corn tomatoes, spinach, etc.) Crumbled bacon or chopped ham (optional)

In saucepan, combine soup and milk. Add vegetables. Heat, stirring now and then. Do not holl. Garnish with bacon or ham, if desired. Makes 2 to

Bubbling Ham and Egg Sandwich

- 4 slices toast, buttered Thinly sliced ham
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
   1 can (11 nunces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
- 1/4 cup milk

Place toast on foil covered cookie sheet. Arrange 2 slices of ham on toast; top with egg slices. Stir soup until smooth; gradually add milk. Spoon sauce over ham and eggs. Bake at 375 degrees about 5 minutes or broil until bubbling hot, Makes 4

Chicken and Rice Delight

- I can (101/2 ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
- 1/4 to 1/3 cup milk
- I cup diced cooked chicken
- 1/4 cup chopped cucumber I teaspoon snipped chives Hot fluffy rice

In saucepan, blend soup and milk, Add chicken, cucumber and chives. Heat, stirring now and then. , Serve on hot rice. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

So the die was cast: and once he returned to Washington, a solemn, yet de-termined, President Truman gave the fateful order: Drop the atom bomb on Japan!" Gen, Carl Spaatz was chosen to supervise the first atomic bombing mission in world history.

Through dangerous waters of the Pacific the lethal Abombs were convoyed to their launching site-Tinian Island, Practice bombing runs were held. After considerable debate on the highest officials level. Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan, were designated as the key tar-

Col. Paul Tibbets Jr., piloting the Enola Gay, was the man who flew that historic and never-to-be-forgotten bombing mission. Tibbets and his crew members, decked out in strange "atom-bomb suits," resembled no one so much as welders.

His final word to them went like this: "We're about to start the bomb run. This is it! Put on your goggles and when you hear the tone signal, pull them over your eyes and leave them there eyes and leave them there till after the big flash." On through clouds roared the Enola Gay, with the central bridge over the river Ota, in Hiroshima, as its rendezvous point with destiny.

Tensely, unbelievingly, the men waited. Tibbets, an officer with a sense of history, bade his men: "No fout language on this mission, please, fellows. What we say today will go down in historyĺ'

Finally, Tibbets gave the fateful command: "Now!" Down went the most terrifying bomb the world has ever known. Uncanny seconds of silence ensued. Then came the explosion which stunned the civilized world and ended the way with Is and ended the war with Ja-

You Ask We Answer

Q. When did the U.S. Naval Academy adopt a goat as its mascot?—L.M.

A. According to legend, the Naval Academy has had a goat as its mascot since 1890. On their march that year from the ferry station at Highlands Falls, up the steep hill to West Point to play the first Army-Navy game, the Naval Cadets (as they were then called) commandeered a goat from the Non-com's quarters for their mascot. However, the offi-cial files do not record this incident but list 1893 as the year a goat mascot made his debut at the time of the fourth Army-Navy game.

Q. Is there a trail on the West Coast like the Appalachian Trail?—F.H.

A. Yes, The Pacific Crest Trail that stretches from the Canadian border to Mexico, following the crest of the Cascade and Sierra ranges. It is similar to the Appalachians from Maine to Georgia. The Pacific Crest system is largely in national forest lands, and its routes and shelters are maintained by the Forest Service.

Q. What is the "fatal 20" superstition?—B.T.

A. History has shown that every President of the United States elected to office at 20 year intervals beingining in 1840 died in office. Those who died were William Harrison, elected in 1840; Abraham Lincoln, 1860; Jamets Garfield, 1880; William McKinley, 1900; Warren Harding, 1920; Franklin Roosevelt, 1940; and John Kennedy, 1960.

Q. Where is the "river of Egypt" mentioned in the old Old Testament?—W.K.

A. This river, identified with the broad and shallow Arish, runs north and northwest from the Sinaitic peninsula and flows into the Mediteranean about 50 miles southeast of Gaza. It is a "flash" stream, being almost dry except during rainy seasons, when it becomes a swift river.

Q. When was Mark Twain's first book published?—N.D.

A. His first book — and one of his most famous—was "The Jumping Frog," published in 1867. Its titlepage was "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County, and Other Sketches."

Art Has a Catalina Weekend

JUDGING from the number of entries received, the sixth annual Catalina Island Art Festival, scheduled Sept. 19-20 in picturesque Avalon, promises to be the largest in the festival's history.

While most of the entries have come from Southern California artists, paintings have been received from contestants in several western states.

Festival Director Virginia H. Renton announced that a special panel of noted artists will be assembled to judge the exhibit, which carries with it $1,500 in prize money.

ONE OF THE cash awards will be $150 for the best "Catalina Scene" by a nonresident artist.

The sponsoring Catalina Art Association has made arrangements for special bus trips into the Island's interior, Monday through Friday, to provide visiting painters an opportunity to sketch some of Catalina's famous landmarks.

A civic dinner honoring the judges is scheduled Friday and an Artists & Models costume ball will be held at the famous Casino ballroom Saturday.

MRS. RENTON declared that paintings would be displayed along the town's beach-front Crescent Avenue during the two-day exhibit. Demonstrations for children and adults by famous artists on painting "techniques" will[≡ he staged.

Visitors to the Island for this event may book transportation at the Wilmington Catalina, Channel Airlines puplex and the Magic Isle. Motor cruisers also sail daily from the Wilmington Terminal.

Poison-Control Kit Available

By Ben Zinser

South and Magazine Medical-Science Writer

A LONG - AWAITED poison-control kit has been developed for commercial marketing.

Called the Ipechar Poison Control Kit, it contains syrup of ipecac (in brown bottle) and activated charcoal (in black bottle).

The ipecac is an emetic.
The charcoal is a powerful substance that latches onto poisons, preventing their getting into the bloodstream.

John Brennan, president of Hoyt Pharmaceutical Corp., producer of the kit. says:

kit, says:

"All the doctor has to do is tell the parent to give the child the ingredients of the brown bottle or of the black bottle, avoiding confusion caused by unfamiliar names."

The drug firm prepared the kit, available by prescription only, in conperation with the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Association of Poison Control Centers and the Boston Children's Hospital Medical Center.

AN AMA OFFICIAL has called the promotion of nonprescription digestive enzymes "deplorable."

Dr. Philip L. White, secretary of the AMA's Council on Foods and Nutrition, says there is no acceptable evidence that digestion is improved in the normal person by the use of supplementary digestive enzymes.

"Unless tissues which produce digestive enzymes are diseased or have been removed surgically, no purpose is served by the ingestion of oral digestive enzymes," Dr. White says, "The digestive capacity of the human being greatly exceeds the demands put upon it."

SUICIDE attempts in the U.S. are far more common than suspected, a UCLA psychiatrist says.

Dr. Ronald S. Mintz, assistant professor of psychiatry, estimates that 75,000 persons in Los Angeles alone have made one or more suicide attempts. For California, the figure is 500,000. For the U. S. it's five million, he says.

His estimates are based on 2,018 questionnaires circulated in Los Angeles.

NECK INJURIES among college football players are due, in part, to the use of low, professional-type shoulder pads rather than the conventional high types.

So say two Massachusetts doctors after a study of neck injuries among members of the Amherst College and University of Massachusetts football teams. Re-injury is common unless the player uses a protective collar.

TOO MUCH "com-pah-pah" on a tuba can make the tuba player dizzy, an Atlanta researcher has reported to the American Thoracic Society.

Playing of loud notes requires so much wind that hyperventilation (excessive deep breathing) may lead to dizziness, the researcher found.

ADVANCES in medicine have markedly reduced deaths from gall bladder diseases, report statisticians for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

For example, the death rate from gall bladder conditions among persons 35-74 decreased from 6.7 per 100,000 in 1950-52 to 3.7 in 1960-62—about 45%.

Responsible for the downward mortality trend is the reduction in operative deaths. This, say the statisticians, reflects better surgical management, advances in anesthesiology, control of infection and more frequent use of surgery before dangerous complications develop.

The reduction in the death rate has been twice as great among women as among men in the past 10 years. This is highly significant, for gall bladder disease has a higher incidence among women.

The Indians of this area have said that he is fond of rampaging around the countryside raising all manner of fuss, and that one of his failings is a penchant for devouring chil-While foraging for supplies to satisfy his delicate appetite, legend has it that Tahquitz rumbles and grumbles. When the Indians found a mountain that rumbled and was rugged, it seemed logical for them to name it after their rumblygrumbly god.

Near Tahquitz mountain is a valley which, in the days before the long drought, possessed a lake which the white man has since named Elsinore. Just to the south of Lake Elsinore, the mountains rise so steeply that their flank provides an impressive view of the lake and of the valley in which it lies. Indian legend has it that from this vantage point, on a dark, night, one may often see the luminous footsleps of Tahquitz appearing in suc-襚 cession as he crosses the lake on his way to or from his mountain home.

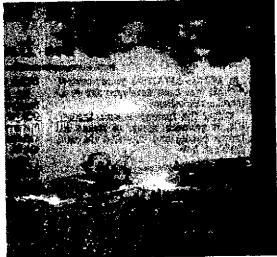

A MEAN old fellow like Tahquitz would not seem to merit much sympathy, yet it would be hard to refrain from feeling a twinge of BATHROOM compassion for the old boy at the sight of the dry bed of his lake exposed by years of drought. Without water in the lake, poor old Tahquitz had no chance to produce luminous foosteps as a part of his paraphernalia

COR MOST youngsters, a beds are equipped with casbedroom is more than a place to sleep. It's also a place to entertain friends, to study, to decorate and to take pride in. It's unfor-tunate that such an important place in the lives of young people is so often sadly neglected.

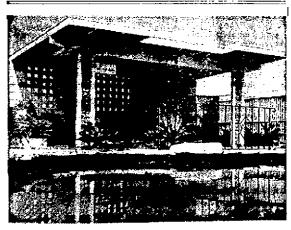

The bedroom furniture pictured on this page is designed to take all the punishment an active young man can dish out. And no matter how small the room, each of the pieces creates space for the many activities a young life requires. And what is more, each of these items is just as suitable for daughter as they are for son.

The bunks, the hanging wall desk, chair and storage chest each were made with plywood. Their lines are graceful, yet simple enough to be built by any amateur home carpenter. The bunk ters. The desk hangs on the wall and is easy to clean under and around.

TO BUILD any of these items you need only trace the full size patterns on wood, then saw out the parts and finally put them together. The required materials along with easy-to-follow illustrations and directions are included with each pattern. And when you yourself, the cost is slight.

To obtain any or all of the patterns for building the items pictured here and listed below, send coin, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Building Dept. As a wall decoration for holding fresh cut flowers or! all-year-round plants, the charming wash stand will catch any discerning eye for interior decor.

THE AVERAGE woodworking fellow can enjoy making this for the better half's pleasure. The Sketchbook plan S-176 shows how easy it really it. First of all, the amount of lumber, all standard sizes, is very moderate. The materials list as well as all parts are listed in the plan, Sketchbook Plan No. S-176, that also suggests methods to affix the stand to the wall, is available for 50 cents from Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif.

Humphrey Writes of Paradox

By Vera Williams

SEN. Hubert H. Humphrey opens his book, "WAR ON POVERTY" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95) with the words:

"This is the revealing and paradoxical story of today's and clothing." America - a country of unprecedented wealth and prosmidst 35 million people without sufficient food, shelter

Writing as the Senate's precedented wealth and pros-majority whip, the Minne-perity that harbors in its sola leader and Democratic candidate for vice president, gives the background of the. situation and analyzes what he believes the nation must and can do about it,

Translating the statistics of poverty into human terms, he claims business, labor and government, acting together, can channel the enormous sums expended for welfare and defense into helping the poor to help themselves. He argues that the apparent disadvantages of automation and cybernetics can be utilized to pro vide the necessary jobs to reduce unemployment and meet the challenge of thousands of young people en-tering the labor market each

The root of the tragedy, Humphrey points out, lies in the lack of long-range planning by both industry and government.

"If we wait passively for the future to come," he warns, "we will be its victims rather than its masters."

TWO HUNDRED years ago, in the Cathedral of Ajaccio, Letitzia Ramolino, a local beauty, married Carlo Buonaparte, a Corsican law-

Since then the children and great-grandchildren of this marriage have provided Europe with two French emperors and a dazzling assortment of pretenders and parvenus, statesmen and scoundrels, great ladies and courtesans.

"THE GOLDEN BEES: The Story of the Bonapartes" by Theo Aronson (New York Graphic Society, $8.95) treats of the entire Bonaparte family from 1764 to the present day.

Shelves of volumes exist on various individual Bonapartes. Aronson, young South African writer, emphasizes the personal history, not the political history of the greedy, amorous, quarrelsome and hot-blooded

Aronson seems to have it all-he hasn't missed a story from the squabbles of Napoleon's sisters over the carrying of Josephine's train to Hitler's remarkable deal with Petain to return the body of the Duke of Reichstadt to his father's tomb in the Invalides.

The author says his next task is to write about the largest and deepest body of water on our globe — is a world almost without a history.

Hawaiian educator, A. Grove Day, helps fill this void with a definitive history, "THEY PEOPLED THE PACIFIC, How Man Conquered the Largest Ocean from Pre History to the Present," (Duell, Stoan and Pearce, $3.95).

This is the story of the slow human migration through the scattered Pacific Islands that started somewhere in Asia about 1,000 years ago. This migration, described in detail by Professor Day, explains how the vast oceanic "melting pot" of Indonesia, Micronesia, Melonesia, Australia, Tasmania and Polynesia came into existence.

AFRICA has had a profound impact on the con-sciousness of the world since the end of World War. II, but most of the attention. has been directed to politi-cal events, particularly the emergence of new African nations. Social, economic, physical conditions and problems of Africa also are important in the new world a-building, believes William A. Hance, professor of economic geography at Columbia University, and he has written "THE GEOGRAPHY OF MODERN AFRICA" (Columbia University Press, $12). The first five chapters present background material, the remaining chapters examine individual countries or groups of countries, analyzing the major features of services and economies.

In the early days of the terriers, most owners did not readily admit to such ownership. They were in most part poor farming peasants who often sata down to a meal brought in by terriers coached to poach from the more clite class. Also, terriers were not exactly the cream of dogdom as far as the nobles were concerned.

ROYAL FAMILIES also were so determined to keep hunting as a rich man's pastime that they decreed that all dogs with long tails must be heavily taxed. The farm ers quickly solved this by cropping their terriers' tails. And the dogs did not fall flat on their whiskered muzzles when their "rudders" were shortened, as was the general belief of royalty. In SCHOOL! Most little boys dread the thought of going back. But most little girls relish the idea and can't wait for tomorrow morning to arrive.

Boys of all sizes and girls of all shapes agree on one thing, however. They believe the last day of summer vacation should be a gay day, a fling day marked with lots of laughs and good things to eat and drink. That's where Me-N-Ed's pizza parlor, Paramount Boulevard near Carson, Street, comes in. Open to day and every day from 11:30 a.m. on, Me-N-Ed's is one of the most popular family spots in town, a place where youngsters of all ages can celebrate the last day of summer vacation by rev eling in the splendid taste of crisp, delicious pizza.

Operated by tall, quiet Bob Baldwin, Me-N-Ed's is an immaculate, well-run restaurant designed in a clever Old English motil. Its serv ice techniques are as modern, however, as the year 1965, with numerous chefs working behind gleaming windows through which the guests can watch their pizzas being carefully constructed with six remarkably different cheeses. The pizza crust, crisp with a nut-like flavor, is made from a secret recipe.

Me-N-Ed's serves only pizza, plus assorted beverages, including soft drinks for youngsters, light and dark tap beer for adults (25 cents a glass) plus coffee and milk. Nine wonderful pizza varieties are offered, priced from $1.20 for the smallest to $3.50 for the giant model which is approximately as large as the L. A. Coliseum.

SUNDAY TREAT -- Nothing pleases the true gourmet more than beef Stroganoff, prepared by a chef who fully appreciates the gustatory delight created by the blending of tender beef, wine, onions, sour cream and gentle spices. That's why the guests who order this specialty at the scenic Wayfarer Restaurant, 2230 Pacific Coast Hwy., Lomita, nod with pleasure at the first taste. "Ah," they exclaim quietly. "This Is it." Owner Jimmy Richmond, former Long Beach restaurateur, serves it for $3.75 on a magnificent dinner, including relish tray, soup, salad, beverage and dessert.

HIGH HOLY DAYS-Music for the Jewish Holy Days features Met tenor Jan Peerce and conductor Alfredo Antonini as Aline MacMahon narrates a repeat of "The Song and the Prayer" at 8 a.m., ch. 2. Noted Jewish theologian Dr. Louis Finkelstein observes the Holy Days at 9 a.m., ch. 4, marks the occasion by talking of "challenges to the posture of American morality."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, WILL - Scenes from three of Shakespeare's plays are aired in color at 7 p.m., ch. 4, in observance of the Bard's 400th anniversary as host-narrator plays Mercutio (Romeo and Juliet), Shylock (Merchant of Venice) and Falstaff (Henry IV). Show opens and closes with examples of Shakespeare's villainy, as entire program combines with the sculptured panels of John Gregory, (Ch. 9, at 10:30 p.m., offers its first of 9 separate hours of Shakespearean drama.)

OFF-NETWORK DEBUTS-The limping Chester returns at 7 p.m. (9) as the old half-hour "Gunsmoke" films begin a weekly "Marshal Dillon" run, while at the same hour Jim Backus returns to his old Headline Press Service desk on ch. 5. Also on ch. 5 are repeats of ABC's former 'The Law and Mr. Jones (James Whitmore) at 8 p.m.

ABC'S WIDE WORLD of Entertainment - More than 30 stars of the network's new fall line-up join host Bing Crosby in an off-beat musical season curtain-raiser. There'll be a dance by Connie Stevens, a song by Kathy Nolan, monsters from "The Outer Limits," a visit with "The Addams Family," Gene Barry of "Burke's Law" driv-ing a "Wagon Train" burro, Lawrence Welk backing Crosby and Jimmy Dean on "Beer Barrel Polka," a trio with Bing, Mickey Rooney and David Janssen, and "Play a Simple Melody" sung by Bing, Sammy Jackson, Tony Franciosa, Rooney, Richard Basehart, David Hedison and Ernest Borgnine... all at 9 n.m. ch 7

THE ROGUES - Premiere. David Niven, Charles Boyer and Gig Young are co-owners and co-stars of the new 10 p.m., ch. 4 Raffles-type series dealing with a family of charming crooks who flourish by their wit, imagination and breeding. ## Plays Engineer Who Wants to Sing

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) Vacations are over, it's getteing darker earlier, and television sets are being flicked on again.

The new video season will go down as the year of the situation comedy. More of them will dot the tube than other category any shows.

To the horror of critics, all three networks have aimed their new series smack dab at the average viewer. Light entertainment. Significant, meaningful, unlifting claptrap has been routed.

and "East Side, West Side" -deservedly bombed while "Petticoat Junction" and "The Beverly Hillbillies" flourished.

THE NETWORKS got the message - give 'em what they want.

Evidently viewers want "Flipper," "Tycoon," "Wendy and Me," "No Time for Sergeants," "Gomer Pyle,
USMC" and "Broadside." They are some of the new shows.

Even the old groaner, Bing Crosby, is turning his hand to a comedy series.

Crosby plays an electrical engineer who is a frustrated singer. Beverly Garland is his TV wife and they have two daugthers. The series on channel 7.

Adventure sagas and action shows, too, will not strain the intellect of a 12year-old,

With few exceptions, it appears television finally has accepted a fact the movies have long recognized: The public wants to be entertained, not stuffed with messages. Only oc-casional video "specials" will attempt to stem the cultural lag.

It should be noted that last year's trend to longer television shows has been premiers 9:30 p.m. Monday reversed, too. The half-hour vid Niven and Charles Boyformat is emerging again as the favorite of viewers, among comedy shows as well as dramatic efforts.

ANOTHER thing to look for is the emergence of second bananas in starring roles: Bob Denver, sidekick in "Dobie Gillis," headlines "Gilligan's Island-;" Katy Nolan, Kute in "The Real McCoys," grabs top spot in "Broadside:" Jim Nabors moves up from "The Andy Griffith Show" 'to star in "Gomer Pyle, USMC"; and Dennis Weaver, "Gun-"smoke's Chester, headlines "Kentucky Jones."

Some old familiar faces will be back on the air in "The Rogues," starring Da-

Robert Cummings bounces back with Julie Newmar in "My Living Doll," Mickey Rooney returns in "Mickey" and Cara Williams, once of "Pete and Gladys," comes back in her own "Cara Williams Show."

Familiar faces, oldtimers, a preponderance of comedy and light adventure tales add up to a wretched season for critics

DENTAL HELP FOR O. A. S. PENSIONERS

Pensioners of this area will find complete information about the O.A.S. dental care program is readily available at the Downtown Long Beach dental office of Dr. H. Leo Rowan.

Since 1930, Dr. Rowan managed the Dr. Cowen Dental Office at 107 West Broadway, corner of Pine, and the same office is now under his individual ownership. He extends to O.A.S. Pensioners a cordial invitation to come in anytime; no advance appointment is needed.

Immediate service, on the very first visit, is provided for pensioners who need X-ray dental examination, or repair or adjustment of their old dental plates.

DR. H. L. ROWAN Member of Cowen Dental Association

The O.A.S. Identification Card must be presented. If new dental plates are needed, the O.A.S. rules equire that an authorization be obtained from the Department of Social Welfare, and the staff at the Dr. Rowan office is at your service to assist in making the application.

The Dr. Rowan Dental Office is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily (closed Saturday), at the corner of Broadway and Pine, opposite Buffuns, in Downtown Long Beach, The telephone is HE 6-7241.

Bert's Eye View

TF YOU'RE LOOKING for comedy this new season, don't try KCOP (channel 13).

The independent network's fall programming is no laughing matter, according to John Hopkins, president.

"We're going in for good heavy drama as an antidote for an over-abundance of situation comedies elsewhere," said Hopkins,

"If they want to call us the 'Drama Station,' we're not going to cry about it."

There's a method to Hopkins' anti-comedy madness. In Southern California, he had learned, there are many more viewers proportionately who prefer drama than there are elsewhere in the nation.

To illustrate, "The Richare Boone Show," "The Lieutenant," "Arrest and Trial," and "True," all network dramatic series, fared poorly in the ratings across

Yet, they were very successful ratingswise in Southern California.

So successful, in fact, that Hopkins believes they'll do well again, He's bought all four series for the first off-network showing on his station.

He followed the same principle last season when he purchased "The Dick Powell Show." It's been one of

JOHN HOPKINS

In addition to the off-network dramas, channel 13 will also air an original dramatic series, "Man of the World." It's an hourly series about a newspaper photographer,

Craig Stevens, who was television's "Peter Gunn," has the lead

HOPKINS WANTS to make one point clear. "We're not against people laughing," he said. "But there are enough-if not too many-comedy shows on the networks. We want to give them something different.

That "something different" is not limited to drama, In fact, if you prefer to call channel 13 the "Color Station," Hopkins isn't going to cry about that, either.

"We are the leading independent television station in the nation in televising color," he said. "And even if you were to compare us with the networks on a nationwide basis, we'd be second only to NBC."

Before this month is over, channel 13 from Monday through Friday will be telecasting in color half of its programs from 1 p.m. until 10:30 p.m.

"Others may talk about color being the coming thing," said Hopkins. "As far as we're concerned, it's here already."

ACCORDING TO HIS FIGURES, a color program in Southern California "automatically" is tuned in by the occupants of 75,000 more homes than it would be if it were in black-and-white.

Last season channel 13 telecast "Ripcord" in color for the first time. It brought a higher rating than the series did when it was originally aired on ABC in black-and-white, said Hupkins.

Hoping to duplicate the "Ripcord" success, channel 13 has purchased "Science-Fiction Theater" and "Science in Action" for airing in color.

In the travel field, where KCOP has pioneered for many years, a number of new series have been added for this season.

They include "Islands of the Sun," "American West" "Capture."

A first-run documentary series, "Survival," narrated by James Whitmore, also is tailor-made for Hopkins' concept of counter-programming.

Included in the half-hour series will be such survival accounts as those for the sea rescue in the crash of the Andrea Doria and the evacuation of Marines at Chosen Reservoir during the Korean War.

THE BROADWAY production of "The Advocate," a controversial play about the trial of anarchists Sacco and Vanzetti, is one of several specials the channel will offer. Another is "The War to End All Wars," an hour-long documentary about World War I. Narrator is Quentin Reynolds.

In handling coverage for the West Coast premiere of the movie "My Fair Lady," channel 13 hopes to utilize different techniques. The opening segment, for example, will feature Frank Sinatra and Natalie Wood with Arthur Godfrey.

On Tuesday, Sept. 8, the "Televues" stated that on the "Today" show James Franciscus would appear,

I would like to know why he didn't.

I got up at  $7 \cdot a.m.$  and watched the "Today" show for two hours and was very disappointed that he wasn't on the show.

Would you please answer my question soon because I have to leave for college in a few weeks?

M. Nash, Lakewood

Bill Faith, an NBC-TV public relations man on the West Coast, took your 'soon" to heart.

He immediately phoned New York from where the "Today" show originates,

They told him Franciscus, because of a conflicting personal - appearance tour through the Midwest, asked them to change the day from Tuesday to Thursday.

All of which leads to one major conclusion.

When you get to college, boy, if you have trouble, have Faith.

In your article about Dorothy Provine why didn't you mention she had a grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Provine, living in Long Beach.

Why doesn't KTLA show all of Roller Derby instead of just showing the last part of the first half?

Also, how long has Dick Lane been broadcasting on KTLA?

Les Ringle, Long Beach

KTLA has just returned to telecasting all of the Roller Derby. It was the summer schedule of the event itself that led to the abbreviated showing to which you refer.

Dick Lane has been with KTLA since it officially started in 1947, Prior to that, he was associated with experimental television since 1941.

Young women who have "tried everything" decide that what they need is professional attention, And middleaged men see the first signs of the haldness they dread and wander what is to be done.

NOWADAYS QUITE A LOT CAN BE DONE

Much more than most people think. Nowadays success comes to many people who, not long ago, would have been told that their cases were hopeless.

JUST AS TEETH are destroyed by our "soft" civilized diet, il is conceivable that our hair suffers from our "soff" civilized way of living. Physical inaction, tack of fresh wir, inadequate hair and hygiene habits, and nervous stress of modern living may all reflect unfavorably on man's hair growth. From their years of experience in successfully treating hair and scalp disorders, the specialists in the Turoff System have proven that modern man can avoid boldness

IT HAPPENS every day now. A by counteracting the effects of "soff" civilized living with a "hard" vigorous system of scalp hygians. THE UNUSUAL SUCCESS of the Turoff System in administering over 11/4 million freatments supports this theory strongly. The inescapable truth is . . . premature thinning of the hair, or actual baldness, is inevitable for many men and women , UNLESS CORRECT SCALP HY-GIENE IS BEGUN EARLY.

This is contemporary with a custommade look that touches every piece. Come in, browse through the whole Mandate collection...there are lighted shelves, reversible panels, marvelous brass pulls, marble...slate...leather tops...in a fascinating array of designs for living, dining and bedroom. In walnut veneers with accents of burl and cherry veneers, Mandate is an invigorating collection at unbelievably reasonable prices. We'd like to share its excitement with you.

by Thomasville

Contemporary with just enough Far Lastern flavor to give character to your room! The bed is a treasure its headboard combines the look of bamboo with a cane panel that reverses to walnut yencers for a change of pace. Other memorable features: impressive brass pulls, coved edges that give a hand-carved look . . . and the warmth of Mandate's magnificent woods . . . walnut veneers with accents of quartered cherry and Carpathian Elm burl veneers. For living, dining or bedrooms.

A Letter To Our NON-CATHOLIC Neighbors

rule, get along right well together.

Our families live amicably next door to each other and often become lifetime friends. Our sons fight side by side on every battlefield. We work together in the same shops and factories... root for the same baseball teams ... do business with one another in a spirit of mutual trust every day.

In these and other phases of everyday life, there is a close association which promotes understanding and respect. But in religion . . where this close association does not exist . . . there is often a regrettable lack of understanding and a corresponding absence of good-will.

Many people, for instance, have all sorts of false ideas about Catholics and the Catholic Church. They actually believe that Catholics worship statues ... that many sordid things happen behind convent walls . . . that Catholics do not believe in the Bible : . . that Catholic teaching is pure superstition and the Mass nothing but mumbojumbo.

All non-Catholics, of course, do not believe such things. But enough of these false rumors are in circulation to cause some sincere and intelligent non-Catholics to look upon the Catholic Church with suspicion, and to reject Carholic truth without even troubling to investigate it.

Catholics and non-Catholics, as a Knights of Columbus, a society of Catholic laymen, publishes advertisements like this explaining what Catholics really believe. We want our non-Catholic friends and neighbors to understand us and our Faith, even if they do not wish to join us. We want them to know the Catholic Church as it really is ... not as it is so often misrepresented to be.

> It is also important to you personally, however, to inquire into the teachings of the Catholic Church. For unless you do, you cannot know whether the Catholic Church is or is not the Church established by Jesus Christ for your salvation. You cannot intelligently accept or reject Catholic teaching until you investigate it and know what it really is.

A distinguished Catholic author has written "A Letter To a Friend Not of My Faith." This letter has been published in the form of a pamphlet which can be read in a few minutes . . . and which gives a remarkably clear and beautiful explanation of Catholic beliefs, worship and history. More importantly, it gives a blueprint of Christian living which will deeply move you whether you accept or reject the Catholic viewpoint.

by Bill Dana

EDITOR'S NOTE: One of the most tulented figures in show business today, Bill Dana numbers among his past and present activities: writer (was head writer for Steve Allen for many seasons), author (Pocket Books' My Name, Jose Jimenez), producer (Spike Jones summer show), businessman (Bill Dana Productions), actor-comedian, composer, symphony orchestra conductor (Indianapolis, Santa Barbara, Seattle), recording star (Kapp Records) and night-club performer.

Bill will soon begin his second TV season starring his alter-ego "Jose Jimenez." It goes out under the Amigo Productions banner, a combination of Bill Dana Productions, Danny Thomas and Sheldon Leonard, who is executive producer, Dana's latest Kapp album (his sixth) is autitled Jose in Jollywood and acclaimed as one of his best, although all of them have been in the top sales bracket.

A modest bachelor of 39, Bill lives in a beautiful 9-room home high above Hollywood's famed Sunset Strip. A personal friend of America's astronauts. Bill owns a home known as "NASA West." Whenever the astromants are in town, they stay there. In turn, Bill is their guest whenever he visits Houston or Cape Kennedy, This mutual "love affair" began with Dana's two albums, The Astronaut and Jose in Orbit. Bill has a repertoire of astronaut stories that would fill a book-but he has refused to capitalize on his friendship with these outstanding men.

Dana recently completed an 8-week nightclub tour with appearances at Hotel Sahara in Las Vegas, the Nugget in Reno and the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. Herewith some of his funnies:

Jascha Heifetz gave a concert in Boston during the dead of winter. It was a miserable night, with snow, sleet and hait. As a result, the big concert hall, which normally seats 2,500 people, had 12 in the audience. Heifetz came out onstage and said, "I'm deeply appreciative that you folks turned out, but under the circumstances, we're cancelling the show. Your money will be refunded atthe box office."

·Eleven of the 12 started to get their money. The lone man stood up and said, "Just a minute, Mr. Heifetz. I'm a music lover. I drove 20 miles through this snow. I even put chains on my car to come here and see you tonight. Won't you just sing one song?"

Two coeds at Oberlin College in Ohio were discussing their social lives. One was a freshman, the other a senior. Said the freshman to her older friend: "What would you do if you'd had five dates with a fellow and he never even attempted to kiss you?"

The senior thought about it for a minute, then offered her advice: "Lie about it," she answered.

Bookmakers these days have a special way of playing Russian roulette. They line up six phones, and one of them is tapped.

A fellow walked into a bar, saw no one in attendance, so he pounded and shouted, "Where is everybody? I want a drink." With that, a horse walked out of the back room. The man stared at him. The horse said calmly, "All right, you're making such a luss. What do you want? Order up." The man continued to stare at him. The horse repeated, "All right now, let's have it. What's your order?"

Finally the man asked: "The cow sold the olace?"

A Scotchman fell ill. After much coaxing on his wife's part, he reluctantly allowed her to call a doctor. The physician gave him a thorough examination. "I can get you well," he

"For how much?" asked the Scotchman. "About $400," the doctor said, explaining about X rays and blood tests and specimens and a major operation.

"Too much," said the Scotchman. "I got a better offer yesterday from the undertaker."

"I'm Dr. Hamilton's nurse," a sweet voice announced to a well-known Hollywood-writer, "and the reason I'm phoning you, sir, is that your check came back."

"Just tell the doctor," the writer answered, "that so did my arthritis."

"I met my wife at a dance," said Joe to his neighbor as they were setting out for a game of golf one morning.

"That must have been romantic," mused the neighbor.

"No --- embarrassing," replied Joe. "I thought she was at home taking care of the kids!"

ANECDOTE THE WEEK

■ A Swiss journalist, interviewing an oil rich sheik from Saudi Arabia a few days ago, asked him why he insisted that his wife wear a veil. "Isn't it rather selfish, Your Highness," the journalist asked, "to hide such feminine beauty from the world?"

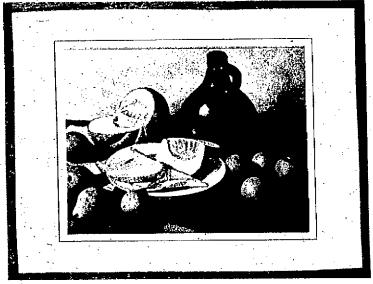

"You misinterpret my motive," explained the sheik. "I'm just tired of looking at her."

A Special Parade Art Offer

Parade Magazine offers famed Dutch artist's oil paintings as full-color framed prints. Each $11 \times 14$ inches. Only \$1.25 each or all 4 for only \$3.95.

An awareness of the heauty of everyday objects, and a loving command of color and composition, are the special gifts of Henk Bos, the popular contemporary Dutch painter whose work is so reminiscent of the old masters. His luscious fruit looks as though it can be plucked right off the canvas. Ordinary household utensils . . . a pewter pitcher, a delft vase, a copper teapot, an earthen jug . . . become household treasures, appealing in their utter simplicity and rightness.

In the brilliant tradition of Dutch art, Henk Bos' paintings have a timeless, universal beauty that has captured the heart and imagination of art collectors throughout the world. These four still lifes, among the most notable examples of his work, are now available in fine reproductions to beautify any home.

Each picture is covered with unbreakable plastic and framed in passepartout with a wood-like finish. Ready to be hung. Overall size 11 x 14 inches each. Full set of four pictures makes a glorious grouping. To order for immediate delivery, mail coupon now!

ountless books and movies have dramatized how the West was won, but few Americans are aware that we are now faced with the problem of winning it for the second time. There will be no covered wagons jolting over mountain trails, nor Indians lurking in forest shadows. This time, it must be a triumph not of pioneering but of engineering.

While technology will be the tool, the raw material of this struggle is water. The era of space probes and miracle drugs has not changed man's dependence upon "the lifeblood of civilization." Cities and nations grow in direct ratio to their water supply. When that supply fails, they perish.

In many arid areas, the daily struggle for water is the accepted way of life. Yet it may come as a distinct shock to most Americans to learn that, even in our lush land, many communities now face water shortages. As our population increases, our water also becomes more polluted. It is not uncommon in crowded eastern cities to find tap water tainted or, equally bad, to find the tup dry.

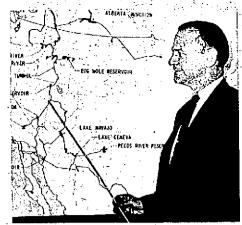

The tenements and turnpikes of the East are teeming with people and problems. Many Americans seek room to escape, and room is what the West has plenty of. In 17 western states there are 48 million acres of usable land which only lizards and rattlesnakes now occupy. The missing ingredient is water. This land is irrigable and needs only water to make it bloom.

Only 117 years ago, the Mormon pioneers pushed into Salt Lake valley and found a bleak, baked desert. In the whole valley, there stood only one stunted tree. Today, that tree is preserved as an historic shrine in a valley of shade trees and green lawns. Where sagebrush once soaked in the sun, a bustling city has risen with pure mountain water bubbling from street-corner fountains.

CAPTURING THE SNOWS

What brought about this spectacular change? The settlers simply captured the water from the melting snows in the great mountains and used it to turn Salt Lake valley from a desert into a garden.

It took vision in those days to look at a desert and see a future Eden. But the time has come to enlarge that vision in terms of the entire North American continent. By diverting water from the Arctic, we can transform the wastelands of the West into a great, new productive area.

Sen. Moss Indicates dry area which would benefit from proposed system to bring Arctic water south to U.S.

HOW TO MAKE A DESERT BLOOM

by FRANK MOSS U.S. SENATOR FROM UTAH

To study how this can be done, the Senate has appointed a water development subcommittee and has named me as its chairman. We are now gathering data on a bold new plan which could solve the continent's water problems for the next 100 years. The idea is to collect surplus water from the rivers of Alaska, the Yukon Territory and British Columbia and draw, it southward through a gigantic system of canals, reservoirs, tunnels and rivers.

Heart of the system would be a vast reservoirlake 500 miles long. This would fill to overflowing a gorge, known as Rocky Mountain Trench, high in the upper reaches of the Columbia, Fraser and Kootenay Rivers. Situated near Banff and Jasper National Parks, this great man-made lake would open up a vast new recreational area in addition to watering the West from central Canada deep into Mexico. Of course, this plan would require the endorsement and co-operation of the Canadian and Mexican governments, and they have already indicated their interest.

Is this great rearrangement of nature feasible? The Ralph M. Parsons Co., experienced in water projects all over the globe, claims it can be done. Though the project would be staggering in size, it would utilize techniques now in everyday use and require no new technological breakthroughs.

How much would it cost? It is estimated the project would take at least 30 years to complete and would require a $100 billion investment. This figure may seem less prohibitive, however, if we keep in mind that the revenue from the water and power will eventually repay the cost.

WATER, POWER AND SOIL

Here's what the system would do:

- Bring to the West its own, man-made Mississippi River. The other ingredients for development are already there, but advancement will be limited until the water arrives.
- Provide a navigable waterway from Vancouver on the Pacific to Duluth on Lake Superior.
- Raise the level of the Great Lakes enough to increase electric power production at Niagara by 50 per cent and cleanse the lakes of pollution.
- Not only double the water supply for all our own arid states but provide plentiful irrigation water for northern Mexico.
- Finally, provide an adequate water supply for the United States for the next 100 years.

The water and power could give birth to new mining, manufacturing, commercial and financial enterprises. Great modern cities could rise in Utah; Nevada and Arizona.

The rich soil would literally spring to life and produce a vast new food supply for our exploding population. Hunting, fishing, boating indeed, all the fine recreational opportunities of the great West—would flourish. The mountains, deserts and vast prairies would becken other Americans who could now have a choice of where to live their lives and how to live them.

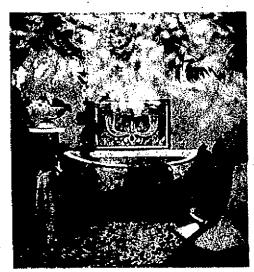

This is a vast project, but we must not be deterred by its size. The challenges ahead are great and it will take just such a program to meet them.

Is our double-ply toilet tissue becoming a status symbol?

It's "in" in Beverly Hills. Certain beautifullygroomed women wrap up their houssant hairdos for the night in pale pastel double-ply Crown Chisson toilet tissue. They're all customers of a samous hairdresser who insists on nothing less.

It's inspiring bathrooms in San Marino. You pick your favorite color Crown Chiffon—lilac, aqua, pink, yellow or white are twice as rich in double-ply—and take it from there. The starting point for "Roman Ruin," above, was lilac Crown Chiffon.

It entertains rich kids. Gives them something new to do. Crown Chiffon is so soft and velvety. And strong enough for mummifying little sisters.

"CROWS" AND "CHAFOR" AND PEGISTERS TRACTIFIED OF CROWN SELLERS.

If we've come up with a new status symbol, that's fine. All we started out to make was the softest, richest, most luxurious double-ply toilet tissue there is: Crown Chiffon your own plane plus your own pilot, owning an inside, and an outside, dog. (But among double status symbols, Crown Chiffon still has the distinction of being, at least, the least expensive.)

It's created other two-ply status symbols. Among them, this fur-lined fur coat, having

WHAT MAKES

In 1926, when he was 32 years old, Jack Benny met Sadie Marks, who was then selling hosiery in Los Angeles. A few months later, in January 1927, they were married,

n Friday, September 25, Jack Benny, an American institution of 70, will begin his 15th season on television and his 55th in show business.

Before the current season is finished, this beloved funnyman will have been tuned in by more video-viewers than any other performer of our time. In addition to his weekly Friday night stint over NBC at $75,000 per program, Benny will be telecast by CBS, the network he recently left, via two sets of old shows. One is called Sunday with Jack Benny, on from 5 to 5:30 p.m. The other set of reruns is entitled The Jack Benny Program and will be shown each weekday starting October 5, from 4:30 to 5 p.m.

Ordinarily such over exposure—no other comic is on TV six days a week—would doom any comedian. But Jack Benny is not "any" comedian.

In the course of five decades he has devised such a sure stimulus to the public funny bone that he has become a legend in his own time, a household staple, a seemingly basic ingredient of the American culture—the lovable, endearing cheap skate with the helpless, glazed look, the inept butt of his own fabricated miserliness. He is the indispensable comedian perennially welcomed and wanted by the people.

No comedian of this century has sustained his success and popularity as long as Jack Benny. The longevity of his career—it started in 1909—is amazing. Almost all his contemporaries—Eddie Cantor, Groucho Marx, Ben Bernie, Phil Baker, Fred Allen, Will Rogers—have either died or passed into semi-retirement.

Only Benny continues to meet the challenge, to come out week after week, standing there on stage, arms crossed, egg on his face, warm, good-natured, done in by the script, evoking smiles, titters and sometimes boffs of laughter by his audience.

WHAT'S THE HITCH?

One imagines that age 70 would find Jack a happy, peaceful, screne, fulfilled personality. Best-paid co-median in the world—he grosses somewhere around $5,000,000 a year—admired and respected by fans the world over, honored and emulated by members of his own fraternity, happily married since 1927 to his first and only wife, incredibly healthy, surprisingly youthful-looking without once ever having submitted to a face lift—"I would have got one if I needed it, but luckily I never have"—possessor of every creature comfort from Rolls-Royce to Beverly Hills mansion, Benny is nevertheless an insecure, frequently troubled man bedeviled by moods of moroscness and depression, nagged by a feeling of unfulfillment and inferiority.

From time to time he wanders aimlessly along the streets of Beverly Hills, a loner, a man occasionally given to crotchetiness or hypochondria, or he drives dispiritedly around Los Angeles or plays a solitary round of golf at the Hillcrest Country Club, a man in search of life's meaning, not knowing how or where to find it, an incomplete and unrequited man, a paradox and anomaly.

JACK RUN

In an effort to find out what makes Benny tick—he's a fascinating human being to interview, glib and stimulating, unphilosophical but eloquent, full of dicta and contradictions—I asked him if in the winter of his life he liked the kind of man he had become.

"Not entirely," he answered frankly, "because I have a lot of faults that I shouldn't have. For instance, one of the things I don't like about myself is being moody. But nobody knows that, except maybe my wife or people very close to me."

Benny is convinced that only he and his wife and intimates are privy to his weaknesses. He believes firmly that from all others he manages to hide his inadequacies.

MORNINGS ARE BEST

"You," he continued, "would never know that I'm moody in a million years. My closest friends would never know it. They think I'm the same jolly guy all the time. Good time Charlie! But I get moody more than I should. And I don't know what starts it off.

"Usually it starts late in the afternoon and then by night it's over again. I feel best in the mornings. In fact I try to do all my work in the mornings if I can. I get much more work done. I'm an early riser. I like to get up early and do things. I practice my violin. The only thing I like to do late is play golf. But everything else I do in the morning.

"I'm not a party comedian. I don't know how to be funny in people's homes like many comedians— George Burns or Bob Hope or Jerry Lewis or Milton Berle. This I know nothing about. I'm a good listener.

"Maybe I'm moody because I'm a perfectionist. I want my shows to be good. But I must say this, that years ago I was much more nervous than I am now. I find my work a lot easier. Years ago I placed too much importance on every performance. Let's say when I was really 39, I had a feeling that everything had to be perfect. It didn't have to be at all, but I thought it had to, and that made me nervous.

"Some people think I'm insecure. But I don't think so. Maybe a long time ago I was, even after I had success for a while. But now it's too late for me to be insecure. Financially, I'm pretty safe. I maybe should be worth millions more and could have been if I were a good business man. But money doesn't mean that much to me. I've got enough to be secure. To have security money is the first thing you should havefor your wife, family, kids, grandchildren. So I have that. Fortunately I also have my health. Career-wise, the public still wants me. But let's go to another extreme. Let's say that I've had enough of TV and maybe the audience has had enough of me. I still have concerts that I can give. Mine are always very successful. They never miss. I could do stage plays. I could do shows. Probably make a picture or two like Chevalier does by playing older parts. Why should I get moody or feel insecure?"

I suggested to Benny the possibility that he might not really like being a comedian, that perhaps he had always secretly hankered to become a business tycoon or a leading man like Cary Grant. "What omissions have there been in your life?" I asked.

Jack Benny and his daughter Joan, 30. She has been married three times, has had a child by each husband.

"Omissions?" Benny toyed with the word while he played with his spectacles. "I think," he declared, "that Mary and I should have adopted more than one child. That's a mistake I made. We adopted only Joan. But of course, right after that, Mary was going to have a baby herself, which she lost. So then I felt we should have adopted another couple of kids. But somehow we didn't. I kind of miss that. I would have liked to have had more kids, and more grandchildren.

"About being someone else," he went on, "if miracles could be performed, I guess I would like to be one of the world's great violinists. Then I could give concerts legitimately. They wouldn't take in as much as they do now and they wouldn't be as interesting. But I would like to do that for about a year. If I could go back to being 50 or 60 and feeling as good as I feel now, that also would be wonderful. But otherwise, I'd like to stay right where I am."

Many of the comic's friends say that Benny's inferiority complex is founded in his lack of formal education. Born Benny Kubelsky, son of Russian Jewish immigrants who opened a saloon in Waukegan, Ill., Benny left school in the ninth grade to take an $8-per-week job playing the violin in the pit of the Barrison Theatre. He never returned to school, but claims he has mixed feelings about his inadequate education.

"If you want to be in show business," he declares flatly—"let's say as an entertainer or a comedian—a college education isn't good for that. It's not conducive to good comedy. You should never go further than high school. Very few men who have gone through college have become successful comedians.

"To be a successful comedian you've got to stay down to earth. There's something about having had a good college education that keeps you a little bit too aloof. Your wordings, expressions and delivery and the words you put together in a sentence for comedy become, I would say, a little too brilliant. It just isn't funny. I think that maybe writers could go to college without suffering. But even they, if they have a good high school education, would be better off.

"You asked me what I've missed in life. I'll tell you. I never even went to high school. You would never know it. Nobody would ever know it the way I now conduct myself. But I never had a proper education. I finished school in public school. I went one year to high school. I haven't got too much knowledge. I missed that. I even missed a public school education because I wouldn't study. I wouldn't learn anything. Whatever I learned, I learned all by myself. But I wished I had more—at least a great college education."

I repeated to Benny what he had previously said about a college education not mixing with comedy.

"Maybe," he conceded, "an education would have kept me from reaching my present position. But it wouldn't have made any difference. I wouldn't have known any better. Now, at my age in life, when am I going to go to college? I don't have time for it.

"A lot of people when they got old took courses in college. I remember Fred Allen did. He took English at Columbia. I've been wanting to do that for years. Just never got to it. So that's the only thing I miss, a proper education. But as I say, nobody else knows about that except me. Who could possibly guess that by talking to me?

"I regret the fact that if a book is hard reading I have a difficult time with it. My mind wanders. I have too many other things to think about. If I had had a good education, my brain would work in the proper way. It would be used to hard reading, hard thinking.

BAFFLED BY VIETNAM

"To tell you the truth I have a hard time understanding the whole situation in Vietnam. But I'm not the only one. Even highly educated people don't know what's going on. But I'm not as well versed in politics as I'd like to be.

"This is due to lack of education. Some people like Georgie Jessel have educated themselves. Georgie practically never went to school at all. But he was able to do it himself.

"You see, the trouble with me was that when I first got into show business, I toured in vandeville in 1911. I liked it too much. I stayed in it instead of going back to school.

"Now, I'll tell you where a better education would have helped me. I'm a pretty good writer. I'd rather say co-writer. I'm a good co-everything: co-producer, co-director, co-writer and a real good editor. That's my husiness, but if I had the education that I wanted, I would have been a really good writer. I would have been able to write plays. With my sense of humor, Benny's great love in life has been his violin. He has raised more than $3 million for major symphony orchestras throughout the country by appearing in a series of concert engagements for which he accepts no money.

Benny will no longer entertain at stag parties such as this one given him by the Friars' Club. Secret tape recordings were made of some off-color routines and subsequently sold at high prices throughout the world. Today they are considered to be collector's items.

Dennis Day is one of many singers Benny has discovered. Others include Phil Harris and Frank Parker,

with the ideas that I turn over to my writers and the fact that I'm such a good editor—that's the only thing I brag about. I am a great editor—then I would have been a truly fine writer.

"It isn't the fact that I have a lousy vocabulary. I haven't. My vocabulary is all right. I just never use it."

Like most headliners of the show business world, Jack Benny isn't particularly sure of his true identity. He does know, however, what he is not. "I am definitely," he asserts, "not the kind of guy I play on stage and I'm constantly amazed that so many people, even sophisticated people, think I am."

A few weeks ago, for example, Benny was interviewed by a reporter who asked him seriously, "How long have you owned a Maxwell?" Maxwell is the name of an automobile popular in the early years of the century. Benny dropped the name into one of his early radio broadcasts as a humor prop, but many fans believe he still retains such a vehicle.

In truth Jack drives an $18,000 Rolls-Royce. When he bought it 3 years ago, he proudly drove it to the home of his oldest and best friend, comic George Burns. The Burns' maid inspected the sedan with its ultraconservative lines, later remarked to her employer, "With all his money, you'd think Mr. Benny wouldn't drive such an old-fashioned car."

Benny is constantly embarrassed by repeated references to himself as a veteran penny pincher. To dispel that specter he always overtips: $1 to a doorman, $5 to a cabbie, $10 to a waiter.

As a vaudevillian in the 1920's, Jack used to eat regularly in many of the automat restaurants, where nickels are dropped into machines to permit the purchaser to lift a glass window and extricate his food. For years following his great success, Benny was most anxious to continue eating in these New York City restaurants, but was fearful that his fans would recognize and chastise him as a miser.

HOW TO EAT IN THE AUTOMAT

Not too long ago he finally figured out how to dine in the automat without embarrassment. He took over the entire branch on 45th Street, invited 400 guests, hired a dance band, installed 3 bars and hosted a gala black-tie affair. As each guest arrived Jack handed him $3 in nickels to work the food machines.

Benny claims sadly that he suffers from a poor money sense. "I don't think anybody throws more money away than Mary and I do. Unfortunately I know very little about economics." But here again, what Jack Benny actually is and what he thinks he is are two different men.

In the entertainment industry he has long been recognized as a shrewd cookie when it comes to finance. In 1948 he moved his program from NBC to CBS, got Bill Paley of CBS to pay $2,260,000 for Amusements, Inc., a company he controlled. In 1961 he sold his production company, J and M Productions, for $2,750,000 in Music Corporation of America stock. In both deals he made fortunes in capital gains.

A few months ago, fed up with the tactics of Jim Aubrey, CBS program chief, he gave Aubrey's network exactly five days to pick up his option. When the network stalled he promptly signed next day with NBC, where the executives rolled out the financial red carpet for him, meeting all his demands.

By nature a generous man, Benny likes to be treated generously by others. His public cheap skate image bugs him. He was particularly elated therefore when the late President Kennedy wrote him a thank-you note for a money clip he had sent to the White House via Peter Lawford. The money clip contained a single dollar bill, but Kennedy wrote that he for one knew how truly extravagant Benny really was. He was sure Jack had sent him not $1 but $750, and he was equally sure, he joked, that Peter Lawford had kept $749 as his commission.

Unlike most comedians who are tyrannical and temperamental with their employees—especially—their writers—Benny is kind, thoughtful and tactful. His four writers and his cast of characters, Don Wilson, Rochester, Mel Blanc and Dennis Day, have worked with and for him from 15 to 32 years. Benny has almost always treated them as gentlemen. "I am not interested in myself," he tells them over and over again. "I'm interested in the continued excellence of our show.

BE A DIPLOMAT

"I've learned over the years" Benny maintains, "that one of the most important things in life is human relationships. I start on the supposition that people are just as sensitive as I am, writers are even more so.

"For me the best time to work with my writers and east is in the morning, that's when I'm most cheerful. I've learned never to tell anybody, especially writers, that this stinks or this satire is lousy, because then I merely put them in an antagonistic frame of mind.

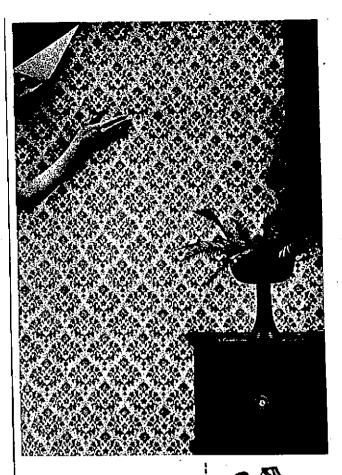

"In the first place, my writers don't write lines which stink. They get too much money for that. Second, I may disagree with them but I listen anyway. I like to let everybody know they're doing a good job, and even though it's for selfish purposes, I get the best results that way.

"I'm not an ad-libber. You know what Fred Allen said about me? I couldn't ad-lib a belch after a Hungarian dinner. But I appreciate ad-libs and wit and humor and talent. Nobody laughs as hard and as genuinely as I do at the routines and jokes of other comedians. I appreciate them and I don't mind showing it.

"This isn't because I'm such a nice guy. I know it's the way to get results, to make friends, to make life pleasant. We all have selfish motives. Everybody thinks I'm a nice guy because I give concerts for charity, because I go overseas to entertain the troops, because I play at benefits. The selfish motive is that I like to do those things. They give me pleasure.

"Writers like to make me out a very complex screwed up guy. They say I have everything in life I can possibly want, that there's no need for my ever getting depressed or lost or moody. The truth is that I'm a simple guy, a grateful guy who loves what he's doing, and if I get moody once in a while, so what? I'm a character, not a 24-hour-a-day clown, a man, not a laugh machine, a tipper, not a tightwad.

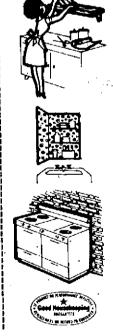

"Matter of fact for a comedian I am surprisingly normal. I have never been to a psychiatrist and I've only been married once. A fellow could hardly be more normal than ther"

these skirts swing

by VIRGINIA POPE

A swinging dress just right for dancing is this black rayon crepe with flaring skirt below a princess style torso. Ann Barry $26.

I lyaway skirts that move with the walk are swinging into the fashion picture this fall in mid-kneecap length for the young and covered kneecap length for the not-so-young. These new animated models come in box pleats, front pleats, accordions, pinch pleats and sunburst styles. Ladies, who for the past few seasons have had to mince along when they walked, will now be free to stride, run, get into a car or bus without fear of ripping their seams. What's more, when they're seated, their skirts will be graceful instead of riding up above the knees awkwardly. On these pages are several versions adapted for morning, noon and evening. All have a saucy air.

Torso-tight camel-color wool dress has front button trim and back-zippered convenience. The blas flare skirt is set at hip line. Sue Brett $23.

Royal blue double-knit two-piece wool suit has gilt ball-buttons and French cuffs on overblouse, skirt with stitched pleats. R & K Originals $35.

"Dad... can I have $20,000 for college?"

Free booklet tells how you can be sure you'll have the money to send your children to college!

In both public and private colleges, the costs of education have risen sharply in recent years. At an average private school, for example, the annual expense is about $3,000. By 1974 the cost will have soured to $5,220—and it will continue to rise about 5% each year.

These are the frightening figures facing today's parents. They are spelled out in detail in a timely new booklet written especially for New York Life by a nationally known authority on education.

He points out the increasing importance of education beyond high school.

"Generally, the youngster who goes to college will gain faster job advancement, higher income and greater economic security than the youth who does not."

Planning is the key. This expert holds out the hope that "any qualified student can find a suitable school to go to"—and will if parents plan ahead realistically. He suggests that "the earlier you start, the easier and cheaper it is to accumulate the funds you need." There are many ways available to finance a college education: long-term loans, installment loans, personal long-range savings, government bonds, stocks, life insurance and a variety of scholarships. The booklet tells you the comparative advantages of each.

HOSPITAL TABS. It costs more and more to get sick these days -- especially if you're hospitalized. According to the American Hospital Association, $40 a day, or $293 for an average stay -- slightly more than a week -- will cover the essentials. In 1946 you could get hospitalized for $9.39 a day. Why the increase? Mounting wages to the increased number of employees needed to provide expanded hospital services. Last year, hospitals in this country employed 241 employees to care for every 100 patients.

GOING TO JAPAN? Beginning October 1, English-language announcements will be made on the Ginza line of the Tokyo subway system. Tokyo's surface transportation system is a mess, and the Japanese would like to get as many Olympic games visitors as possible to use the subway. The Ginza line spreads from the Olympic sites, through downtown Tokyo, to Asakusa, one of the major amusement areas of the city.

YOUNG MARRIAGE. So many Americans are getting married in their teens that the U.S. "age-at-marriage pattern" is more rapidly approaching the Asian than the European model. A 50-year survey of marriage trends by the Population Reference Bureau, Washington, D.C., reveals that American brides and grooms are now *younger and closer in age at first marriage than are those in any other major urbanindustrial country in the world. " Parents who don't want their daughters to marry at 18, the age at which most of them are marrying, should try to get them into college. On the average, a college education delays a girl's marriage four years, to 22, which is the most common marriage age for women college graduates. For high school graduates, 18 is the wedding age, and for women who did not attend high school, 14 to 16.

CANNED FRENCH WINE. American tourists shopping Paris supermarkets this summer were surprised to find cans of Beautolais wine for sale at 50 cents each. On sale by Faye et Cie as an experiment, the canned wine is selling well, may soon be exported to the U.S. The wine cans are equipped with a special preparation on the inside to prevent the wine from reacting on the metal. White wines as yet cannot be canned because of their higher acidity. Andre Simon, president of the Wine and Food Society, was asked to comment on canned wine. "In principle," he explained. "canning is a safe way of marketing a poor wine. Put wine in a bottle and oxygen will get through the cork. If it's a good wine, time will make it better. If it's a poor wine, time will make it worse. Putting it in a can will at least stop it from getting worse."

ARTIFICIAL HEART. Surgeons at Baylor University College of Medicine, Waco, Tex., and engineers at Rice University in Houston are working on the development of an implantable artificial heart. Dr. Michael DeBakey, the great heart man at Baylor, believes that within five years total heart replacement with an artificial device will become possible. Bad heart? Trade it in for a new model.

LAND PRICES. The cost of land is booming in most sections of the nation, up 20% sinco 1950. Basic reasons for the rise: (1) limited acreage for housing developments; (2) tendency of wealthy land-owners to keep their property off the market, feeling the longer they wait to sell, the higher the price.

competition. European auto manufacturers are worried about increased competition in their own countries from subsidiaries of Ford, G.M. and Chrysler. As a result, Volkswegen, Renault and Fiat are beginning a series of "informal talks" on how to handle the competition from U.S.-owned companies.

U.S. SCOUTS LIVE IT UP AT ANNUAL JAMBUKER

BOY SCOUTS. The British are worried. Membership in the Boy Scout movement, which they originally founded, fell by 31,000 last year. In this country, however, Boy Scout membership last November was up 3.4% over the previous November, from 3,668,711 to 3,792,232. Americans like being Boy Scouts.

Football star Paul Hornung and his mother. She raised him alone from the time he was 4.

THE STORY OF A MOTHER AND HER FAMOUS SON

CAN PAUL HORNUNG MAKE A COMEBACK?

by NEAL ASHBY

heavy toe will thump against a football at 1:05 P.M. here today, and for a rugged halfback and a gentle woman that kickoff will launch far more than another season.

For the halfback, handsome Green Bay Packer star Paul Hornung, a glamorous and lucrative career is on the line. He fidgeted through last season in mental torment, under suspension for betting on National Football League games. The sports world wonders if he can come back.

For the woman, devoted Loretta Hornung, it's an opportunity for restoration of family honor. As both mother and father, she's shared Hornung's glorious football seasons, in high school at Louisville, Ky., at Notre Dame and in the NFL, as few women could share an athlete's career.

Touchdowns, field goals and cheering crowds can wipe away the stigma of gambling that blotches the record she's proudly watched her only child compile.

Through weeks of sweaty, punishing pre-season drills and exhibition games, Hornung, at 28, has been battling to return to his demonstrated form as a runner, pass-catcher and place-kicker.

Loretta Hornung will be in the grandstand at the Packers-Chicago Bears game today. To her, the Packers' No. 5 will be not simply a player but the son she raised by herself "with a lot of prayer, a little luck and a little discipline." And the son in whom she never lost faith.

It's been "Do or Die Together" for the Hornungs since Paul was 4. "Ret" Hornung and her husband were separated that year. She went to work.

At first they lived with her mother, who operated a grocery store. Then her mother, who had kept house while the daughter was away at work, unexpectedly passed away. Paul was 9. In her soft voice, Mrs. Hornung recalls telling her son after his grandmother's death:

"You'll have to be a man now, Paul."

She rented the second story of the home of a woman friend. That way there was someone for Paul to come home to.

"But I was fortunate," the mother says in the tasteful Hornung apartment in Louisville, where she has waited anxlously for scraps of news of her son.

"Paul came home and changed his clothes and went out to play ball. Or he stayed at school to practice for teams. I always knew where he was."

Because of football stardom (though studies came easily for Paul), the years at Flaget High were proud and good. Notre Dame, where Hornung played quarterback and won the Heisman Trophy as the nation's autstanding college player, enlarged the picture.

After graduation, he joined the Packers for the 1957 season. It was a poor team and Hornung was unable to distinguish himself that year or the next.

Then new coach Vince Lombardi began to build a crisp and devastating football machine. Hornung quickly became one of the men who made it go. The team won the world championship in 1961 and 1962 and barely missed the Western Division title last year.

Hornung set a league scoring record with 176 points in 1960 and again was scoring leader in '61.

The crowds loved this true golden boy of sports—he has the face and physique (6-feet-1, 215 pounds) of a Greek gladiator. So did the girls. And so did individuals and companies eager to have the gridiron hero as a business partner or endorser of products. His salary and outside income climbed crazily.

THE SURPRISE OF 1963

In 1962, a twisted knee kept Paul out of action much of the year.

'63 was a bomb-burst. In April came the stunning announcement that Hornung had been suspended by the NFL for "counselling" a businessman-friend known to be a bettor, and himself placing bets, for as much as $500, on games. However, the league investigation report stressed that Hornung never bet against his team or performed less than his best.

"Everything had been going so beautifully for us," relates Mrs. Hornung. "It all seemed to end with that phone call. We knew there'd been an investigation and that an announcement could be expected. But months went by and we had thought maybe there wouldn't be any action. I just felt limp."

As she spoke, her manner was characteristically calm and unemotional. She is of medium height, slim and attractive.

HIS MOTHER'S REACTION

"Paul and I talked for hours. This has been his only big setback. He took it well. That was no surprise. He told me, 'Mom, I haven't done anything morally wrong.' That was what I wanted to hear.

"Then he said, 'I was a scoring champion. Wouldn't everybody know I was always trying my best?"

"My reaction? Love and tears. That's about it in a nutshell. He's my son, but he was wrong. Shoot, Paul's no angel. I'd be the first to say it.

"Other players may have done what he did, but other wrongs don't make a right. I'm a religious person. I told Paul, 'God has a purpose for everything.'"

Hornung shook off bitterness. "I broke a rule that's there in black and white in the contract," he says.

"Who did I think of when I got the news? It's your own problem. You think of yourself, because you've hurt yourself far more than anyone else. . .

"Then I thought of my mother, and I knew it would hurt her, too. I don't have much other family, and I'm not married or engaged."

The Hornungs were numbed, but they got themselves moving again.

Hornung began to see the first of what became an overwhelming mass of evidence that football followers would not turn against him.

He was hired to do sports commentary shows on local radio and television. The Louisville promotion firm with which he's associated did not drop him, nor did the national swimsuit firm for which he does promotion work.

Letters, from children and adults, and telegrams flowed to the apartment. Hornung found that:

"A lot of people placed a lot of faith in me. Ninety-nine per cent of the messages were favorable.

Last March 16, Commissioner Pete Rozelle did lift Hornung's suspension. For Ret Hornung:

"My prayers were answered."

She saw a new buoyancy in her son. He talked a lot about the coming season. She wasn't surprised when he left for Green Bay on April 15-3 months before the opening of the Packers' training scason-to begin conditioning himself for the test ahead.

"I'll make them forget," he told her. He began by sprinting up the stadium stairs in a rubber jacket. On the practice field, where Coach Lombardi has driven his men hard under the summer sun, Horning has looked good.

He has had a year to think about what 1964 means to him.

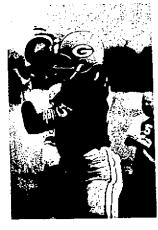

"This year is the biggest thing that's happened to me," Paul Horning says. "It's the chance to do again what I'd rather do than anything else.

"I've developed pride of performance. And I've learned that if you don't deliver, you don't get the salary, or get a chance at the outside money.

"I want to be a great player on a great team again. Life has gone good. It's all due to football.

"I'm optimistic. My knee is 100 per cent again. I'm aiming for a great year, for my personal sake and because of what people expect of me,"

His suspension ended and comeback begun, halfback Hornung has worked hard during 'Packers' training season. Above, from top, he place-kicks, catches pass, carries the ball.

your boss plunked down package containing the item bown above and said: This is a creativ ity kit. You've got a week to make some thing out of it

That's just what happened to about 800 employees of United Air Lines recently It was all part of a program to stimulate their creative thinking. Says one official of the firm: We realized that our employees had more than arms and legs, that they had eyes and ears and brains, and that we should be using all the anatomy rather than just the extremities.

The firm called on Prof. Frank Wil liams; San Jose State College, Calif., an authority on creative thinking. He organized two courses. When the first, for only 24 employees, was over, suggestions poured in and they added up to savings of about $16,000 as contrasted with suggestions worth $1,500 before the course A second program was designed to show some 800 workers how flexible the mind once dragged from its rut. One method sed was to show a picture of a very old Take years off my dental plates?

Tell me how!

There's a brand new power in new Polident that whitens away years of yellowing stains as it sweetens away dental odor. Here's why—

This microscopic photograph proves that as normal dental plates age, thousands of tiny holes appear. Tiny cavities. Denture Cavities where years of yellowing stains and odor-causing bacteria hide.

A toothbrush is powerless. The bristles just can't reach into all these cavities to clean out all stains ... to eliminate all the causes of denture breath.

Now new, much more powerful Polident cleans with a burst of oxygen energy. The Power of Polident penetrates into denture cavities to help whiten away years of yellowing stains and sweeten away denture breath as toothpaste never could. Dentures stay sparkling clean and odor-free 'round the clock.

Now you can take years off your dentures with just one daily bath in the completely new Power of Polident.

Remember-ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

the mysterious inner ear

by FRED WARSHOFSKY

Drawing shows complex ear mechanism: A, outer ear; B, middle ear, which transmits sound waves; C, delicate inner ear, which contains hearing organs, controls balance.

hree of the astronauts to penetrate space, John Glenn, Alan Shepard and Russian Gherman Titov have in recent months been grounded by afflictions of the inner ear. While doctors are unable to show a relationship between space flights and the inner ear problems of the astronauts, their fame has helped to dramatize the mystery and widespread nature of inner ear disorders.

The human ear does far more than hear. It also controls balance, position and posture. It tells us whether we are standing up or sitting down, whether we are in motion or at rest, turning or moving in a straight line.

When disease or injury disrupts the complex mechanisms, the effects can be disastrous. Walls and floors heave and buckle as vertigo places its frightening clutch on the victim of an inner car disturbance. "In severe cases," says Dr. Allan Sheer, famed car surgeon at New York's Polyclinic Hospital, "it can be completely debilitating. Vertigo victims cannot even sit up in bed without the dizzying sensation that the entire world is tumbling about their ears. With vertigo a variety of other ills—loss of hearing, ringing or buzzing noises in the head and nausea and vomiting—can result from disturbances of the inner ear."

These problems result from damage to or infection of any of three complex organs within the inner ear. One is the semicircular canals, three looping labyrinths of bone filled with fluid. This fluid flows back and forth in the canals, bending sensitive nerve endings in the direction of movement. The nerve endings send messages—"I'm turning left," for example—to the brain, which sets up reflex actions such as turning the eyes and head to adjust to the movement.

The other two organs inform the brain of the relationship of the body to the pull of gravity. These are the utricle, affected by acceleration, and the saccule, which flashes deceleration signals to the brain.

In normal activity, the inner car usually performs flawlessly. But certain types of motion place quite different stresses upon it. The rolling motions of a ship, a plane or even a car in very sensitive individuals cause the fluids of the inner car to bend the nerve endings in an abnormal fashion. The brain reacts with feelings of nausea and sometimes vomiting, the dread symptoms of seasickness.

RESULT: SCRAMBLED SIGNALS

But seasickness is a transitory disturbance. Far more stubborn and serious are the effects of injury and disease upon the inner car. When Col. Glenn slipped and cracked his head on the bathtub, he probably sent shock waves smashing through his inner ear. As a consequence every step he took, every tilt of his head sent scrambled signals to his brain.

More common are infections which begin in the throat and climb the Eustachian tube to the ear and produce the same effects. These infections are generally less lasting. Their duration is about one to two weeks.

Often diseases of the inner ear are lumped together under the name Ménière's syndrome. This occurs when the fluids build up great pressure and force the nerve endings to send confusing signals to the brain.

Until recently there was virtually no effective treatment for Ménière's syndrome. Opening the inner ear is an extremely dangerous procedure and the risk of causing permanent damage is great. Surgical treatment was aimed at destroying the organs of balance in the afflicted inner ear to allow the healthy ear to take over the entire job of maintaining balance. But more often than not, the surgeon destroyed part of the hearing mechanism as well and possibly part of the nerve which also controlled the facial muscles.

Now a new technique beams ultrasonic sound at the affected organs and offers hope to victims of Ménière's syndrome. But for astronauts and those of us who encounter temporary infections of the inner ear, time is still the best healer.

Seven months after leaving hospital, Astronaut John Glenn is still grounded by inner ear injury.

HOME IS WHERE THE HEART IS

by SID ROSS

CLARENCE VEST 'lowa is more relaxed—a slower pace.'

EDWARD MADSEN
"It's much better in a small community."

ROBERT HAMILTON
"I want to be free to choose what I do."

WILSON MABREY
"We're small, but we're independent,"

temporary truce prevails today in the border war between lowa and Nebraska. But the approximately 3,000 persons here caught in the middle are uneasily looking forward to the next skirmish.

In the modest homes, the gas stations, the shops, the overriding topic is: Will Carter Lake remain in Iowa, to which it has belonged since Iowa became a state in 1846? Or will the bordering state of Nebraska win its suit in the U.S. Supreme Court to take over Carter Lake, lock, stock and barrel?

"You read about some of these countries going to the United Nations to complain about their territory being taken over—I can understand how they feel. I don't want to be taken over!"

That's the aroused declaration of an insurance salesman here. He voices the feelings of the great majority of Carter Lake's citizens.

Carter Lake's trouble is that it's on the Nebraska side of the Missouri River. All the other Iowa towns and cities along the twisting Missouri are on the Iowa, or easterly, side.

Nebraska has taken its claim to the Supreme Gourt. "What Nebraska wants' is our money!" cries an elderly Carter Lake resident. "We've got close to $4 million in assessed valuation. If we were to become part of Omaha our taxes would be double or triple."

His mention of Omaha points up Carter Lake's unique geographical position. During a great flood in 1877, the Missouri cut across a loop in its course. An isolated horseshoe of water was left on the westerly side and a community grew up around it. Nebraska staked a claim to the tract in 1890 and took that to the Supreme Court. Nebraska lost.

ALMOST SWALLOWED BY OMAHA

Since then, the large city of Omaha (pop.: 310,-000) has almost surrounded Carter Lake, leaving the town like a thumbprint at the edge of a sheet of paper.

Actually, there is disputed land all along the Iowa-Nebraska border. Rivers commonly wander. Soil deposits build up and stream channels shift. Since the last time the two states agreed that the center of the Missouri's channel would be their boundary, the Missouri has meandered. Shoals and islands have been left on opposite sides of the channel from where they had been.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has now stabilized the channel. The two states are ready to make a new center-of-the-channel compact.

But Nebraska demands everything on the west side —including Carter Lake, lowa, Pottawattamic County, and most Carter Lake residents say "No!"

"We want to stay the way we are," says fatherly-looking Wilson E. Mabrey, who is both mayor and police chief of Carter Lake. We get along fine in Iowa. We don't want anyone to bother us."

Says a Carter Lake widow: "Our Iowa income tax costs us money, yes, but in our state we have a homestead exemption. Everyone who owns his own home and lives in it pays a lower property tax rate. Iowa also gives war veterans property tax exemptions. Nebraska doesn't give any exemptions."

A young auto mechanic castigates Nebraska, asserting, "I wouldn't be found dead there." But he admits he regularly makes the five-minute trip into Omaha for shopping—and avoids the lowa sales tax—while enjoying lower property taxes as an Iowa resident.

"Here you can walk right in and pay your taxes," says an elderly night watchman. "In Omaha, if we were part of that, why you couldn't even find a place to park to pay your taxes!"

In fact, as many folks in Carter Lake see it, Omaha is the bully of the piece. Robert Hamilton, 73 and born and raised in Carter Lake, declares: "I don't like the big shots of Omaha, the way they're doing. I don't want to move into Nebraska."

In 1963, Carter Lake officials circulated a petition on which 1,091 citizens signified their desire to remain Iowans. Only 48 indicated they'd prefer that their hometown be part of Nebraska, or were neutral in the matter.

A FEW WANT TO CHANGE

But the pro-Nebraskans state definite reasons for their attitudes. "This is only a hick town," scoffs a home-owner. "The mayor and his bunch run things the way they please."

"This place is asleep," says another. "I'd like to see it grow. It won't do it as long as it stays in Iowa." "There's no supermarket or shopping center," objects a gas station operator.

The report of a subcommittee of the Iowa House of Representatives rebuts the last complaint. "It appears that the criticism regarding no gracery stores is simply not well founded," states the report, pointing out that adjoining Omaha has many.

Another criticism has been that organized gambling has been carried on in Carter Lake.

"Shucks, we don't have any gambling here in town anymore," Mayor Mabrey responds.

The Iowa House subcommittee came out foursquare on the side of the Carter Lakers. And it said no ruling which would give the little city to Nebraska should be binding until affirmatively voted upon by its citizens and approved by the county. But there is much concern in Carter Lake over Nebraska's bid to gather it in. Says one citizen:

"I don't know if we can stop them. They can buy and sell us anytime."

Most citizens hope it remains "lowa." But a Supreme Court ruling might necessitate a change to "Nebraska."

why you should use a special colorfast shampoo if you color or lighten your hair

"You don't want to lose the marvelous advantage your haircoloring gives you," says Frederic Jones. "The right color lights up your looks to new beauty. Fortunately, you have another big advantage in Clairol Shampoo. This special colorfast shampoo won't change your hair color, or turn it cloudy—as some shampoos do." Very different from other leading shampoos, colorfast shampoo by Clairol was specifically created for women who color or lighten their hair. Two unique formulas: Clairol Blue for all light delicate blonde shades of lightened and toned hair. Clairol Green

words on wide-awakes and sleepyheads

Think you've got a little night owl on your hands? No cause for worry. Sleep patterns, like all baby behavior patterns, vary. Some babies simply need less sleep than others. A rarin'-to-go baby, for example, is apt to sleep less and more lightly than an easy-come, easy-go baby. But, according to the experts, "forty-winks" babies blossom just as beautifully as sleepyheads.

Basic for all babies

I'm talking about Gerber Baby Cereals...menu basics from babyhood through toddlerhood ... for the special nutrients they supply, namely, iron, calcium and important B-vitamins. Nutritional goodness galore and in the nicest forms imaginable—Rice Cereal, Barley, Oatmeal, Mixed Cereal and High Protein Cereal. Each one has a delicate but distinctive flavor. All have a dreamy-smooth texture. Gerber Cereals come in 8-oz. or 16-oz. sizes and Gerber Cereal Sixes, a variety package of small-size boxes for beginners.

Sandman suggestions

While you can't make your baby sleep more than he wants to, there are ways to encourage him to enter the land of nod:

- Plenty of fresh air and reasonable activity during waking hours help baby succumb to sleep naturally.
- Peace and quiet before bedtime.
   An over-stimulated body doesn't give up easily. Grandmother-methods, like lullabying and gentle rocking still work wonders.

Fruit-ful ideas

Always in season and for good reason. Gerber Strained Fruits are year-round favorites with babies. And small wonder. The eye-appealing colors and true-fruit flavors are enough to make any baby sing for his supper. What makes them so extra-special? Why, they're flash-cooked in a matter of seconds to protect natural colors and flavors and preserve the utmost in precious vitamin values. Have you treated baby to the new Applesauce with Pineapple? Marvelous!

Everything you need.

Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business ...our only business!"*

HERE ARE NEW IDEAS FOR HOME AND FAMILY BY PETER DRYDEN

Easy concrete repairs: Just add water to a new vinyl compound and you can trowel it on only 1/16-inch-thick to repair holes, cracks in concrete steps, driveways, patios. It bonds without preparation of old concrete. Gallon: $6.95 in stores. Vulcan, Dept. PP, 79-18 Parsons Blvd., Flushing 66, N.Y.

Step saver: This 2-station home intercom system (below) uses 1-piece handsets that take only 4 inches of desk or shelf space, stand 8½ inches high, offer excellent voice clarity. Standard C batteries provide power, last up to a year because phones shut off automatically after use. $34.95. Roycraft, Dept. PP, 226 W. 39 St., Kansas City, Mo. 64111.

Oscillating electric heater: Here's the first one (abore) to oscillate like a fan to heat wall to wall. You can tilt it to stop window fogging or keep baby warm at bath time, set it for stationary heating, too. It has 3 push-button heat controls (1100, 1320, 1650 watts), automatic thermostat. Details: Westinghouse, Dept. PP, Mansfield, Ohio.

For your car: New way to polish it is with a paste cleaner-wax that melts and spreads like a liquid as you apply it, minimizing your work. Use it in sum or shade—even on moderately dirty car. $1.70 in stores. S. G. Johnson & Son, Dept. PP, Racine, Wis.

Parade of Progress items are NOT advertising. Write manufacturer if not available in stores. Manufacturers & Distributors: Parade will consider your new ideas but regrets it cannot correspond about them.

IICK CONFESSION MAY SAVE KILLER

Last Jan. 22, Earnest Leroy Jacobson picked up his sleeping 22-month-old daughter, took her into the bathroom of his Signal Hill apartment, placed her in a partly filled bathtub and held her under water

On July 9, the jury which had convicted the 33year-old alcoholic of first-degree murder, sentenced him to die in California's gas chamber.

But, Chief Dep. Dist. Atty. Manley Bowler grimly admits a recent decision by the California Supreme Court makes it probable that the conviction will be reversed.

Furthermore, he said, that same decision makes the likelihood of a successful reprosecution of Jacobson remote.

The reason: after Jacobson was arrested, he admitted the murderl

To repeat, Jacobson stands a chance of escap-

because he confessed the crime.

The Supreme Court decision Bowler refers to was handed down Aug. 31:

It holds that a suspect, once a police investigation has focused on him, must at once be informed of his constitutional right to remain silent and to have the benefit of counsel.

The conviction of Robert Dorado, a San Quentin convict who had stabbed to death a fellow prisoner, was set aside on the grounds that he had not been so informed.

The 6-1 decision of the state's highest tribunal came on the heels of a U.S. Supreme Court decision similar in nature but not quite as far-reaching as the California ruling.

After Jacobson had killed his little girl, he called a social worker of the state welfare bureau and told him what he had done. The social worker called police. The police went to Jacobson's Signal Hill home.

He took them inside and showed them the daughter by his common-law wife.

He readily admitted the crime. Later, in the police station, he said that if the child's mother had been there, he would have killed her, too.

But no one told him he didn't have to confess, and he confessed.

Because he did, he now may go free.

"Jacobson's statements are a vital part of the prosecution's case," Bowler said. "I believe it (the Dorado decision) casts serious doubts as to the validity of the conviction."

The State Supreme Court automatically reviews all death-penalty cases. Bowler said that a reversal, based on the Dorado decision, was "prob-

He said the possibility was strong that Jacob son would regain his liberty.

"But we will prosecute him again," Bowler said, "and hope for the best. The Supreme Court feels it has an obligation to protect the rights of the individual. We feel we have an obligation to

Dora Throws New Punch, Floods Rout Nearly 2,000

FLORIDA, GEORGIA AREAS DELUGED

Dora came to life again Saturday, sending floodwaters rushing rooftop-high and forcing nearly 2,000 persons to flee their homes in two states.

A huge area of north Florida and south Georgia was soaked with up to 18 inches of rain in less than 36 hours.

Forecasters said the resurgent Dora, written off as dead and now a tropical storm again, would regain hurricane force today when it returns to the Atlantic that spawned it 12 days ago,

The Red Cross said at least 1,000 homes had been evacuated on Florida's west coast above Tampa and another 350 families may have to seek shelter in the Gainesville area. More than 200 homes were caught in flash floods at Waycross,

COL, GEORGE L. Robinson, Florida's deputy civil defense director, said at least 1,500 persons had been driven from their homes and more were evacuating hourly.

He said 300 to 400 homes were evacuated in Live Oak, where rooftops peeked over the rushing waters and motorboats churned over the tops of submerged automobiles. The water was 30 feet deep in some areas.

Nearly all of the town's business district was under one to six feet of water. Sewage plants were knocked out but Mayor Marvin Phillips said "the water supply is still good."

of its banks and civil defense authorities ordered homes evacuated along a 50-mile stretch of the river

The little fishing village of Homosassa was almost entirely evacuated. The neighboring towns of Homosassa Springs and Chrystal River, a resort town with many expensive homes, was hard hit. About 200 persons had to be evacuated in Cross City.'

At Chrystal River, Policeman Giles Fields sat in the city hall in four inches of water answering the telephone. "I've been wearing boots for two days," he said. "The sewer line is out and we've, been boiling all the water."

THE plush Port Paradise resort hotel turned out its guests and closed down when water rose four feet in the lobby.

Many $50,000 homes were flooded, Fields said. Some residents, he said, yeterans of many hurricanes, had stocked up food before Dora made its first trip through and were sitting defiantly in their liomes: Saturday night, watching water lap at the window sills.

Homosassa was evacuated when the town of about 900 persons lost its electrical power Most of the village got its water from wells, Fields said, and the water could not be used.

He said about 200 persons had been sleeping in the school at Chrystal River since Thursday night,

By ROSS NEWHAN

SALEM, N.H.-California does not go to the polls until November, but Gov. Brown cast the first vote Saturday on one of the ballot's most significant issues.

Through his personal courier, Brown purchased a ticket for the 1965 New Hampshire Sweepstakes and thus gave silent approval to Proposition 16 which would bring a legalized lottery to California.

The first such legal event in recent U.S. history (Louisiana briefly con-ducted an unlawful lottery) was capped at Rockingham Park here Saturday with the running of the $144,820 New Hampshire Sweepstakes race, DOVER, England (UPI)-Weekend sailor Barry Curtis abandoned his sinking motor launch Saturday and fired a distress flare from his emergency rubber raft.

The flare burned a hole in the raft and set Curtis' life jacket on fire. Curtis plugged the hole in the raft with a finger to keep it from sinking, and beat out the flames on his lifejacket with his free hand.

An English Channel ferry spotted the 30-year-old draftsman aboard his crippled raft nine miles off the coast and rescued him.

Prop. 14 that would repeal the Rumford Act, he refers to all who support Prop. 14 as "bigots." Like Gov. Brown, he is very violent in denunciation of all who disagree with him. Well, this writer supports this initiative because he considers the Governor and legislators who enacted the Rumford Act irresponsible demagogues who would sacrifice property rights under the guise of civil rights. It will take a YES vote on Prop. 14 to repeal the Rumford Act.

Some time ago I gave an example of what could happen under Sec. 4 of Chapter 3 of the Rumford Act. As an example I said: "If a widow living alone in her own home, offered to rent a room but refused to do so to a Negro, she could be in violation of this section." This, of course, is based on the assumption that she had a loan that came under "public, assisted," which could mean a bank or savings and loan institution whose deposits are federally insured; or FHA, Cal-Vet

After this appeared I received many letters and telephone calls from people who support the Rumford They argued that no one should object to this because they could turn down a Negro the same as a white person if they did not want them. It was also argued the widow need not take a male Negro but could rent her room to a female Negro. Others charged that I was opposed to civil rights, which is not true. The federal and state civil rights laws do not carry such provisions. It was only the California Legislatture and Gov. Brown who enacted the Rumford Act in the closing 1963 session last September. ' :-

Not one of these letters or calls questioned that this widow could be in violation of the law and subject to fines if she refused to rent the room to a Negro. It may be called an extreme example. But it is factual. The widow may be seeking companionship as well as supplementing her income. But if a Negro applied and was turned down because of his-or hercolor, she could be subject to action by the government. Her only defense would be to rent the room to the applicant or pay a fine.

Tenants of an apartment may be equally liable under Sec. 8 of Chapter 3. It says the act covers "any person to aid, abet, incite, compel or coerce the doing of any of the acts or practices declared unlawful in this section-or to attempt to do so." This is interpreted to mean that a tenant who may object to Negro neighbors and who gives this reason to the landlord for moving, would be in violation and subject to penalties. His objection may be as much to some white neighbor. But if there is an indication it is because of the color of the neighbor, he is discriminating the same as the landlord would be if he refused to rent to

If these two examples are considered extreme I can only point to the wording of the Rumford Act. As to the interpretation of the law, it must be remembered the commission to enforce it is appointed by Gov. Brown who has used every possible method to keep Prop. 14 off the ballot.

The recently-passed federal civil rights bill does not have such provisions as does the Rumford Act. Its reference to public accommodations-motels, hotels, restaurants and other places-is virtually the same as California has had for many years, Prop. 14 states that repeal of the Rumford Act does not apply to such public accommodations. But a yes vote on Prop. 14 would return the right to property owners to choose their tenants or to whom they wished to sell or lease. If a belief in property rights as applied to single-family dwellings and apartment houses makes one a "bigot," this writer is one-and prefers it to the demagogues who would use racial and religious issues as political expedients.—L.A.C.:

Nearly 100,000 Long Beach students will shed their summertime "livin' is easy" ways Monday to report to school early—if not yet bright—for the opening of the fall term.

To ease the shock, school officials have scheduled a short opening day at the 55 grade schools, 14_ junior highs and 7 senior highs.

The first-day schedule: Grade school, 9 a.m.-2 p.m. Junior high, 8:30 a.m.-2 p.m.

Senior high, 8:30 a.m.-2 p.m. City College, 8 a.m.-10 p.m.

All schools will be on the regular full-day sched-

Within the first month, the school district is expected to be teaching more than 100,000 students, with more than 75,000 in the grade schools and junior and senior highs. It will be the first time enrollment has exceeded 100,000.

Long Beach City College is bracing for a 30% hike in day-evening enrollment to more than 25,000. Among the system's total 1964-65 faculty of 3,100, about 350 will be new to the district.

CITY COLLEGE students will be welcomed by a new president, Dr. Wiley Garner, and find that the college's familiar three divisions (LAD, BTD and GAD) are things of the past.

Instead, the college will feature the "one-happyfamily" concept with two campuses—liberal arts and business and technology—and several adult dents who have not completed enrollment are asked to report a half-hour early.

ENTERING students must provide proof of polio immunization. Proof of date of birth, such as a birth certificate is necessary when enrolling in kindergarlen or first grade.

Parents in doubt about school attendance boundaries are invited to telephone the school nearest their home for information.

Students at Jordan High School will be greeted by a $300,000 classroom building which was completed during the summer. Similar buildings are expected to be opened by December at Lakewood and Millikan high schools.

CLASSROOM buildings will be added during the year at Hill Junior High School and Kettering and Newcomb grade schools.

The so-called modern math will be offered in all grades for the first time this year. About 90% of the sixth-graders will be offered the opportunity of beginning to learn a language. The program will be available to all sixth-graders next year.

At City College, day enrollment is expected to reach all-time highs of nearly 5,000 at the liberal arts campus and 2,500 at the business and technology campus.

NIGHT CLASSES will serve 7,000 at both campuses. About 11,500 part-time day and evening students will attend adult-center classes Instruction starts Monday at LBCC for all preregistered students. Students may enroll in adultcenter classes in the classroom.

Day enrollment for the liberal arts campus has been completed, but students may enter day and evening classes at the business and technology campus throughout the week. Night-class enrollment at the liberal arts campus will be conducted Monday through Thursday from 6 to 9 p.m. in the women's

THEY LIVED HAPPILY-

Story About a Cat and Bear

By JAMES K. CAZALAS
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Once upon a time there was an alley cat who thought he was a bear.

Nobody is sure where he came from or what

But one day the keeper went to feed the black bears at the Overton Park Zoo here and there was the cat, lounging peacefully in the cage

The keepers tried everything to get the little orange and white cat out of the bear's pit.

WHEN THEY called the cat he ignored them.
When they offered food he would steal it and run back into the open air cage.

When they chased him he would scurry under the shaggy legs of his friend.

The cat enjoyed life in the bear's den, which had smooth rocks for walls. It wasn't like a cage at all. There was no top. A broad most and a low fence separated the animals from the spectators.

One day the cat got bored and climbed over the smooth rocks and went into the duck's pen. Their loud honking brought the zookeepers on the run and the cat scrambled back into the hulking

After that incident the cat was contented to stay in the bear's cage.

He would lounge on a tree-shaded rock while the black bear sat at the edge of the moat and begged peanuts from the spectators.

Friendship is a two-way street. The cat had a home and a friend.

THE BEAR had more peanuts. When people heard of the cat that lived with the bear they flocked to the cage, and they threw more peanuts.

The bear apparently realized he had a good thing going, for he did nothing when the cat would take some of his meat at suppertime, and climb into the rocks to eat.

The zookeepers have just about given up trying to catch the cat. As long as he stays out of trouble he probably will be allowed to stay.

Officials at the zoo say the cat arrived early last month. Apparently he was abandoned nearby, found the zoo, and felt at home with the animals.

A riot or the sacking of an embassy has not been enough to divert some residents from a quiet drink at their favorile sidewalk

Rioters in the streets after independence in 1960, were watched by curious. diners at several cafes. The British embassy was invaded by demonstrators last year while, less than 100 yards away, patrons quietly sipped drinks at a sidewalk restaurant.

Right from the start Leopoldville has managed to fit the everyday routine of city living around political turmoil and civil strife.

Life in Leopoldville; seems to newcomers an endless series of bizarre divergences.

THE MAYOR HAS started a clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign to beautifly this city. Those who don't cooperate can be fined, though many small back streets are virtually blocked with heaps of garbage.

Venus Is Sluggish Planet

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) the-interests of truth it has to be said: Venus, the loveliests of planets, named after the loveliest and sprightliest of the Roman Goddesses, is sluggish and retarded.

Because Venus perpetually hides her real self under a shining and gossamer cloak of clouds, astronomers have been itching for centuries to learn more about her.

At long last, thanks to radar, they have been able to satisfy their curiosity about same secret aspects of Venus which could not be observed by optical telescopes, no mat-ter how keen their vision. To the sun and a lot more mysterious. The earth is a fairly open and above-board planet Everybody knows it turns over once every 24 hours, no matter what, and manages to pirouette around the sun once every 365 days.

BUT, BECAUSE of those clouds, there was no telling what Venus was up to. Did she rotate at all? If she did, how often? . In recent years both U.S. and Soviet radar scientists have been trying to solve what the astronomers call this "classical problem."

The Russians a while back Venus and concluded that she whirled on her axis once every 10 to 14 days. American scientists at the jet propulsion laboratory in California couldn't see this.

Their radar plumbing of Venus' nimbus indicated a considerably less lively be havior. As far as they could tell, it took Venus darn near an earth year to make one

When the Space Agency's Mariner probe whizzed past Venus in December, 1962, it sent back word that the dazzling planet seemed to be rotating slowly in a direction opposite to earth's.

NOW THE WORLD'S largest radar-radio telescope, the 1,000-foot dish scooped out of a mountain bowl in the Puerto Rican "lost world" near Arecibo, has taken a long look at Venus and spelled the unglamorous facts about this most radiant of evening or

No Other Town in Entire Nation Can Say What Aberdeen, S.D. Can--'Quints Make Home Here'

ABERDEEN, S.D. (A)-Aberdeen is a busy prairie city of 23,000 people-pretty big in these parts—where they raise grain and cattle, and produce farm machinery and wood products.

It is a real and wholesale center, and there is a state teachers college. a hospital and an airport.

But Aberdeen has one other thing that makes it unique — absolutely unique. It has quintup-

No other hamlet, village, town, city or metro-polis in the United States can make that claim.

One year ago—on Sept. 14, 1963 — Mrs. Andrew Fischer, then 30 and the mother of five children, doubled her family in 90 minutes. Aberdeen and the Fischers have never been the same and never will be.

COMES Monday there will be no birthday party for the Fischer quintuplets. Mrs. Fischer is expecting again, at any mo-ment, and such is the burden of fame it is a secret whether or not it will be a multiple birth.

This is only one facet of the world of the Andrew Fischers, at once blessed and perplexed by the mathematical chance -one in 42 million—af five live births at one had five children, Danny, Charlotte, Julie, Evelyn and Denise. Andrew worked in a wholesale grocery warehouse in Aberdeen as a shipping clerk, at $80 a week.

The house, which they rented from Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Harrington, was weather-beaten, and in a blue barn out back the Fischers kept two cows to ease their milk bill.

WELL ALONG in her sixth pregnancy, Mrs. Fischer was told by her physician, Dr. James Berbus, she could expect a multiple birth, On Sept. 11 Dr. Berbos confirmed from X-rays that she was carrying quintuplets. He told only the Fischers.

The delivery at St. Luke's Hospital began at 1:58 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 14, and was completed at 3:01 a.m. Four of the infants were girls, and the only boy arrived next to last. He weighed four pounds, the girls from 21/2 to 31/2 pounds. All were healthy and no anesthesia was used in

Then it began. Within hours, the hospital, the city of Aberdeen and the Fischer home became centers of world atten-

Dr. Berbos announced he would not charge for his services, Nash-Finch announced that Fischer work as long as necessary, the Harringtons offered him the rented the hospital indicated there would be no bill, the Aberdeen Cham-

Free booklet tells how you can be sure you'll have the money to send your children to college!

He points out the increasing importance of education beyond high school. "Generally, the youngster who goes to coilege will gain faster job advancement, higher income and greater economic security than the youth who does not."

Planning is the key. This expert holds out the hope that "any qualified student can find a suitable school to go to"—and will if parents plan ahead realistically. He suggests that "the easier and cheaper it is to accumulate the funds you need." There are many ways available to finance a college education: long-term loans, installment loans, personal long-range savings, government bonds, stocks, life insurance and a variety of scholarships. The booklet tells you the comparative advantages of each.

Dog at Stranger's Grave Unexplained

STUART, Va. (A)—Residents of the Ararat area in southern Patrick County are puzzled by the strange allegiance for the past 10 days of a stray dog to the grave of a stranger.

Here's how the story

About 12 days ago, 'Acie Mankins, 75, a native of Ararat, died in Winston-Salem, N. C., where he had moved in 1948.

Photo Device Is Potential Aid to Blind

BASE, Md. (A)-A hand-held photoelectric device that viirates when it senses obstacles or changes of terrain n its path was described by he Air Force today as a poential aid to the blind.

The environmental sensor vas developed by Santa Rita ľechnologý, Menlo Park Calif, under an Air Force contract.

Air Force Systems Comnand headquarters here said research is continuing on this and another type of "tactile transducer" — operating through the sense of touch hat is aimed at supplying speech to the human hearing system without using the ear or a bone conduction.

THE PHOTO-ELECTRIS'device for locating obstacles is about the size of a two-cell lashlight.

Changes in light values caused by objects ahead, or by terrain changes such as steps and curbings and slopes, are detected by the

The information is fed to a photo resistor, which changes value with the amount of light hitting it. This in turn is applied to an oscillator which changes frequency with changing light values.

The user feels these pulse changes as vibrations on the inside of his hand. The pulses vary from four to 400 a second, depending on the values ensed from the environment

Flags Fluttering From TV Mast Cause Fire Call

BALTIMORE (A)-Firemen ushed to Baltimore's televi sion tower Friday night but found only three American Flags bathed in spotlights, creating a flame-like effect as they fluttered in the air.

An excited resident of the area near the candelabrumshaped, 1,000-foot tower had telephoned in the alarm.

The flags are flying night and day from the tower as Baltimore observes the 150th anniversary of Francis Scott Key's writing of the national anthem.

Ban Beer Drinking

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (UPI) — The district council at Mwanza on Lake Victoria has banned all beer drinking except on weekends. It said excessive drinking of African-brewed beer known as "pombe" lias caused too much absenteeism among cot on pickers.

His body was brought back to this area and was buried in a neighborhood

Two days later, a stray dog showed up and re-mained on the grave for at least 10 days.

Puzzled residents noti-fied Dog Warden Fred Barnard here. He found the dog on the grave as reported. So far as Barnard can determine, the dog does not belong to anyone in the Mankins family or to anyone else he has contacled in the neighborhood.

He did find a family anxious to adopt the 8month-old mixed German shepherd, however. The dog is in good physical condiduring the night to feed on wild game.

Troubles We Don't Talk About

What Troubles? Complaints so personal that few people talk about them —burning, irritation and itching in the sensitive per-iqual (fectal and genital) area. What Causes Them? Many things, but especially the lack hygiene. Doctors say that lack of proper cleanliness often prevents the condition from clearing up. This is true because the perianal area is repeatedly contaminated with potentially harmful hacteria and fungi.

What Do Specialists Recommend? Thorough and regular cleansing, particularly after each bowel movement. This halts the vicious "itch scratch" cycle. In many cases, this alone will solve the problem of burning, itching, and irritation.

Why Not Plain, Ordinary Soap? Because soap washes away nat ural skin oils. Frequent and re peated use of soap can cause dryness and irritation, resulting in itching.

What Should Be Used? A new foamy aerosol medication called ANULL. It is a gentle but thor-ough cleanser to be used on toilet tissue or cotton. ANULL is an antibacterial, antifungal cleanser-soothing, emollient and protective. Soothes burning and ir-ritation. Helps to protect against secondary infection of raw, irritated skin.

The Best Way to stop itch-irritation is never let it get started. Begin regular use of ANULL this week. Or if you suffer now, begin relief in seconds with ANULL. It relieves itch-irritation without local pain killers that can mask symptoms and postpone sound medical treatment. If your discomfort persists by all means see your doctor. Ask your doctor wheth cr it isn't wise to use ANULL with other medications.

Effective Deodorant: Women especially, can be troubled with embarrassing odor. ANULL is an effective deodorant foam beand antibacterial actions. Makes you feel fresher, Secure. Completely groomed. Most people, after they have tried ANULL, never use toilet tissue without it. And so inexpensive. You'll find ANULL in your pharmacy.

The rival presidential andidates began slugging fout in earnest last week. So did their running mates.

President Johnson made campaign sorties to Detroit, Mich., and Harrisburg, Pa, He challenged Republican nominee Barry M. Goldwater's position that NATO alliance nations ist for self-protection, he armed with "conventionnuclear battlefield weapons which could be friggered by the NATO su-nleme commander. Johnson also invited Republicans to join him in repudiating "reckless factions which demand that you choose a doctrine alien to America."

GOLDWATER, swinging from the West Coast into the Midwest, denounced What he called the "Kenilėdy - Johnson administration's four years of mistakes, retreat and weakness" its conduct of foreign affairs. He also blamed Johnson's civil rights law for "violence in the streets." He predicted the situation would grow worse "until there is leadership in the land that will demand respect for law."

s GOP vice presidential barnstormed New England charging that "scandal and sin in the Johnson administration is corrupting the young people of America and leading to lawlessness the streets." He also called on the Johnson family to divest itself of Texas radio-television interestsnow in trust-because they "a government-regulated business."

DEMOCRATIC vice presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey told an Olijo audience that Goldwater was "being impulsive and in-consistent" when he re; cently suggested ending the military draft while advocaling a stronger defense. In' South Dakota he defederal protection for farmers. Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark, of the Schate Foreign Relations Committee, made a third Senate speech declaring that Goldwater's : n u c l e a r i policy could lead to "the incineration of a hundred million Americans, to say nothing of hundreds of millions of human beings in other countries including Russia."

The President told his Detroit audience that "there is no such thing as a conventional nuclear weapon." He said that unleashing of the atom "would lead us down an uncertain path of blows and counterblows whose outcome may never be known."

HE ADDED that no President of the United States can divest himself of the responsibility for such a decision."

In Harrisburg he accused the Goldwater-Miller ticket of being "contemptuous toward the will of majorities, arrogant toward allies, callous toward the plight of minorities, careless toward peace, and belligerent toward adversaries." He said "This is a doctrine which invites extremism to take over our land. ...?

Goldwater brushed aside the slogan that American politics stops at the water's edge. He asserted that "the record of disaster, failure, retreat and confusion" in Jolinson foreign policy "is an unbroken chain right around the world."

HE BLASTED the late President John F, Kennedy's solution of the 1962 Soviet missile crisis in Cuba as "timed to have its maximum political effect" in the 1962 election. He asked: "Where did it lead? What did it prove?"

At Boise, Idaho, Gold-water linked violence in the streets with an attack on the U.S. Supreme Court's state legislative reapportionment and school prayer decisiins. He charged the court had used "raw and naked power" in an abandonment of "judicial restraint."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a press conference that in dealing with the issues of war and peace "Goldwater has a basic lack of understanding of the responsibilities of the president." He said the GOP nominee's declarations had thrown bi-partisan foreign policy doverboard and "need a great deal more clarificátion."

been going over the list of poor women I've danced with in the last year or so, trying to figure which one has reported me,

My review of dancing partners began, with a tele-phone conversation a couple of evenings ago. Said a. femining voice, when I answered the phones

"Mr. Epley, we have a great opportunity for you. If you can answer a question I'm about to ask you, will win $35 worth of dancing lessons." P.

It was a rude shock. This person, I cogitated thinks I need dancing lessons. And-how could she get that idea if someone I'd danced with hadn't lold her.

The call clarified some things for me, il remembered, for instance; that women I've danced with were always hard to find for a second round on the boards. And also, I recalled, my dancing partners always wanted to cut things short, hustling me off the floor when just a pause in the music gave an excuse. Some of them developed headaches, or short breath, or some other reason orchestra was still playing and I thought things were going fine.

And now one of them, fearful that fale might throw us together again, had obviously advised some dance studio that I needed training.

TO the voice on the phone, which had waited during my painful reminiscences, I

"Why do you think I need dancing lessons?"

"Oh, we have reason to believe they would be useful for you," said the voice, significantly. "Now if you'll just try on that question. . ."

"But listen," I said, "I don't think I need dancing lessons, even if you do. If I answer your question, can't you give me $35 worth of something else? Horseback riding, for instance?"

'No, Mr. Epley, just dancing I essons." And then, pointedly, "you'll find you need them."

The hurt was boring deeper. No doubt about it, I was getting the word.

But I didn't take humiliation lying down. I had to prove to this gal that while I might be a lousy dancer, I COPTER loads tank on top had some brains in my nog-gin. Pd take her danged

"Well, what's the question?" I said.

"Fine. Can you tell me in what country the rhumba originated?"

TRIUMPH welled up in

"Why that's right!" she gasped, "And now, can I make your first appoint-

"Well, not quite, but goodbye, Mr. Epley."

AND so things aren't going to be any better for those poor gals who, through the hook and crook of social: circumstance, are confronted with the hazards of dancing with me.

I'm just too danged stubborn to let anybody get away with that little trick. Danc-, Saturday, Sept. 26, at the ing lessons, oah!

Pilot Roland Barton, air officer for the County Fire Department, may not win any awards for his aerial dancing, but he won the admiration of three score observers who watched him put the chopper through a series of maneuvers that may prove to he the greatest boon to fire fighting since the fire hose was introduced.

THE SIXTY persons were members of the Los Angeles

and Civil Defense Commission, and they were watching Barton demonstrate the art of aerial fire fightingan art that includes the laying of fire hose from the air, the sending of a wall of fire retardant splashing down on a forest fire hot spot, and the plopping of its 105-gallon load into a portable reservoir. Barton showed all three.

As time goes on, the collapsible 1000-gallon reservoir can expect to see increasing service, officials indicated. Because it's casily set up, it can be placed almost anywhere - on the ground, on the roof of a building or at the scene of a brush fire.

the demonstration, held at the department's fire comhat training school in East. Los Angeles, will not replace fire trucks, shovels, and men in the battle against brush fires in Southern California, but it will become - if it hasn't already-a valuable new firefighting tool, said Klinger.

"We used to say, what would we do without radios; now we say, what would we do without the chappers," he declared.

"These things are saving us hundreds of man-hours. For example, what 30 men can do in two hours at a fire, the helicopter can do in five minutes alone."

Among other things, explained Klinger, the chopper can lay 600 feet of hose at a time-and in seconds.

KLINGER said the county fire department has only one aerial fire engine in its arsenal, but he added that the Sheriff's Department has four other copters which are always available for fire-fighting chores. Moreover, the fire department has two of its own aerial tanker planes.

Klinger said he looks forward to the day when the department will have even bigger and better whirlybirds at its disposal. "They will be able to carry nine passengers or a 387-gallon load of fire retardant (no longer borate, incidentally).

"They're already manufactured," he declared, adding wistfully, "All it takes propositions on an election ballot always pray that nothing will happen to remind the voter too sharply of the connection between such projects and his, pocketbook.

Yet, in a democratic society, the citizen should go into the voting booth with his eyes wide open.

The tax collector has made sure that Los Angeles County voters will do just that on Nov. 3. He will put in the post office, for mailing on Nov. 2, almost two million eye-opening tax bills-most of them higher than they've ever been before. Many citizens will get these bills on election day, itself, and some the day

With this traumatic experience fresh in their minds, voters will enter the polling booths to mark a ballot containing three state bond issue proposals and a variety of county and local spending plans.

Cost is not always a valid argument against a bond issue. But the tax reminder should have the healthy effect of causing the voter to discriminate between what is necessary and what he can do with

While some spending is non-essential and represents a loss of funds that can't be restored, other spending represents long-range investment that will produce returns.

For example, funds spent on education are generally considered wisely invested, not only from the standpoint of human improvement but also from the DAVID LAWRENCE standpoint of good economics. Education means jobs that pay well, and jobs that pay well produce greater tax revenues.

And education doesn't mean just teachers, classrooms and campuses. In Long Beach the cause of education, on the broadest level, will be advanced by a new main library to be on the ballot, a worthy candidate for fair consideration.

These are things that the voter must weigh on Nov. 3. His opportunity to make enlightened decisions is increased by having in hand his tax bill, provided he does not let costs blind him to the advantages of judicious spending.

Nine Coffins

WE ANTICIPATE CRITICISM of the photograph this newspaper published on Friday showing the somber row of nine coffins at the burial ceremony for the family of Air Force Sgt. Wayne Traxler.

Newsmen, who come in close contact daily with human tragedies, regret perhaps more than most people the tragedy (a traffic acident) that produced such a picture. We are not hardened by these things; our sorrow is decpened.

We only hope that by publishing the picture we may demonstrate a distrubing and ironic fact; While Americans talk of achieving world peace, few men are ac-, department tually dying in war today, but we are killing ourselves at an alarming rate with automobiles.

Those nine coffins were testimony of a tragedy of national proportions. Before the proportions of that tragedy can be reduced, people must somehow come to understand what it means in human terms.

Some of these tourists are rugged individualists who carry their own luggage, avoid calling room service for a snack, may not tip at all when they get impolite attention and even dare to notice it when the waiter or cabbie deducts his own tip-generously-from a customer expecting change. There is a name in jargon for ple. They are called Customers

Al Wallbank, of 5315 Appian Way, Saturday had 100 signatures on petitions asking the City Council to put street lighting on the cast side of Appian Way and along the alley where homes are located in the 5300- and 5400-block of Appian Way.

Wallbank's home was invaded by the Torrance nan, identified by police as Gregory J. Puckett, 24, of 1311 W. 227th St., who did an estimated $6,000 damage in 15 minutes and terrorized Wallkan's wife, Mary, and their daughter, Betty Lou, 13.

Wallbank and his neighbors say the area surrounding their homes is unlighted. The intruder, Wallbank said, slipped past several persons in the darkness and got into his home.

It is so dark along the lane in front of my house that I've accidentally bumped into other people while walking from the garage to my front door," Wallbank said.

More names will be sought on the petitions before the demand is put before the council, he said.

Cuban Deal 'Proof'

guaranteed it would not invade Cuba or permit other hemisphere nations to wage war with Castro's island-was offered to the press by Dr. Noland Frizzelle of Newport Beach, president of the California Republican Assembly

He called a press conference at Anaheim's Disneyland Hotel Friday, to back up charges by Congressman William Miller, GOP vice presidential nominee, that there was "a deal with Khrush-chey" about Cuba.

The head of the statewide volunteer Republican groups called for repeal of the Rum ford housing law by a "yes" vote on Proposition 14, and defeat, of the school-bond proposals Nov. 3

A HALF-CENT sales tax would "be". "far better" to finance the schools than would bonds, he asserted. Various, governmental agencies are eyeing a half-cent increase of the four-cent sales tax. It's "a cinch" that another half-cent will be added-and it should be for schools, he said.
Dr. Frizzelle submitted photostatic copies of Sovjet Weekly, published in London, Nov. 1, 1962, with the socalled complete text of the Soviet premier's reply Oct. 28, 1962, to then President Kennedy's letter of the day before demanding Russia's withdrawal from Cuba.

"I REGARD with respect and confidence the statement you have made in your mes-Khrushchev wrote to the President, "that there will be no attack and no invasion of Cuba — neither by the United States nor, as you have said in the same message, by any other nations of the Western Hemisphere."

This "guarantee" still is, in effect, Dr. Frizzelle said, adding that "it has not been repudiated" by President Johnson.

the text.

"It is part of the managed news," he explained.

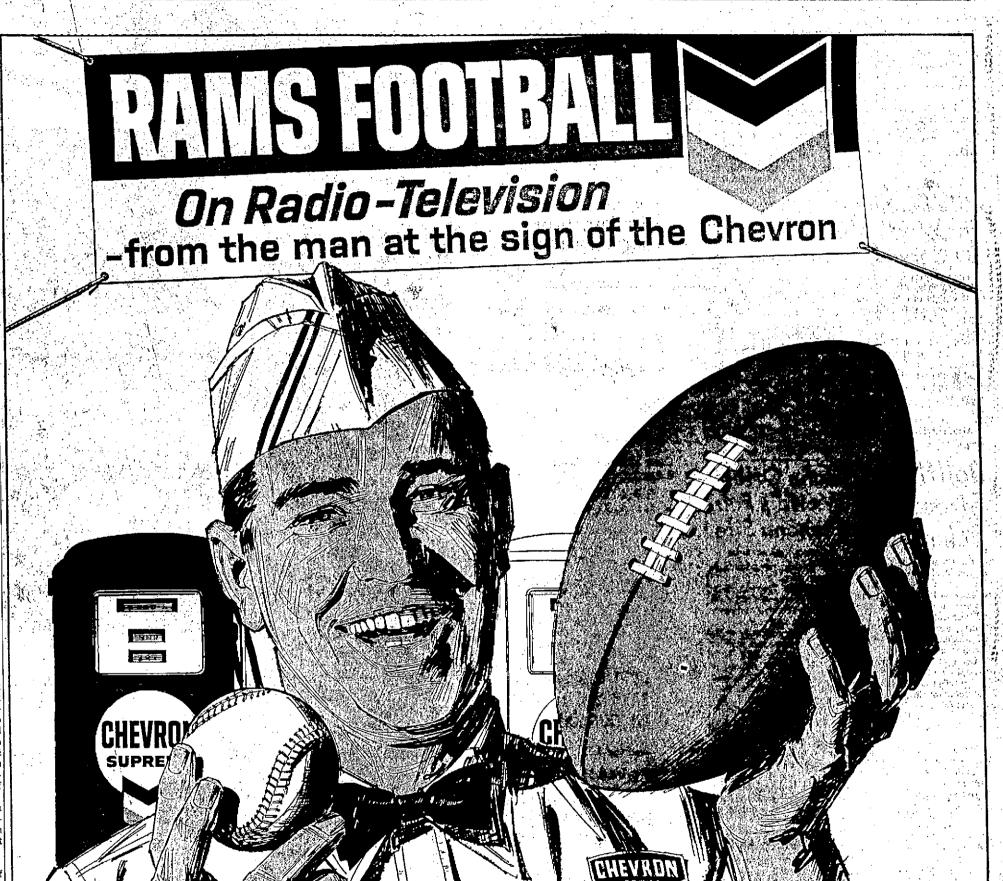

He called for a "yes" vote on Proposition 14, to repeal the Rumford housing act, by charging that "it's not civil rights at stake, but discrimina-

DR. FRIZZELLE asserted that a property owner — or anyone else — "has the right to discriminate" and make his own decisions about how he might dispose of his property.

"The Rumford Act takes away this essential freedom," he insisted, "and vitlates against us all. It gives the Negro the right to force the issue in the courts, to obtain rights you and I don't have.
"The Negro has the right to a job and a right to a house, but has no right to force it."

In his opinion, the Rum-ford law "is not civil rights, il is discrimination. Social pressures are the issue, and we must face up to it. The Negroes are trying to brow-beat social changes," he

By BOB SCHMIDT "The performances today show that we've improved considerably since the Rus-, sian meet," U.S. Olympic team track coach Bob Giegengack said Saturday. "Now we've got to improve even more between now and Tokyo,"

The veteran Yale University coach said he was "mightily pleased" ... with the performances of the 28 men who had qualified for the U.S. team, and said he had had only two surprises.

"I didn'i think (Mike) Lafrabee would run that fast today, and I was sort of surprised about Willie Davenport winning the high hurdles. Although," he added, "I think those hurdlers are soclosely matched that if you ran six races with the same field you'd have six different winners."

Asked about teenager Gerry Lindgren, who Sat-urday shaved 15 seconds off the performance which had humbled Russia's best distance runners six weeks ago, Giegengack grinned and said, "Nothing that fellow does surprises me any more. I haven't any idea how fast he can run."

Lindgren said the competition he faced Saturday didate as the Dodgers' No. 3 was much stiffer than that offered by the Russians, He said he didn't know if he could run any faster than his winning time of 29:02.0, but admitted that he felt to 3.18 much fresher than after his race against the Russians.

it's Shetland Pony Day

Those old cowhands, Lex Connolly and Cal Winfrey, started something recently that, from all indications, has the sky as its limit

When the men with the 10-gallon hats named a bull after yours truly during last year's rodeo at Long Beach

Arena, they didn't realize something big. (By the way, ornery Hurricane Hank, remains a terror. Not a cowoy yet—and some 70 have tried—has managed to ride-the fearsome critter)

Then just last week in faraway Ruidoso Downs, N.M., the good mountain country citizens cheered during the featured "Hank Hollingworth Pursc." (Of course, none of the citizens knew for whom they were heering, but I suspect most had tickets on the winning horse.)

· Now today, there's another spectacular at Los Alamitos Race Course The Hank Hollingworth Shetland Pony Roadster

Class Championships." If that stops you, let me explain initially that I am NOT going to ride a tiny Shetland, much to the chagrin of James Mangan, currently Long Beach Community Hospital publicist but better known as the man who used to publicize State College's long string of football losses.

HOLLINGWORTH

The Shetland event is being held in conjunction with the Fourth Annual National Benefit Horse Show, which winds up a four-day stand today (9:30 a.m. to 5:p.m.). It is sponsored by the Community Hospital Auxiliary.

IT WAS INDEEN an honor to leapfrog into the horse show class, despite the wicked inclinations of Mr. Mangan, who has never forgiven my nickname of "Mausoleum" for his favorite college. Like this note from him:

You have apparently agreed to participate in an event which will have Shetland ponies pulling two-wheeled carts. You have apparently agreed further to participate by driving the cart, leading the pony or driving the pony. Your thousands of loyal readers who will be on hand will be able to identify you in the miniaturized Ben Hurlike action event because you will be wearing the colors of the stable which supplies your trusty steed.

"This pony participation is a continuation of a long and illustrious sports career which only recently saw you refuse to ride a buil in a rodeo.

'Congratulations on stepping down in class. In case of accident, if you are still conscious when the ambulance arrives tell the driver to take you to Community Hospital the Auxiliary Ladies have a fine therapy project for patients on the orthopedics floor,
"P.S.: If you chicken out, maybe one of your daugh-

Nice fellow, that Mangan. Anyhow I did take his last suggestion. My daughter, Lisa, 10, will be my substitute rider. (Anyway, the SPCA probably would cite me if I dared ride a pony or act Ben Hurish with one of those little fellows.)

MRS. GEORGE MOORE, Auxiliary president, was kinder and more explicit than Mangan.

"The naming of this event in your honor was occa-sioned by several thoughts. We wished to honor someone locally who had an interest in sporting events, and who could be more interested than you. Your keen interest in the Hambletonian made the naming of this particular class after you a natural. This is NOT a race, but there is a similarity in that the ponies are harnessed to a twowheeled cart and the drivers wear stable colors.

You probably have more women readers than you realize, so many of us were aware that you had a bull named for you and had been challenged to ride him, so why not go to the other extreme and have small, gentle ponies competing in your name?".

Why not, indeed? Only I really think I need a middleground-something between a bull and a Shetland. Any ideas, anybody?

There is no better gauge than the emotional responses of pole vaulter Ron Morris, 10,000-meter runner Doug Brown and sprinter Charlie

In 1956 Morris also failed to make the team. He was, perhaps, the most unhappy man on the field on both occasions. In 1956 he wept. Saturday he was simply bitterly disappointed.

For Morris, whose lifetime best is 16.5½, it was a combination of timing troubles and a gusty wind. He couldn't get his step, and to a nole vaulter missing a step is like falling off a cliff. Color him

Brown, on the other hand, was very encouraged with his fourth-place, effort in the 10,000. "I felt miserable the last three laps; but I was thrilled with my time." He ran 29:33.6, nearly 20 seconds better than ever before,

10,000 METERS TO GO

All the toil and sacrifice and months, even years, boiled down to this day for U.S. Olympic 10,000-meter candidates. Pete McArdle (5) leads here but finished 6th, failing to qualify. Winner was Gerry Lindgren (8) in 29:02.0, followed by Billy Mills (4) and Ron Larrieu (arrow).

Saturday was a big day for the two-buck bunters who back the favorites, but a hundler with perfect form fractured the form chart:

Willie Davenport, a soldier who has never spent a day in college, scored a shocking win in the high hurdles, drubbing Hayes Jones and Blaine Lindgren, who looked as solid a 1-2 punch as Citation and Coal-

Jones, fastest starter in the business, seemed in control with a yard advantage over the second hurdle, but surprisingly that was obliterated halfway through, first by Lindgren and then

Davenport (13.6) pulled out, Jones (13.6) couldn't quite match it and Lindgren (13.8) faded, but was well in front of Russ Rogers (13.9).

Parry O'Brien, track's grand old man, qualified for his fourth Olympiad by finishing third at 63-2 behind Dallas Long (64-9) and Randy Matson (63-10).

Saddest man on the field, must have been Ron-Morris, most formful pole vaulter the event has ever known.

Four years ago Morris vaulted 15-51/4 with the antique steel pole and finished second in the Trials, Saturday he could manipulate only 15-6 with the new rub-ber band pole, and finished fourth. Fred Hansen was the win-

Compton Looms as Sleeping Giant in WSC Grid Race

First in a series of articles on Long Beach area junior college football teams.

By BRUCE YOUNG

The Compton football team is like a sleeping giant which soon may arise and. cop the Western States Conference title,

The Tartars, who finished fourth last year, are given no better than an outside chance at the loop crown because they have just too many question marks.

The big question marks are the offensive and defensive backfields, which boast only three returning lettermen, but there is no doubt Compton will be solid in the line, with 15 returning lettermen.

The Tartars are long in experience, but short on Grayes and Dave Buelow. depth and it will be up to head coach Chuck Williams to fill the gaps. He will be joined by two new mentors Dallas Moon and Gene Farrell, both former Long Beach State gridders.

The three returning backfield monogram winners are quarterback Eddie Vargas, halfback John Wilkins and defensive halfback Mickey Sneddon.

Mike Butera, an end, will combine with southpaw field general Vargas to form the biggest part of the Tartar aerial game.

Compton should have one of the best lines in the league as its line is experienced, big and surprisingly fast. The 15 men should do no worse than fourth, but it has a royal upset chance if the team can avoid any serious injuries. Don't be surprised you read soon that the giant has arisen and con-quered the Western States Conference!

Richard Todd. The centers are Mike Herrick and Keith Shipman. Czupka, a middle linebacker and Herrick, a de-fensive end, should play major roles in the success of the Compton defense.

Summary: Compton

It's Packers in West, Giants in East

As the National Football League season gets under way, the form charts point to the Green Bay Packers and Cleveland Browns as the most likely candidates to make the championship playoff game in December.

But along the way, the Packers and Browns are slated to collide in a regular season game Nov. 22 at Milwaukee a bit of scheduling that just might kill a December rematch. it of scheduling that just might kill a December rematch.

The game appears at this time to be more important for dictable. Ken Venturi, darkreland than Green Bay for the Packers appear headed for horse in an elite field of four Cleveland than Green Bay for the Packers appear headed for a relatively safe victory margin in the Western Division. A loss for the Browns in this important inter-division contest could well change the entire complexion in the Eastern part of the league.

Inter-division contests are very important. For instance, this season Cleveland draws the Detroit Lions, who have always been a jinx to the Browns, as well as Green Bay. The New York Giants also draw Detroit . . but get the Minnesota Vikings as their other foe. The other contenders in the East get better

Cleveland last won the division title in 1957, but virtually every season since then the Browns have wound up as title favorites. In the past six years, though, they've finished second four times and third on two other occasions. In that period, the Giants won five times, Philadelphia once.

ALLIE SHERMAN

For the past two years, they've been saying the Giants were ripe for picking, but they keep right on winning. Now they're saying they're ready to be taken again ... and Cleveland will be the one to do il.

THE BROWNS HAVE BEEN most impressive in their exhibitions while New York lost four of five. But Allie if I have to play that slow." Sherman obviously was testing new men and has been The final six holes of the

There are more holes in the Giant lineup than usual, but the club is still the one to beat as long as Y. A. Tittle is able to play regularly. Without him, they're dead.

Cleveland is the consensus pick . . . but on a hunch ye're going to tab the Giants to repeat. Here's how we see Palmer did not blame televithe East: 1, New York; 2, Cleveland; 3, St. Louis; 4, tie be-sion for the slow pace, tween Pittsburgh and Washington; 6, Dallas, and 7, Philadet-Playing in the series.

GREEN BAY, of course, has to be the selection in the turi, who also won the Ameri West. The Packers posted an 11-2-1 record last year for a can Classic over this same percentage of .846, good enough to have won the division 7,165-yard Firestone Country crown in each of the 14 previous seasons. But the Packers' Club bid for a fourth consecutive division crown was thwarted by showed his familiarity. the Chicago Bears, who wound up 11-1-2.

This is not likely to happen again . . . although the Bears should not slip as far as most people think. Their great defensive unit is intact . . . and defense is the name of the game. They also get a break by drawing Washington and Dallas as their inter-division opponents, which should help their victory total.

But even though the Bears should have a good season it's going to be awfully hard to catch Green Bay. The issue he played in three was decided last year when the Bears beat the Packers ties appearances. in their two meetings, 10-3 in the season's opener and then 26-7 in their showdown late in the season when Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr was on the injury list. And this mer's complaints of slow play shouldn't happen again.

STARR IS HEALTHY again, Paul Hornung is back and the Packers once again appear to have the hest balanced leam in the league. It will be a surprise if they don't post I2-2 record. Even an 11-3 standing should win in the tough

The hattle for second place should be a lulu among the Bears, Detroit and Baltimore. Each club can produce a good argument on why it can upset the Packers.

But here's how we see it in the West: 1, Green Bay; 2 tie for second between Chicago and Baltimore; 4, Detroit; 5, Minnesota; 6, Rams, and 7, 49ers.

It looks like long, dreary seasons again for the bottom three clubs. Last year, other than beating each other, they were able to register only eight victories and one tie . . . and they might not even be able to do that well this trip.

U.S. Girls Rally to Bag Curtis Cup

PORTTHCAWL, Wales (UPI) - The United States' top amateur women golfers, facing defeat for only the third time in this international competition, rallied to sweep the last three singles matches Saturday to retain the Curtis Cup by a score of 10½ points to 71/2 over Britain.

Britain was tied with only three singles remaining and the British girls were leading in two of the three.

But that's when America's est rose to the challenge. Barbara Fay White of East Ridge, La., Carol Sorenson of Janesvile, Wis., and 17rear-old Peggy Conley of Spokane, Wis., all came home triumphant to give the United States a 9-6 edge.

minute burst of brilliant tennis to complete a victory in a match postponed because of darkness Friday. The tall blond, smoothstroking Stolle bested Ralston, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 3-6, 9-7.

Defending women's champion Maria Bueno of Brazil reached the finals for the fourth time by defeating Carol Hanks of St. Louis, 6-4, 6-2, in her bid to add a third U.S. title to her three Wimbledon crowns.

In today's final Maria will meet Carole Caldwell Graebner of Beachwood. Ohio who upset Nancy Richey of Dallas, 2-6, 9-7,

Both Australian Cup cặptain Harry Hopman and U.S. captain Vic Seixas attempted to minimize the American defeats. At Cleveland, they pointed out, the challenge round will be played on clay, rather than the type of grass surface which Emerson and Stolle asserted their mas-

Golf, International Sport, Belongs in Olympics

States Open golf champion, and Tony Lema, British Open winner, are going to play an exhibition match in Washington in early October for the United States Olympic Fund.:

There are at least 7 million golfers in this country. With two class guys setting the example and with the match as a show piece attracting national attention, it should not be difficult to persuade the dedicated duffers of America to send a dime or a dollar to the Olympic Committee, raising a kitty that would assure our sweaty youth strawberries in the winter time.

The match could also be a springboard for a movement to have golf included in the Olympic program, There is no reason why it should be one of the few international sports left out. Even tennis, vol-leyball, and baseball have made it in the Pau-American Games, a sort of hemispheric Olympics.

There is room on the Olympic bill for basketball, boxing, canoeing, cycling, riding, fencing, field hockey, gymnastics, judo, rowing, shooting, soccer, swimming, track and field, water polo, weight lifting, wrestling, yachting, skating, skiing, and ice hockey. Not many of these match golf in popularity.

Guys like Venturi and Lema have no personal interest in Olympic recognition, of course, having given up competing for medals some time back; Indeed, they're approaching the point where not even money can interest them, an embarrassing predicament for pros.

Going back to Washington, Venturi, returns to the scene of his greatest triumphs. The last time the capital saw him he was tottering across the hills of Congressional Club the blind staggers, fighting off that heat prostration as he clawed to the pinnacle of a game that had rejected him.

Shortly after that, Champagne Tony was charming

Before they get to Washington, both are trailing

Great News for Pacific Flyway

When President Johnson signed Senate bill 793, dedicating four Pacific Coast wildlife refuges primarily to the protection and preservation of waterfowl on the Pacific Flyway, it meant far more than most hunters are able to visualize.

It also marked the finish of a hard and long battle which Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel started three or four years ago in an effort to settle the conflicts between wildlife and agricultural use of water on the Tule Lake, Upper Klamath, Lower Klamath and Clear Lake Wildlife Refuges, which were established originally by presidential order. The bill requires Secretary of the Interior Udall to regulate water levels in the Tule Lake Refuge in accordance with a 1956 contract with the Tule Lake Irrigation District, at the same time giving maximum consideration to waterfowl management needs.

More than 80% of the Pacific Flyway's waterfowl pass through the Tule Klamath Refuges on their spring and fall migratory flights. The refuges play an important role in retarding the southbound fall flights until most crops are harvested in California's Central and Imperial Valleys thereby reducing crop varyadations. Valleys, thereby reducing crop repredations to a minimum. Yet some agricultural interests fought the Kuchel bill for many months. They wanted more drainage of the area for farms and homesteading.

THE GEORGE D WILLIAMS family is quite a fishing outfil. You may remember that George Sr. caught the first broadbill of the season off Catalina Island on July 12. It weighed 309 pounds and George's two boys, Craig, 8 and George Jr., 10, were very proud of their father's feat. They were on the family boat, Reel George, at the time.

Since that time the boys have added to the family's laurels. Last weekend Craig caught a marlin that weighed 115½ pounds on light tackle in 1 hour, 20 minutes. Then, George Jr. got a 134-pounder in 2 hours, 40 minutes, but there's a real story back of that fish

George Jr. had the fish ready for gaffing within 40 minutes, but dad had bought a new gaff handle, and he couldn't run the boat and make the handle and gaff match. In fact, they didn't match. So he had Junior let the marlin have line while he radioed Clarence S. (Tommy) Thompson, who was fishing nearby on his Tom Tank.

Thompson quickly ran over to the Reel George and loaned them a gaff. By this time the marlin was getting its second wind and putting on a batch of aerial acrobatics. Junior stayed with the fish, however, and finally brought him in tail-wrapped and belly up.

Oh yes, George Sr. has caught only one marlin for himself. It weighed 181½ pounds, He is trying again this weekend off San Diego.

EVEN THOUGH WILLIAMS and Thompson, two of the Southern California Tuna Club's most energetic anglers, say that there are hundreds of marlin out beyond the 43-Fathom Bank and that they feel the fish are working northward, the totals in this area are small, compared with those of last year.

One marlin and one broadbill have been weighed in at the Long Beach Marina Fire Station for the entire season. Only seven fish have been weighed in at the Tuna Club (Avalon). Balboa Angling Club has had a total of 62 fish, caught mostly off and south of Dana Point and fairly close in, but at this time last year BAC had recorded 211

Anglers off San Diego piled up 91 fish at the Marlin Club through the long Labor Day weekend to increase the total there to 226, below last year's fantastic figures.

One of the notable achievements at San Diego over the last weekend was Ray Chanhall's catch of a marlin weighing 1091/2 pounds on three-thread line in 27 minutes. He is a member of the Marlin Club of San Diego.

All the anglers gatching or hooking fish at San Diego are not residents of that city. Ninety percent of them are from this area and they virtually live on their boats there every weekend. And they don't keep those boats at the docks; they really spend their time fishing.

Interview at Candlewood & Clark, Lakewood Monday, I 4.M. Sept. 14th

DOUGLAS SPACE

SYSTEMS CENTER HUNTINGTON BEACH

LIQUID ROCKET PROPULSION SYSTEM DESIGN

Board and detail designers needed to design space vehicle high and low pressure pneumatic, Cryogenic or Hypergolic systems. Will detail system layouts and design features and co-ordinate with other design groups. Select materials for detail elements of the system and evaluate and adapt the basic analysis of the systems. Design and establish specifications and evaluate vendor proposals for the detail components. Establish criteria and monitor tests of the systems and components. Maintain shop liaison through mockup, development, first production, and check-out. Expedite design changes as required.

STRUCTURAL DESIGNER

Assignment involves board design and analysis of major spacecraft structural components such as skir and stringer, frames and tankage using light weight materials. Requires experience in design and analysis of redundant structures. Prefer BS degree.

Stock Numbers Plainly Marked on Every Car

Like the boy who cried "Wolf" too often, no one believes the merchant who cries "Sale" 52 weeks a year. We would rather do it once a year and have it mean something to the customer and ourselves.

This is a combination sale of brand new cars and demonstrators. Every car carries the full factory warranty. Sale prices include everything except California's 4% sales tax and license fees.

Every car is equipped with automatic transmission, radio, tinted glass, wheel covers and whitewall tires. All cars have heater-defrosters. Most of the cars have considerably more equipment.

Sale prices apply to these 30 Buicks, only, and are good until Sunday, September 20th, Every car is ready for immediate delivery and is offered on a first come first served basis.

gratic electors pledged to not one knows who.

To take the third choice and write in a ballot for President Johnson a voter would have to write down the names of 10 qualified Democrats who would vote for the President. They would thus become his electors.

The cutch is that if two voters casting ballots for the President write down two different slates of electors, President Johnson would have two separate votes that wouldn't count together.

Young King to Have Youngest Queen

ATHENS, Greece (P)-A handsome young Mediterratican king-the world's youngest monarchand a teen age princess from a Viking land will be married Friday in a storybook romance clouded by the Cyprus war threat.

Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark and King Constantine of Greece will exchange vows before a glittering assemblage of kings and queens, princes and princesses, nobles, diplomats and churchmen in a byzantine ceremony. President Johnson has designated his elder daughter, Lynda Bird, as one of his personal representatives at the wedding.

More than a million spectators-Greeks, visiting Danes, and other foreign tourists-are expected to fill Athens to cheer the couple along the wedding route as they enter their new life in a golden horsedrawn carriage.

WITH LESS THAN a week to go, wedding fever is rising fast. And no wonder. For besides linking Greece and Denmark in an historic union, the marriage will blend storybook traditions of royalty and romance with ultra-modern glamor.

It will turn a lovely, soft-spoken 18-year-old girl into the world's youngest queen-for the world's youngest king. Constantine is 24.

In today's workaday world of diminished royalty, any blue-blood wedding is enough of a novelty in itself to attract worldwide attention.

But there has never been a royal wedding quite like this, Anne-Marie and Constantine belong as much to the glamor magazines to today as to the much to the gramo, mag-

EVEN IF SHE weren't a princess, Anne-Marie has the kind of lithe, Scandinavian good looks that turns heads. Constantine is a rugged black-haired youth who smiles easily, handles a race car like a pro and walked away from the 1960 Rome Olympics with a gold medal in yachting.

Their life as king and queen won't be all glamour by any means. Greece is caught up in the grim, dangerous Cyprus problem that could plunge the country into war with Turkey.

The king's powers are limited but he is the armed forces commander-in-chief and appoints prime ministers in times of political crisis.

In this country, the king is no mere figurehead and even Constantine's strongest admirers acknowledge that 24 is very young for the job. In the king's absence the queen may be appointed regent to act for him, a tricky job requiring diplomacy and tact

FOR ALL THEIR evident pleasure with Anne-Marie as flancee for their king, Greeks will be watching her more critically after she becomes their queen.

Constantine's mother, Frederika, was often criticized when she was queen. Not a few of her subjects thought she meddled in politics beyond her rights. In this country popular objections to royal ways can have more than academic meaning. In the last century the Greeks have thrown out monarchs from time to time.

But matters of state lie ahead. Now it's the wedding that counts here. In the elegant salons and the clipped formal gardens of the Athens palace there will be parties and balls for the titled and the privileged invited by the royal families. There also will be two open-air receptions given by the Greek royal family for the public.

If there won't be room for everybody - and there probably won't be-the others can toast the couple with glasses of throat-scorching retsina, the resin-spiked wine served in the popular tayerus of

Billion Gallon Reservoir Under Construction

SCHEDULED FOR COMPLETION by next July is this billion gallon capacity reservoir under construction on the Irvine Ranch about a mile and a half north of Corona del Mar. This San Joaquin Reservoir will be the terminus for the Metropolitan Water District's Orange County feeder line No. 2, and will service the planned university complex, Newport Beach, the Irvine Ranch Water District and parts of Huntington Beach and Costa Mesa. It is located at the head of Bonita Canyon and will cost in excess of $4 million. Face of the dam will be 265 feet high. It is a rock and earth fill, covered with five feet of impervious clay and asphalted. It will hold 3,200 acre feet of water and will be vital to the area's development.

SPEED TRACKING ABILITY

Three important reasons why T.I. means maximum protection for your title when you buy property

If you're buying real estate, it's important to make sure your investment is protected as fully as possible. Most real estate experts will tell you that this means a title insurance policy from T.I. Why do the vast majority of property buyers, real estate brokers, escrow officers, builders, developers and lending institutions insist on T.I. when there are so many other title companies? Our size helps. They know that T.I. has America's largest staff of title specialists, working with the finest facilities in the industry. And experience that dates back to 1893.

Our speed counts, too. We have complete and up to date land records available in 40 California counties (only T.I. has them) and we can provide fast service in all 40 counties with just one local phone call.

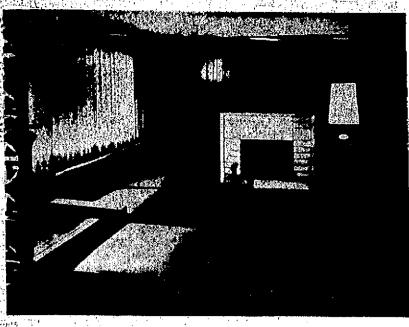

Finally, T.I. has an unmatched reputation for tracking ability-for making a thorough, accurate and impartial examination of the title to the property you plan to buy. And for issuing a title insurance policy that assures you maximum protection.

Size. Speed. Tracking Ability. Three important reasons why it pays to specify T.I. to guard your ownership rights. Remember, T.I., the number one brand of title protection, costs no more.

One does not have to look for General Pizarro, He history of this, perhaps the most Spanish, capital in South America; for it was Pizarro who founded Lima to make it the seat of the iceroy and center of Spain's power in the new world.

Lima also lies astride the old Inca empire, and had it not been for the Incas, Pizarro's name might never have bobbed up on the pages of history.

PIZARRO, from what I can gather, was little more than a bold and greedy soldier of fortune who, having heard of the Incas' fabled fortune in gold, entered Incaland at a most propitious time—when the two ruling brothers were feuding. With 200 soldiers, he ambushed one of the brothers and then: proceeded from the north of Cuzco (now about 31/2 hours by autocarril from Lima) to meet the other. Huascar was so pleased to hear of Atahaulpa's death that he welcomed Pizarro as hiz ally. Instead, Pizarro looted Cuzco of its treasures, made the Indians his slaves, and eventually founded Lima, its site was chosen on Jan. 6, the feast of the Wise Men or Three Kings.)

And so, as Harry Frishman had said, no one comes to Lima without looking up Pizarro.

I found him in the Cathedral of Lima, facing the Plaza de Armas, which is the main square in this city of 2 million people, and the site the famous conquistador selected as the nucleus of his town. His mummified remains rest somewhat nervously inside a glass coffin. A bronze lion, symbol of the Castilian family, sits on top of the glass case as if to guard the gnarled bones. Holding up the case are statuettes of Indians crying for their conquerer. Under the coffin is the inscription: "Capitan General Don Francisco Pizarro. Founded Lima Jan. 18, 1535. Died 1541."

GROUPED ABOUT the Plaza de Armas are buildings in which Peruvian history has been made, and certainly is being made today. Among these is the elegantly baroque Government Palace, whose original foundation, like that of the Cathedral, was laid by Pi-

A First: Bixby Ranch on Home Tour

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON

Travelers, commuters, natives and newcomers-chancing to look up from their world of push buttons and status symbols—have long pon-dered the wondrous beauty of East Long Beach's tree-shrouded hacienda on the hill.

Few contemporaries have set foot on its historic unspoiled grounds.

For Rancho Los Alamitos—or Bixby Ranch, as it is more often called—is today a world apart.

As if to rise above the incessant roor of today's mechanized society, it stands aloof, a hauntingly beautiful shrine to the wealth and beauty that IS California—and to the men who swept West to fulfill it.

For here are Southern California's deepest roots - some pushing their way through the earth's surface, exposing their age-old strength, producing a magnificent fusion of yesteryear and

ONE OF FIVE homes on the Women's Architectural League Home Tour, the historic landmark next Sunday will-for the first time-open its gates to the rush of modern man.

To browse through the 19-room ranch house, to plod through its now-deserted stables and barns, to stroll through the many lush gardens is to relive the romance of early-day California.

The beholder feels the spell and, suddenly, understands what makes California more than a fertile frontier, a booming economic giant, a sunny playground.

For here there has been magic union, a rendezvous between man and nature.

THE HISTORIC domain on the hilltop off E. Seventh Street has, for 14 years, been "managed" by jovial, gregarious George J. Salzer of the Ranch Co. (If he had a title, it would be "manager," says he, but in the casual way of the Bix-bys, beloved by employes and friends, nobody ever bothered to give him a title.)

For more than 80 years—longer than Long Beach has been a city—it has been the home, the livelihood, the life of the Bixby family.

First part of a vast Spanish land grant, the original 26,600-acre spanse was, in earlier days, owned by Don Manuel Nieto (he built the original adobe house in 1784), Jose Figueroa, California governor, Don Abel Stearns, and an investor

Mr. and Mrs. John Bixby (he was a former school teacher) and their 18-month-old son, Fred, moved into the long unoccupied Alamitos ranch house in 1877. The adobe structure, regarded as the oldest residential landmark in the vicinity of Long Beach, was "almost a ruin" when Bixby successfully undertook its rehabilitation and improvement of the grounds.

In 1906, after death of his mother, Fred H. Bixby and wife (Florence Green), moved into the old adobe with their three children (soon to be four, later five).

THE FAMILY STORY unfolds colorfully as one strolls through house and grounds.

There's the original adobe house with its 3foot walls (front part of present home) . . . the massive wardrobe built, carved and mirrored by John Bixby ("pretty good for a school teacher," he's reported as saying) . . . the lamp made from an old cider jar by a ranch hand for Mrs. John

And there's the massive, carved billiard table the elder Bixby ordered from the east as a gift for the YMCA. (The YM refused it on the grounds "it would corrupt our youth." Result: All members of the Bixby clan have been expert billiard players.)

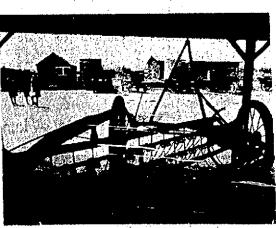

THERE'S THE steady succession of additions -the living room, the parlor, the library and the dining room (all with fireplaces) . . . a couple of kitchens, a mess hall for ranch hands, the milk room, pantries, and an unending parade of bedrooms (I lost count), many with their own sitting

The story is that Fred Bixby built bedrooms as the children were born. When the rambling structure hit the tank house, they quit having children. "It's too expensive to tear down the tank house." Bixby is quoted as saying.

In the dining room is a massive, glass-smooth cherry wood sideboard referred to by the family as "father's folly."

Encourage West to Err

South was pleased with West's diamond opening. He played the ten from dummy and then East followed with the five, South quickly played the queen. He was able to make this play quickly because he worked out the whole play of the hand before playing from dimmy.

Then he entered dummy with a spade and played the deuce of clubs and finessed his jack. West won with the king of clubs and led a second low diamond. West thought that South had started with the ace and queen of diamonds alone. West's friendly play allowed South to make 10 tricks.

WEST REALLY should not have fallen for the falsecard. He should have realized that even if South held a doubleton diamond that the diamond return would give South nine tricks, If West wanted to beat the hand, it was up to him to lead the heart king. He should have made this shift, but did not.

However, if South had saved his queen of diamonds at trick one, West would have seen that the continued attack on the diamond suit was hopeless and almost surely would have found the heart shift.

The bride wore white embroidered linen designed with a short train and overskirt. Daisies fashioned her headplece from which fell a short vell of silk illusion. Attired in olive green linen with fresh daisies in their hair were her sister, Christine Allen; bridesmaids, Dee-Dee Watkins and Donna Ferrante. The flower girls were her cousins, Janet Burns, Miraleste, and Susie and Wendy Lagerstrom, Palo Alto.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother, Greg Hyatt. Groomsmen were the bride's brother, Fred Allen Jr., and John Hendricks.

Parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Allen of Roll-ing Hills received 150 guests during the reception at the church. Among the guests were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hyatt, Placentia, and his sisters, Jill and Wendy.

Countryman-Davis Nuptial Married in Baptist Rite

Beach families were united with the marriage Saturday of Marjorie Amanda Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Davis, 4300 Myrtle Ave., and Dr. Louis Kenneth Countryman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry K. Countryman, 939 Appleton

Their wedding, to which 250 guests were bidden, took place in Covenant Presbyterian Church in late afternoon.

For the ceremony the bride selected a peau de soie gown with reembroid-ered lace bodice and sleeves and lace insets in the skirt. A mantilla of similar lace graced her hair, and she carried pale pink roses, lllies of the valley and Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. tives of England who met at phalaenopsis orchids.

> BETTY JACKA came from Evanston, Ill., to be the bride's maid of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Robert S. Borders, Mrs. Philip Joanou and Marian H. Elmore of Knoxville, Tenn.

F. Kirk Countryman was best man to his brother. Ushers included Albert G. Davis Jr., the bride's brother, Dr. Walter H. Gerwig of Bridgeport, W. Va., Robert R. Kirkpatrick and George McMillan.

The young couple, now honeymooning at Kauai, Hawaii, will establish residence in Rosemead after their return from the Islands in October.

DEAR ABBY: We have recently moved to a new community where it seems to be the custom for the married men to have "a night out with the boys." Milton and I have never gone anywhere in the evenings without each other and we don't intend to start now. When Milton was invited to join this "night out" group, he politely declined and now it's all over town that he is "hen-pecked."

Milton says that such remarks do not bother him. But they bother me a lot. I'd like people to know that

'A true and honest effort

DEAR ANNOYED: Don't try. The truth seldom requires an affidavit. If a man is NOT hen-pecked he doesn't have to crow about it.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married 12 years and have four lovely children. My husband travels and we have nothing in common anymore. We've only stayed together because of the children.

One night three months ago, due to car trouble, some friends and I went into a night club about 35 miles from home. A band was playing there. I took one look at one of the musicians and my heart did a flip flop. At intermission he came right to our table and started talking to me. He said he saw me come in and he liked my looks. Abby, I've gone back there almost every night. I drive 70 miles just to sit and talk to him for the few minutes he has during breaks. For the first time since my marriage I haven't been able to get another man out of my mind. We've talked about our marriages. His isn't any good either, and he is just sticking around because of his children, too. I've only seen him at this establishment, and all we've done so far is talked. I know this sounds crazy, but I am very much in love with him. The craziest part is that I've checked up on him and I've found out that he is a liar. I hate liars; but it doesn't seem to change my feelings for him. I know he's no good but I love him. I can't help how I feel. It doesn't make sense. Is there something wrong with me?-NEEDS HELP.

DEAR NEEDS: There is nothing wrong with you that hasn't been temporarily wrong with millions of other people. What you feel is not "love"-it's a strong physical attraction. It doesn't respond to logic, so don't try to figure it out. You may not be able to help how you "feel"-but you CAN help how you behave. Quit seeing this liar and save yourself and several innocent people a peck of heartaches.

Problems? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

my husband is NOT hen-pecked, and he could go if he wanted to, but he doesn't care to. How can I get this across without sounding holler than thou? I don't want to make any enemies.—ANNOYED.

poker game that kept him from home several days. Mrs. B decided if he could do that, she could splurge. The exquisite sideboard is monumental proof that she could.

IN THE WOOD-PANELED offices at the back of the house are evidences of the vastness of the ranch operation. Also there are engravings of Fred Bixby's smoking habits-a criss-cross pattern of scratches where he struck his matches on the wall.

The ranch was completely self-sustaining with a staff that included blacksmiths, choremen, milkmen, gardeners, horse breakers, teamsters, cowboys, carpenters and cooks, All food was raised on the premises, including spices and sugar beets.

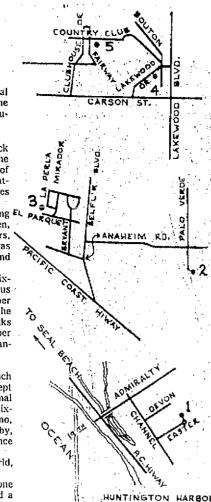

Gardens of every variety testify to the Bix-bys love for nature. There are rocks and cactus hauled by wagon from Arizona . . . two rubber trees in the front yard (pictured on cover) are the second oldest of their species in the state. Walks are lined with Italian cypress, oleander, pepper trees. Arbors, tennis courts, verandas and meandering walks echo of yesteryear.

TODAY, with only a small staff, the ranch house and grounds (now only 9 acres) are kept manicured and well-groomed for occasional weekend visits of surviving members of the Bixby clan-Mrs. Preston Hotchkis of San Marino. ### He 'Kits' Around A Lot \

By MILDRED K. FLANARY

He's in the trailer manu; facturing business—NOT a producer of aluminum foil or rooster decals. Today's Chef of the Week Thomas G. Fagan, is vice president of Kit Manufacturing Co., which, by the way maintains three plants.

Shure, he's Irish — his grandparents (all four of them) are from the County Meath in Ireland.

Fagan's debut in the realm of trailers, seems rather ambiguous. For he actually has the potential of a writer-AND an entertainer, as well. In fact, he even went so far as to earn a bachelors degree in journalism from the University of Missouri.

FAGAN was born in Pueblo, Colo., but remained . there only a few years before going to Colorado Springs. where he completed both grammar and high school. It was there, also, that his writing career began, as a reporter on the Colorado Springs Gazette...

He also boosted the college budget by accumulating an orchestra of his own. His idol was Harry Owens, who, at that time, was playing at the Antier's Hotel at "The Springs." He could imitate Owens to perfection.

Upon graduation from college, the writing bug still pursued him, and, for a time, he wrote radio scripts and programs.
And then — he took the real ascent. He went to Chicago and joined the Braniff Air Lines.

HIS KNOWLEDGE of the air stood him well, for World War II happened, and Fagan joined the Naval Air, per-forming most of his duty took an indoctrination course at Dartmouth College, and while there, he found a friend in Whizzer White, the All-American Athlete, who later became a member of the Kennedy official family.

After his release from the Navy, Fagan pursued yet another field-that of refrigeration. He became sales manager of a refrigerator company, specializing in selling the "cold boxes" to trailer manufacturers. And then he met the president of the Kit Manufacturing Co., and sold himself, as well.

Aside from his local duties, Fagan is president of the National Trailer Coach Association, and vice president of the Trailer Coach Association of the West. These obligations, plus two Kit plants, snugly located in the States of Kansas and Idaho, keep him in transit much of the time.

I'm going crazy thinking about my first love—and only love. I know now that he feels the same way about me but there just doesn't seem to be anything we can do about it. Any suggestions?-DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE:

Yes. I've one very excellent suggestion to make,

Get down to the real business of making your marriage work. You married of your own accord. You brought a child into this world, You're defrauding your husband and this child of the happiness and domestic security both should feel.

You're daydreaming about a past "love." You're glving very little consideration and thought about how to make the best out of what you've determined to view as the worst. You're acting more like a child than a grownup. Grow up!—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I was married at 18, most ly because of unwanted pregnancy, and I have had four years of pure hell. My husband has hit me

(I told people I had fallen); he gives me five dollars occasionally and keeps the rest of the money for himself; he is drunk a great part of the time. I keep my house clean and our two children spotless: I have home cooked meals (nothing in cans and no "prepared" foods) because that is what he likes. I never get a com-pliment or a "thanks," just criticism about everything.

I have been sick lately and the doctor says it's nervous tension. I'm not surprised! I think in his way he loves me. I have no feeling-I don't love him, nor

Thinking of Selling? Here are 10 Reasons why you should list your home for sale with

LARGE SALES FORCE.

Walker & Lee has more than 250 full-time professional sales people selling residential properties in this area. They meet more potential buyers for your home.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING.

REPEAT CUSTOMERS.

It is only natural that people who have bought a home from Walker & Lee will think of Walker & Lee when they're ready to buy another home. Some clients have bought as many as six homes from Walker & Lee. Their seventh home could be yours.

Every Walker & Lee salesman is kept completely informed on all the latest trends in financing. This helps insure a trouble-free escrow and therefore a faster sale.

SALES CONTROL SYSTEM.

Walker & Lee maintains a system which keeps you completely informed on the progress being made in selling your home. We tell you how many times your home is being shown, what prospective buyers are saying about it, and the price opinions of other sales people who evaluate your property in the light of today's market. You know what is happening and why — this hastens the sale of your home . . . a service sellers appreciate.

TRADE-INS.

We have developed a successful system of trading homes. If you are purchasing a home, we can take your present home in trade, with a good chance that you will require no additional cash. Even if you don't need another home, your buyer may have one to sell or trade.

We refer prospects from one office to another. A referred prospect could buy your home.

OUR SALESMEN.

The main factor in the success of Walker & Lee lies in a truly . professional sales staff. Our continuous training program develops the high level of ability of the Walker & Lee staff . . . from the newest member to the most seasoned veteran. Our salesmen offer you the maximum in service and integrity.

9. THE MAN IN MANAGEMENT.

Walker & Lee managers are hand-picked. Their capacity for leadership and loyalty to the client has been demonstrated many times. They are available 24 hours a day for any assistance that may be needed to close the sale of your home.

10. WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Walker & Lee is the best-known name in real estate in Southern California. The Walker & Lee insignia is the symbol of integrity and dependability for many thousands of buyers who automatically look for the "Double Diamonds."

SOME of the mystery and high drama of a movie thriller surrounded the birth of our atomic age 20 years ago-Sept. 18, 1944. It was on that date that President Franklin D. Roosevelt, after a conference with Winston Churchill, scribbled his approval to a now-historic memo. It read: "When (this) bomb is finally available, it might perhaps—after mature consideration — be used against the Japanese."

There it was-the first official hint that a mystery homb of unknown power was being developed, implication was clear; that the bomb-whatever its nature-would be completed too late to drop on German armies and cities.

Unsurprisingly, In Washington, D. C., the world's most politically conscious city there empted a fresh spate of rumors, speculation and whispering. For, incredible as it may seem, Congress itself had been kept in the dark concerning the steps being taken to develop a bomb of tremendous destructive power!

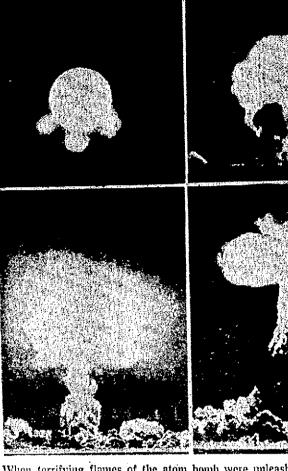

IT TOOK ONE with FDR's political skill and persuasive powers to bring that off. Confidential chats with Dr. Albert Einstein and Dr. Vannevar Bush, as well as other highly respected scientists, had convinced him that an atom bomb could, in time, be developed.

But how effective would it prove to be? Only a test of the completed bomb would reveal the answer to that.

FDR reasoned - and the scientists and military experts agreed with him-that utmost secrecy would be necessary to insure the success of such a project. His enormous prestigo at that time made it possible for him to promote a special-and secret — presidential fund for use in developing the A-bomb. More remarkable, the "appropriation" amounted to two billion dollars!

There followed a quiet launching of the shroudedin secrecy Manhattan Project-a project directed by Lt. Gen. Leslie Groves, That meant full speed ahead on what has since been called "the biggest gamble in world history." Out of it came a bomb which was destined to change the course of history, end the Pacific War, and plunge our world chin-deep into the challenges, opportunities, tensions, and dangers of the Atomic Age.

THESE SCIENTISTS contributed significantly to the formed Truman that prepa- realized that the "lonely fin-planning and development of the atom bomb: Dr. Albert Einstein, Dr. Vannevar Bush, Arthur Compton, Enrico Fermi, Ernest Lawrence, and J. Robert Oppenheimer.

FDR knew at the time of his death-on April 12, 1945 --- that an A-bomb would "be ready for its first test within a few months." Vice President Harry Truman, on the other hand, had no knowledge of it! He learned about it—including how much progress had been made in perfecting it—on the night that he took the oath as president.

At the close of a hastily called White House cabinet meeting (soon after FDR's death), Secretary of War Henry Stimson remained behind for a confidential talk with Truman. Stimson confided this piece of startling news: "Mr. President, you should know that we're developing a weapon of enordestructive power. Our scientists describe it as the atom bomb. This explains the secrecy surrounding our Manhattan Project."

Secretary Stimson also in-rations were being made to all decision" would have to test the new bomb in the New Mexico desert. He mentioned "early summer" as the target date for that. Thus the full implication of FDR's memo - "this bomb might perhaps be used against the Japanese"-hit an already overwhelmed Harry Truman with dramatic impact:

An interim committee was quickly set up to advise Truman of progress being made on the A-bomb project. Most of his advisers were scientists and military experts. Almost immediately some of them-especially scientific experts - expressed opposition to the idea of using the atomic bomb against Japan.

BUT SOME OTHERSnotably Secretary of War Henry Stimson, Army Chief of Staff Gen, George Marshall, and Lt. Gen. Leslie Groves, head of the Manhattan Project - strongly favored hitting Japan with. the full force of the awesome new weapon. Caught up in the swirl of the controversy, President Truman

Then came the Potsdam Conference in mid-summer of 1945-a summit meeting attended by Prime Minister Winston Churchill, Labor Leader Clement Attlce, Joseph Stalin of Russia, and President Truman. While it was going on, a piece of electrifying news reached Truman.

It was that the mighty atom bomb had been exploded in the desert near Alamorgordo, N. M. Confidential accounts described it as "terrifying and unbelievable in its destructive power."

Almost casually Truman told Joseph Stalin that he now had an A-bomb in his arsenal. Thus he left the Russian dictator in doubt as to whether he'd use it against the Japanese. To Winston Churchill, however, he confided that his final decision "probably would be in the affirmative."

Much Ado With Lids

By Ruth C. Ikerman

NE OF the joys of grocery shopping these days is the fun of finding old favorites in new packages, such as a metal coffee can with a plastic lid. Such packages provide free hobby materials, and there are many things to do with lids.

For one thing you can paint the can itself pink, blue or yellow to match your kitchen, and through the plastic lid you can see at a glance which kind of cereal or dried fruit you are storing inside it. Paint some green and paste daffodil or gladiolus pictures on the lids and use them to store such bulbs.

The material is pliable enough so that a darning needle with six strand thread can be through it, and yet it is durable enough not to tear if embroidery stitches are added to apply initials to make it usable as a club badge. Or apply numerals with colored adhesive tape.

INSERT YARN or ribbon through a hole cut near the to of the lid, and tie several such circles to a plant used as table centerpiece. If for a baby shower, paste pictures of children on the lightweight electric states. lightweight plastic, allowing the rim to act as a "frame."

Use spray paint on the jids and while they are wet sprinkle them with "glitter" in rainhow colors of silver or gold, such as is used at Christmastime or for New Year parties, and you have baubles to hang from a manzanita branch for a buffet centerpiece.

Paste wallpaper designs in the center of six lids to create a set of doll plates create a set of don plates for a five-year-old house-wife. Or let her make her own gift for grandparents by splashing the lids with her paints and turning them into water glass coasters.

POKE HOLES in the lids and then put stems of varicolored plastic flowers down through them, and the lid becomes a lightweight but firm base for nosegays or corsages. They may be cut to smaller size by trimming with scissors, colored and strung on yarn for a costume lei.

Paste a larger circle of figured silk or cotton material beneath to make small pin trays for a dresser. Or add ribbon at the edge and an artificial flower in the center as an attractive holder for bobby pins.

Infinite are the uses of the free materials which come with the interesting packages which stock grocery shelves today.

Los Angeles County Fair Takes on Sparkling Look:

'Tomorrow, Today'

By HARRY HOFMANN

NITH THE sparkling look of "Tomorrow, Today," Southern California's major fall attraction, the Los Angeles County Fair, is packed with excitement and ready to burst into a 17-day fun-filled festival.

The most spectacular and enlightening presentation in the 37-year history of the world's largest county fair hegins Friday. The exposition this year is displayed before a continuous round of thrilling entertainment and diversion highlighted by hundreds of new and different exhibits.

Long Beach will be saluted with special events on Friday, Sept. 25. Included will be the Long Beach Purse to be run during the pari-mutuel horse racing program and a band concert by the Long Beach Municipal Band.

Free grandstand shows, including a hootenamy sturring the Serendipity Singers, a comedy show with the Three Stooges and the Polack Bros. Circus, are planned, as are hundreds of different free community entertainment features.

OF GREAT INTEREST to fair-goers is the mile-long scenic monorail, part of tomorrow's world today.

More than 40,000 exhibits and dramatic displays present a truly remarkable cross-section of agricultural, industry, cultural and space age achievements all as new as tomorrow and emphasizing the fair's theme, "Tomorrow, Today."

A new feature of the fair this year is Science, U. S. A., a display of man's progress in space through science. America's top space age industries will feature their latest developments in this rapidly growing field with emphasis on space achievements.

Twenty major divisions of the fair—each an exhibition in itself—are spread over the 487-acre exposition park with its 200 permanent buildings. The huge Counties Building is overflowing with prize products of the harvest and wealth of natural resources contributed by a hundred California counties, communities and organizations. A premier livestock show has the cream of the flocks and herds of the West.

MORE THAN 6,000 examples of women's handiwork are displayed in the Domestic Arts Building. Bringing the past to the present is a special feature of the fair this year—a complete millinery shop. The shop, restored after more than 40 years, is believed to be the only completely original millinery store in existence.

The latest in appliances, furnishings, decor and conveniences go on display in the Commercial Exhibits Building.

The cultural phase of the fair is displayed for visitors

Horse racing has long been a top attraction at Los Angeles County Fair, and upcoming Fair—Sept. 18 through Oct. 4—will be no exception. There will be thoroughbred, harness and quarter horse competition.

in the Fine Arts Building; shared by the International Photographic Exhibition and arts and crafts, the latter demonstrated daily by creative designers in a special exposition feature, "Art in Action."

THE INTERNATIONAL Building brings the flavor of foreign lands to Southern California in a gesture of goodwill and better world relations.

Always a popular feature of the fair is the activity in the Sports Plaza where fans are entertained by water sports experts.

There is the Junior Fair for the younger set and for the tiny tots the fair offers the now famous Story Book Farm where the land of children's imaginations comes to

The 37th edition is a giant exposition featuring something for everyone. There is so much to see and do that it is actually impossible to view the entire fair in one day.

OUTSTANDING, but often missed features of the fair include the gay Mexican Village, steeped in the carefree atmosphere and charm of the land below the border; four horse shows featuring some of the finest animals and riders in the Southwest; the Court of the Redwoods, paying tribute to the state's majestic trees; the historical collection of mighty steam locomotives, the world's largest miniature railway, and many, many others.

Daily, except Sunday, race programs are presented on the fast half-inile track. Thoroughbred, quarter horse and harness races are scheduled each afternoon at the meet, third largest in the state in daily attendance.

New this year is a spacious, modern clubhouse, adjoining the 10,500-seat grandstand. An additional 3,500 patrons can be accommodated here, where closed circuit television brings the finish to the fans. The "Top of the Fair" restaurant is a must for fairgoers.

Major highways from the Long Beach area lead to the fair, where parking for more than 45,000 cars is available.

Bombardment treatment of slipping waterfront cliffs might have saved some, at least, of 29 homes lost in Portuguese Bend area, above. Two palatial Brentwood homes were wrecked by earth movement last year. Landslides, earth slipage are the terror of Southlanders who have set up their dwellings on the high places.

Would Electric Shocks Halt These Slides?

By LOU JOBST

ANDSLIDES—terror of cliff-living Southlanders—may soon be prevented by "electric shock" treatment of slipping earth.

Even minute amounts of direct current will dry out moist soil, alter its molecular structure and form cementing material in the ground, claims a team of USC magnets.

Cohesiveness of some soils, especially clay, which is found in great quantities in Southern California, can be increased from five to ten times by bombarding the material with electricity.

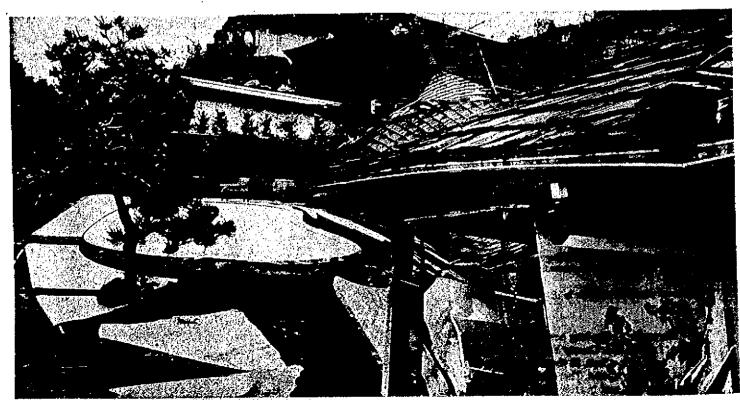

THE IDEA OF controlling soil slippage and subsequent earth slides by electricity first came to the attention of Southern California engineers when they were successful in using electricity to get additional oil from wells which had stopped flowing naturally.

Laboratory experiments showed that "shocked soil" became more compact and drier the longer it was electrified.

Electrical erosion control is nothing new; during WW II the Germans electrified river banks to keep them from slipping and filling up channels dredged to hide submarines and the Soviet Union has used electricity to prevent landslides where railroad tracks and highways have been cut through soft strata.

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR G. V. Chillingar of Los Angeles, one of the men working on the electrical soil project, said he read in Soviet scientific journals how electrodes can be inserted into the ground when there is danger of shifting after heavy rainsforms.

Chilingar and his associates, who include R. A. Armstrong, graduate student from Laguna Beach and a senior engineer with Union Oil Co., would like to demonstrate their theory in Pacific Palisades, Portuguese Bend or some other critical landslide area in the Southland.

Science Gives Swimming Something New

By Jerome Hall

tumn mornings a halfdozen fraternity boys from Cal State Long Beach will jump into the surf and head for Catalina. Long before dinner hour they'll clamber ashore at Ayalon and claim a new world record for dear old Alma Mater, cutting the old record in half.

The IALDS (that's International Alliance of Long Distance Swimmers) will hastily convene and after due consideration, declare the claims void.

"I m p r o per propellants" will be cited by the IALDS.

The fraternity boys, you see, will have been aided in the record-breaking swim by Aqueons, a new device that may have as much effect on aquatics in the next 10 years as the surfboard had the past 10.

The Aqueon is the brainchild of one of the nation's top hydrodynamicists Calvin A. Gongwer, the senior scientist for Aerojet General, a leading defense and missile manufacturer.

WITHOUT moving his arms, a swimmer using the Aqueon can glide through the water with ease at speeds surpassing those achieved by champions at short distances.

Furthermore, "there's practically no limit to the distance a swimmer can go with the Aqueon," says its inventor. "You can swim just as far as you can walk," because he says it takes no more effort.

"We expect in the next few weeks there will be a

ONE OF these bright au- rash of people swimming to Catalina," says a spokesman for Aerojet General, "We figure the market is just the same as it was for the surfhoard a few years ago. The surfboard has become somewhat common now and there are a lot of people looking for something new."

> THE INVENTION, which appears to be strikingly simple yet contains complicated elements of hydrodynamics, is being offered in kit form for $39.95 and has an advantage over the surfboard-little or no athletic skill is required to skim through and under the water at speeds up to four knots (4,6 miles per hour. By comparison, the world record for the 100-meter free-style in international competition is 35% knots, or 4.2 m.p.h.).

"After 15 minutes of practice, anyone who can swim at all can manipulate the Aqueon to drive and twist as in skin diving or just use it as a fun device in a pool," claims Gongwer.

The Aerojet scientist explains that he got the idea for Aqueon from the por-poise. "The porpoise has always tantalized swimmers and has been the source of amazement to more than one scientist," says Gongwer. He believes this device gives man about as much advantage in the water as he'll ever have Gongwer can even outswim some fish with it. "Not very big ones, though," he is quick to admit.

THE AOUEON is a gliderlike device about four feet fits the lower half of his little weight upon the wear-legs. He propels himself by er. doing quarter knee bends. The more rapid the knee bends, the faster he goes. A fin-like blade with up-anddown motion propels him.

He doesn't move his hands or his arms except to guide himself. A 3-foot sculling wing blade can be used in his hands for better maneuvering.

"You're just like a bird under water," says Gong-wer. "It's all glide, no strain. It takes only one-third as much effort as swimming with swim fins."

The device may be used with skin diving equipment for deep-ocean swimming. The Aqueon weighs about 15 pounds, is made almost

THE INVENTION is the product of military experimentation. Gongwer, who has developed a biadeless outboard motor and a miniature submarine as well, sees military applications of the Aqueon.

"It can be used by invasion forces, and I don't mean small teams or frogmen. Large units of men could be landed with these. With underwater breathing aparatus they would not be detected until they were on the beach."

But right now he is interested only in guys and gals using them. "We don't know if we'll sell even one," he says with quizzical expression. "But I keep thinking about the first surfboards that were put on sale in Southern California.

"I'm sure that people looked at them and said 'You expect to find anybody goofy enough to try to stand up on that thing on top of a wave?' "

But tens of thousands of people have been goofy enough. That is why, any day now, a bunch of college guys will jump into the ocean and begin pumping toward Catalina.

Attractive Jean demonstrates Aqueon in these underwater views. Device, made principally of wood, weighs only about 15 pounds and is operated simply by doing quarter knee bends. Swimmer's speed is greatly increased.

The Electronovision process, which produces Theatrofilm, involves a development series of steps that follow this general outline:

Step 1: Electronovision cameras photograph elec-tronically the play or event being enacted. As many as 15 Electronovision cameras, the number utilized for Richard Burton's "Hamlet," may be operated simultane ously. Of particular impor-tance is the lighting innovation developed by Electronovision. Ordinary motion picture or television cameras require intense lightand, of course, the large amount of equipment necessary to produce that light. Electronovision may operate with only available light, as in a darkened theater.

Step 2: The images captured by the Electronovision cameras are transmitted electronically to a specially equipped monitoring board, located apart from the stage

Step 3: Cables carry the impulses to mobile stations that are fully operational for instant recording and transmission.

A Wee Bit of Elegance

Glassed-in sun porch lends an effect of more than doubling Porters' living room. Porch also serves to present beauty of garden. Comfortable and pleasant demeanor of area is evident in this photo. Top, exterior view.

N THEIR modest home at 6061 Fairbrook Avenue in Los Altos, Mr. and Mrs. James Porter have created what Mrs. Porter calls "a wee bit of elegance" and the term has won quick acceptance by all who have viewed the achievement. Mrs. Porter accomplished the decorating without outside assistance, although the result is of professional caliber.

The home is small: living room, small dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms and a bath, Before they made a minor structural change, the home had a den; however, the change made a great difference. The front door opens into a small entry which leads to the living room where a wall that formerly divided the living room from the den has been removed, making the whole area a part of the living room—for a spaclous result.

71TH the Southland as a major citrus land, oranges have long been a flavorful adjunct to recipes here, and such is the case with this week's prizewinner submitted by Mrs. E. H. Coy, 5241/2 Linden Ave., Long Beach 90812. The recipe:

Mom's Orange Cream

8 eggs

ā heaping tablespoons sugar

3 oranges, juice and grated rind of 2 oranges

lemon, juice and rind

1 cup sauterne

Put all ingredients in large saucepan. Cook over medium fire and stir to combine. Beat slowly with wire whisk beater. When mixture begins to get hot, beat fast. When foamy, remove from fire and pour into large bowl and stir every few minutes until cold. Ladle into sherbet glasses and refrigerate. A dollop of whipped cream is good on top.

Hot Soups Always Hit the Spot

Country Garden Chowder is the essence of a comforting meal on a cool day for those who carry lunches or those who take their midday meal at home.

By Mildred K. Flanary Seuthland Managine Home Economics Editor

HOT CHOWDERS, slews and hearty soups are always popular with both hostess and guests (family, too). And speaking of soups, have you ever stopped to think how many places the proverbial can of soup can go?

For instance, right into the chowder pot goes a half cup or so of cooked vegetables with cream of potato soup. Next time you have a chicken or a turkey, get a big one and quickly convert the planned overage into Creamed Chicken (Turkey) and Rice Delight. Another treat is Bubbling Ham and Egg Sandwich in which condensed Cheddar Cheese Soup is the main ingredient. The following recipes will start your own imagination on its way:

Country Garden Chowder

1 can (101/2 ounces) condensed cream of polato soup

1 soup can milk

1/2 to I cup cooked yegetables (green beans, ... carrots, peas, corn tomatoes, spinach, etc.)
Crumbled bacon or chopped ham (optional)

In saucepan, combine soup and milk. Add vegetables. Heat, stirring now and then. Do not boll. Garnish with bacon or ham, if desired. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Bubbling Ham and Egg Sandwich

- slices toast, buttered Thinly sliced ham
- hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- can (11 ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup

1/ cup milh

Place toast on foil covered cookie sheet. Arrange 2 slices of ham on toast; top with egg slices. Stir soup until smooth; gradually add milk. Spoon sauce over ham and eggs. Bake at 375 degrees about 5 minutes or broil until bubbling hot. Makes 4

Chicken and Rice Delight

1 can (101/2 anness) condensed cream of celery soup

1/2 to 1/3 cup milk
1 cup diced cooled chicken

14 cup chopped cucumber
11 teaspoon snipped chives Hot fluffy rice

In saucepan, blend soup and milk, Add chicken, cucumber and chives. Heat, attring now and then. Serve on hot rice. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

(Continued from Page 4) man returned from Potsdam to the U.S.) were the first to learn that his final decislon was "yes." A ship's doctor asked the president if he had any plans for "speeding up the war against Japan."

Harry Truman astounded his listeners with this frank, off-the-cuff remark: "You bet I have. Our country now has a powerful new weapon at its disposat. It equals 20,000 tons of INT exploded on a single target at one time! It will bring the Japanese to their knees quickly."

So the die was cast: and once he returned to Washington, a solemn, yet de-termined, President Truman gave the fateful order: "Drop the atom homb on Japan!" Gen. Carl Spaatz was chosen to supervise the first atomic bombing mission in world history.

Through dangerous waters of the Pacific the lethal Abombs were convoyed to their launching site—Tinian Island. Practice bombing runs were held. After considerable debate on the highest officials level, Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan, were designated as the key targets.

Col, Paul Tibbets Jr., plloting the Enola Gay, was toric and never-to-be-forgotten bombing mission. Tib-bets and his crew members, decked out in strange "atom-bomb suits," resembled no one so much as welders

His final word to them went like this: "We're about to start the bomb run. This is iil Put on your goggles and when you hear the tone signal, pull them over your eyes and leave them there till after the big flash" On through clouds roared the Enola Gay, with the central bridge over the river Ota, in Hiroshima, as its rendezin Hiroshima, as Its rendezyous point with destiny.

Tensely, unbelievingly, the men walted. Tibbets, an officer with a sense of history, bade his men: "No foul please, fellows. What we say today will go down in history!"

Finally, Tibbets gave the fateful command: "Now!" 🖪 Down went the most terri- 🔳 fying bomb the world has ever known. Uncanny secever known. Uncanny seconds of silence ensued. Then came the explosion which stunned the civilized world and ended the war with Ja-

You Ask We Answer

Q. When did the U.S. Naval Academy adopt a goat as its mascot?—L.M.

A. According to legend, the Naval Academy has had a goat as its muscot since 1890. On their march that year from the ferry station at Highlands Falls, up the steep hill to West Point to play the first Army-Navy game, the Naval Cadets (as they were then called) commandeered a goat from the Non-com's quarters for their mascot. However, the official files do not record this incident but list 1893 as the year a goat mascot made his debut at the time of the fourth Army-Navy game.

Q. Is there a trail on the West Coast like the Appalachian Trail?—F.H.

A. Yes, The Pacific Crest Trail that stretches from the Canadian horder to Mexico, following the crest of the Cascade and Sierra ranges. It is similar to the Appalachians from Maine to Georgia. The Pacific Crest system is largely in national forest lands, and its routes and shelters are maintained by the Forest Service.

Q. What is the "fatal 20" superstition?—B.T.

A. History has shown that every President of the United States elected to office at 20 year intervals beginning in 1840 died in office. Those who died were William Harrison, elected in 1840; Abraham Lincoln, 1860; Jamets Garfield, 1880; William McKinley, 1900; Warren Harding, 1920; Franklin Roosevelt, 1940; and John Kennedy, 1960.

Q. Where is the "river of Egypt" mentioned in the old Old Testament?—W.K.

A. This river, identified with the broad and shallow Arish, runs north and north-west from the Sinaitic peninsula and flows into the Mediteranean about 50 miles southeast of Gaza. It is a "flash" stream, being almost dry except during rainy seasons, when it becomes a swift river.

Q. When was Mark Twain's first book published?—N.D. A. His first book — and

A. His first book — and one of his most famous—was "The Jumping Frog" published in 1867, its title-page was "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County, and Other Sketches."

Art Has a Catalina Weekend

JUDGING from the number of entries received, the sixth annual Catalina Island Art Festival, scheduled Sept. 19-20 in picturesque Avalon, promises to be the largest in the festival's history.

While most of the entries have come from Southern California artists, paintings have been received from contestants in several western states.

Festival Director Virginia H. Renton announced that a special panel of noted artists will be assembled to judge the exhibit, which carries with it $1,500 in prize money.

ONE OF THE cash awards will be $150 for the best "Catalina Scene" by a nonresident artist.

The sponsoring Catalina Art Association has made аттапдетents for special bus trips into the island's interior, Monday through Friday, to provide visiting painters an opportunity to sketch some of Catalina's famous landmarks.

A civic dinner honoring the judges is scheduled Friday and an Artists & Models costume ball will be held at the famous Casino ballroom Saturday.

MRS. RENTON declared that paintings would be displayed along the town's beach-front Crescent Avenue during the two-day exhibit. Demonstrations for children and adults by famous artists on painting "techniques" will be staged.

Visitors to the Island for this event may book transportation at the Wilmington Terminal—gateway to Catalina—and home of the S.S.
Third Hilling Hill Catalina, Channel Airlines • Duplex and the Magic Isle. Motor cruisers also sail daily from the Wilmington Terminal.

ADVANCES in medicine have markedly reduced deaths from gall bladder diseases, report statisticians for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

For example, the death rate from gall bladder conditions among persons 35-74 decreased from 6.7 per 100,000 in 1950-52 to 3.7 in 1960-62—about 45%.

Responsible for the downward mortality trend is the reduction in operalive deaths. This, say the statisticians, reflects better surgical management, advances in anesthesiology, control of infection and more frequent use of surgery before dangerous complications develop.

The reduction in the death rate has been twice as great among women as among men in the past 10 years. This is highly significant, for gall bladder disease has a higher incidence among TAHQUITZ is a mean old god! The Indians of this area have said that he is fond of rampaging around the countryside raising all manner of fuss, and that one of his failings is a penchant for devouring children. While foraging for supplies to satisfy his dellcate appetite, legend has it that Tahquitz rumbles and grumbles. When the Indians found a mountain that rumbled and was rugged, it seemed logical for them to name it after their rumblygrumbly god.

Near Tahquitz mountain is a valley which, in the days before the long drought, possessed a lake which the white man has since named Elsinore. Just to the south of Lake Elsinore, the mountains rise so steeply that their flank provides an impressive view of the lake and of the valley in which it lies. Indian legend has it that from this vantage point, on a dark, night, one may often see the luminous footsteps of Tahquitz appearing in succession as he crosses the lake on his way to or from his mountain home.

for impressing the natives.

Now, with the restoration of Lake Elsinore, things may be looking up for Tahquitz. If the lights of towns and cars do not frighten him off, he will be able, once more, to manifest his watery phosphorescent effects for the edification of those who visit the mountain overlooking the lake on a dark night.

Colonial Adaptation

By Bill Meyerreicks

GOING back through the years to the charm and resourcefulness of the early American furniture and accessories, Sketchbook this week offers its adaptation of the Colonial Wash Stand, an unusual and interesting design.

As a wall decoration for holding fresh cut flowers or all-year-round plants, the charming wash stand will catch any discerning eye for interior decor.

THE AVERAGE woodworking fellow can enjoy making this for the better half's pleasure. The Sketchbook plan S-176 shows how easy it really it. First of all, the amount of lumber, all standard sizes, is very moderate. The materials list as well as all parts are listed in the plan.

Skeichbook Plan No. S-176, that also suggests methods to affix the stand to the wall, is available for 50 cents from Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

Two views of modernized version of colonial wash, stand as wall adornment.

gives the background of the situation and analyzes what he believes the nation must and can do about it.

Translating the statistics of poverty into human terms. he claims business, labor and government, acting together, can channel the enormous sums expended for welfare and defense into helping the poor to help themselves. He argues that the apparent disadvantages of automation and cybernetics can be utilized to provide the necessary jobs to reduce unemployment and meet the challenge of thousands of young people entering the labor market each

The root of the tragedy, Humphrey points out, lies in the lack of long-range planning by both industry and government.

"THE GOLDEN BEES: The Story of the Bonapartes" by Theo Aronson (New York Graphic Society, $8.95) treats of the entire Bona-parte family from 1764 to the present day.

Shelves of volumes exist on various individual Bonapartes. Aronson, young South African writer, emphasizes the personal history, not the political history of the greedy, amorous, quarrelsome and hot-blooded clan.

Aronson seems to have it all—he hasn't missed a story from the squabbles of Napoleon's sisters over the carrying of Josephine's train to Hitler's remarkable deal with Petain to return the body of the Duke of Reichstadt to his father's tomb in the Invalides.

The author says his next task is to write about the

THE PACIFIC OCEAN — largest and deepest body of water on our globe — is a world almost without a history.

Hawaiian educator, A. Grove Day, helps fill this void with a definitive history, "THEY PEOPLED THE PACIFIC, How Man Conquered the Largest Ocean from Pre History to the Present," (Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $3.95).

This is the story of the slow human migration through the scattered Pacific Islands that started somewhere in Asia about 1,000 years ago. This migration, described in detail by Professor Day, explains how the vast oceanic "melting pot" of Indonesia, Micronesia, Melonesia, Australia, Tasmania and Polynesia came into existence.

AFRICA has had a profound impact on the consciousness of the world since the end of World War II, but most of the attention has been directed to political events, particularly the emergence of new African nations. Social, economic, physical conditions and problems of Africa also are important in the new world a building, believes William A. Hance, professor of economic geography at Columhia University, and he has written "THE GEOGRAPHY OF MODERN AFRICA" (Columbia University Press, $12). TERRIERS being judged at action, and an old heritage of going after such fur bearers as foxes, badgers, rats, and others.

In the early days of the terriers, most owners did not readily admit to such ownership. They were in most part pour farming peasants who often sat down to a meal brought in by terriers cuached to peach from the more elite class. Also, terriers were not exactly the cream of dogdom as far as the nobles were concerned.

ROYAL FAMILIES also were so determined to keep hunting as a rich man's pastime that they decreed that all dogs with long tails must be heavily taxed. The farmers quickly solved this by cropping their terriers' tails. And the dogs did not fall flat on their whiskered muzzles when their "rudders" were shortened, as was the general belief of royalty. fact, the stubby tails made good handles when the dogs needed help getting back out in the open after harry-ing their quarry into the ground.

I do not know of any records saying the farmers hacked their dogs out of the ground if they went too deep or refused to back out without a too-heavy load, (Continued on Page 26)

SCHOOL! Most little boys dread the thought of going back. But most little girls relish the idea and can't wait for tomorrow morning

Boys of all sizes and girls of all shapes agree on one thing, however. They believe the last day of summer vacation should be a gay day, a fling day marked with lots of laughs and good things to eat and drink. That's where Mc-N-Ed's pizza parlor, Paramount Boulevard near Carson, Street, comes in. Open today and every day from 11:30 a.m. on, Me-N-Ed's is one of the most popular family spots in town, a place where youngsters of all ages can celebrate the last day of summer vacation by reveling in the splendid taste of crisp, delicious pizza.

Operated by tall, quiet Bob Baldwin, Me-N-Ed's is an immaculate, well-run restaurant designed in a clever Old English motif. Its service techniques are as modern, however, as the year 1965, with numerous chefs working behind gleaming windows through which the guests can watch their pizzas being carefully constructed with six remarkably different cheeses. The pizza crust, crisp with a nut-like flavor, is made from a secret recipe,

Me-N-Ed's serves only pizza, plus assorted beverages, including soft drinks for youngsters, light and dark tap beer for adults (25 cents a glass) plus coffee and milk. Nine wonderful pizza varieties are offered, priced from $1.20 for the smallest to $3.50 for the giant model which is approximately as large as the L. A. Coliseum.

SUNDAY TREAT - Noth ing pleases the true gourmet more than beef Stroganoff, prepared by a chef who fully appreciates the gustatory delight created by the blending of tender beef, wine, onions, sour cream and gentle spices. That's why the guests who order this specially at the scenic Wayfarer Restaurant, 2230 Pacific Coast Hwy, Lomita, nod with pleasure at the first taste. "Ah," they exclaim quietly. "This is it." Owner Jimmy Richmond, former Long Beach restaurateur, serves it for $3.75 on a magnificent dinner, including relish tray, soup, salad, beverage and dessert.

HIGH HOLY DAYS-Music for the Jewish Holy Days features Met tenor Jan Peerce and conductor Alfredo Antonini as Aline MacMahon narrates a repeat of "The Song and the Prayer" at 8 a.m., ch. 2. Noted Jewish theologian Dr. Louis Finkelstein observes the Holy Days at 9 a.m., ch. 4, marks the occasion by talking of "challenges to the posture of American morality."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, WILL - Scenes from three of Shakespeare's plays are aired in color at 7 p.m., ch. 4, in observance of the Bard's 400th anniversary as host-narrator plays Mercutio (Romeo and Juliet), Shylock (Merchant of Venice) and Falstaff (Henry IV). Show opens and closes with examples of Shakespeare's villainy, as entire program combines with the sculptured panels of John Gregory. (Ch. 9, at 10:30 p.m., offers its first of 9 separate hours of Shakespearean drama.)

OFF-NETWORK DEBUTS-The limping Chester returns at 7 p.m. (9) as the old half-hour "Gunsmoke" films begin a weekly "Marshal Dillon" run, while at the same hour Jim Backus returns to his old Headline Press Service desk on ch. 5. Also on ch. 5 are repeats of ABC's former "The Law and Mr. Jones (James Whitmore) at 8 p.m.

ABC'S WIDE WORLD of Entertainment - More than 30 stars of the network's new fall line-up join host Bing Crosby in an off-beat musical season curtain-raiser. There'll be a dance by Connie Stevens, a song by Kathy Nolan, monsters from "The Outer Limits," a visit with "The Addams Family," Gene Barry of "Burke's Law" driving a "Wagon Train" burro, Lawrence Welk backing Crosby and Jimmy Dean on "Beer Barrel Polka," a trio with Birg Mickey Poney and Doubl Janesen and "Play with Bing, Mickey Rooney and David Janssen, and "Play a Simple-Melody" sung by Bing, Sammy Jackson, Tony Franciosa, Rooney, Richard Baschart, David Hedison and Ernest Borgnine . . . all at 9 p.m., ch. 7.

THE ROGUES - Premiere. David Niven, Charles Boyer and Gig Young are co-owners and co-stars of the new 10 p.m., ch. 4 Raffles-type series dealing with a family of charming crooks who flourish by their wit, imagination and breeding. Robert Coote and Gladys Cooper are featured regulars, with Walter Matthau, Dina Merrill, Alfred Ryder and John Dehner guestarring on opener, a Riviera adventure in which Niven, Young and Coote plot to separate a greedy millionaire from his fortune and his

Adventure sagas and action shows, too, will not strain the intellect of a 12year-old.

With few exceptions, it appears television finally has accepted a fact the movies have long recognized: The public wants to Even the old groaner, he entertained, not stuffed with messages. Only oc-casional video "specials" will attempt to stem the cultural lag.

It should be noted that last year's trend to longer television shows has been format is emerging again as the favorite of viewers, among comedy shows as well as dramatic efforts.

ANOTHER thing to look for is the emergence of second bananas in starring roles: Bob Denver, sidekick "Doble Gillis," headlines "Gilligan's Island--;" Katy Nolan, Kate in "The Real McCoys," grabs top spot in "Broadside;" Jim Nabors moves up from "The Andy Griffith Show" 'to star in "Gomer Pyle, USMC"; and Dennis Weaver, "Gun-"smoke's Chester, headlines "Kentucky Jones."

Some old familiar faces will be back on the air in "The Rogues," starring Da-

DENTAL HELP FOR O.A.S. PENSIONERS

Pensioners of this area will find complete information about the O.A.S. dental care program is readily available at the Downtown Long Beach dental office of Dr. II. Leo Rowan.

Since 1930, Dr. Rowan managed the Dr. Cowen Dental Office at 107 West Broadway, corner of Pine, and the office is now under his individual ownership. He extends to O.A.S. Pensioners a cordial invitation to come in anytime; no advance appointment is needed.

Immediate service, on the very first visit, is provided for pensioners who need X-ray dental examination, or repair or adjustment of their old dental plates.

QR. H. L. ROWAN Member of Cowen Dental Association

The O.A.S. Identification Card must be presented. If new dental plates are needed, the O.A.S, rules require that an authorization be obtained from the Department of Social Welfare, and the staff at the Dr. Rowan office is at your service to assist in making the application.

The Dr. Royan Dental Office is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily (closed Saturday), at the corner of Broadway and Pine, opposite Buffums, in Downtown Long Beach. The telephone is HE, 6-7241.1

VOYAGE to the Bottom of the Sea.—Premiere, Richard Basehart and David Hedison star in an adventure series at 7:30 p.m., ch. 7, dealing with the dangerous missions of the atomicpowered submarine Seaview in the year 1973. Eddie Albert guests on opener as a seismologist on a mission to the North Pole when the Seaview is attacked by an international ring bent on world domination.

I'VE GOT A SECRET Series' new host Steve Al-len sits side by side with outgoing Garry Moore in a kind of pre-inaugural tele-cast at 8 p.m., ch. 2. Magi-cian Milhourne Christopher is evening's celebrity.

NO TIME for Sergeants— Premiere, A hit as a novel, Broadway play and movie, the wacky maneuvers of the hillbilly animan come to TV at 8:30 p.m., ch. 7, with Sammy Jackson starring in the Will Stockdale role which brought Andy Grif-fith to fame. Premiere seg-ment finds our hero placed on permanent K.P.

WENDY & ME miere, George Burns plays an apartment landlord who chooses tenants like Connie Stevens (Wendy), Ron Har-per and James Callahan because they don't object to his singing. The 9 p.m., ch. 7, opener finds Wendy getting her husband to pose as his friend to project the lat-ter from the wrong kind of girl (Diane McBain).

BING CROSBY Show — Premiere, Family comedy-drama series of an engineer who rules the roost with his wife (Beverly Garland) and two teenage daughters Carol Faylen and Diane Sherry). Frank McHugh plays a war buddy who dropped in for dinner 10 years ago and never left. The fact that the engineer was once a bandleader gives Bing frequent chances to sing, as in the 9:30 p.m., ch. 7, opener when Bing and Ellie re-live their courtship.

BEN CASEY-4th season premiere—Back to its original 10 p.m., ch. 7 time slot, show opens with a series of five separate but the of five separate but consecutive dramas in which a love triangle is established between star Vince Edwards, Stella Stevens and Ben Piazza. British star Margaret Leighton guestars on the opener as an elegant but frightened couturier, with sub-plot introducing Miss Stevens as a 28-year-old patient, her 1-5-year come now ended, who finds herself a child emotionally but a woman physically.

Bert's Eye View

TF YOU'RE LOOKING for coincdy this new season, don't try KCOP (channel 13).

The independent network's fall programming is no laughing matter, according to John Hopkins, president.

'We're going in for good heavy drama as an antidote for an over-abundance of situation comedies elsewhere, said Hopkins.

"If they want to call us the 'Drama Station,' we're not going to cry about it,"

There's a method to Hopkins' anti-comedy madness. In Southern California, he had learned, there are many more viewers proportionately who prefer drama than there are elsewhere in the nation.

To illustrate, "The Richare Boone Show," "The Lieutenant," "Arrest and Trial," and "True," all network dramatic series, fared poorly in the ratings across country.

Yet, they were very successful ratingswise in Southern California.

So successful, in fact, that Hopkins believes they'll do well again. He's bought all four series for the first off-network showing on his station.

He followed the same principle last season when he purchased "The Dick Powell Show." It's been one of his most successful programs.

JOHN HOPKINS

In addition to the off-network dramas, channel 13 will also air an original dramatic series, "Man of the World."

It's an hourly series about a newspaper photographer. Craig Stevens, who was television's "Peter Gunn," has the lead.

"We're not against people laughing," he said. "But there are enough—if not too many—comedy shows on the networks. We want to give the said of the networks. We want to give the said of the said of the networks. We want to give the said of the said of the networks.

That "something different" is not limited to drama. In fact, if you prefer to call channel 13 the "Color Sta-Hopkins isn't going to cry about that, either.

"We are the leading independent television station in the nation in televising color," he said. "And even if you were to compare us with the networks on a nationwide basis, we'd be second only to NBC."

Before this month is over, channel 13 from Monday through Friday will be telecasting in color half of its programs from 1 p.m. until 10:30 p.m.

"Others may talk about color being the coming thing," said Hopkins. "As far as we're concerned, it's here already."

ACCORDING TO HIS FIGURES, a color program in Southern California "automatically" is tuned in by the occupants of 75,000 more homes than it would be if it were in black-and-white. Last season channel 13 telecast "Ripcord" in color for the first time. It brought a higher rating than the series did when it was originally aired on ABC in black-and-white, said Hopkins. Hoping to duplicate the "Ripcord" success, channel 13 has purchased "Science-Fiction Theater" and "Science in Action" for airing in color.

In the travel field, where KCOP has pioneered for many years, a number of new series have been added for this season. They include "Islands of the Sun," "American West"

"Capture." A first-run documentary series, "Survival," narrated by James Whitmore, also is tailor-made for Hopkins' concept of counter-programming, Included in the half-hour series will be such survival accounts as those for the sea rescue in the crash of the Andrea Doria and the evacuation of Marines at Chosen Reservoir during the Korean War.

THE BROADWAY production of "The Advocate," a controversial play about the trial of anarchists Sacco and Vanzetti, is one of several specials the channel will offer.

Another is "The War to End All Wars," an hour-long documentary about World War I. Narrator is Quentin Reynolds.

In handling coverage for the West Coast premiere of the movie "My Fair Lady," channel 13 hopes to utilize different techniques. The opening segment, for example, will feature Frank Sinatra and Natalie Wood with Arthur Godfrey.

I got up at 7 a.m. and watched the "Today" show for two hours and was very disappointed that he wasn't on the show.

Would you please answer my question soon because I have to leave for college in n few weeks?

M. Nash, Lakewood

Bill Faith, an NBC-TV public relations man on the West Coast, took your "soon" to heart.

He immediately phoned New York from where the "Today" show originates.

They told him Franciscus, because of a conflicting personal appearance tour through the Midwest, asked them to change the day from Tuesday to Thursday.

All of which leads to one major conclusion.

When you get to college, boy, if you have trouble, have Faith.

In your article about Dorothy Provine why didn't you mention she had a grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Provine, living in Long Beach.

The only thing Dorothy that she was here briefly to make a movie.

Mrs. Florence Wilson, Long Beach

It was a grandmatical error. Dorothy hopes her grandmother will forgive her.

Please keep on with "Destry" with John Gavin. We like him very much. He is a good actor and a doll and his stories are very interest-Inc.

young man realizes that he's lesling more hair than he should. A middie-uged woman discovers that the softness of her hair is caused by Its thinning away, Young women who have "tried everything" decide that what they need is prafessional attention. And middleuged men see the first alons of the boldness they dread and wonder what is to be done.

NOWADAYS QUITE A LOT CAN BE DONE

Much more than most people think. Nowadays success comes to many people who, not long ago, would have been told that their cases were hopeless.

JUST AS TEETH are destroyed by our "soft" civilized diet, it is concalvable that our hair suffers from our "soft" civilized way of living. Physical inaction, lack of fresh wir, inadequate hair and hygiene habits, and nervous stress of modern living may all reflect untaxonably on man's hair growth, From their years of experience in successfully treating hair and scalp disorders, the specialists in the Turoff System have proven that modern men can avoid boldness

IT HAPPENS every day now. A by counteracting the effects of "soil" civilized living with a "hard" vigorous system of scalp hygiene, THE UNUSUAL SUCCESS of the Toroff System in administering over 11/4 million treatments supports this theory strongly. The inescapable truth is . . . premature thinning of the hair, or actual baldness, is inevitable for many men and women . UNLESS CORRECT SCALP HY-GIENE IS BEGUN EARLY.

PREPARATION

Much must be done, before the actual Twroff treatment, to condition the scalp properly. First your scalp is theroughly examined. Every Individual is thoroughly exemined in complete privacy and an Individual course of treatments is determined. No two cases are ever identical, neither are the treet-

Seen the Wind?

Producer-director George Sidney has signed Maria Schell to star in "Who Has Seen the Wind?" first of six 90-minute TV specials to be made about and for the United Nations.

SAVORY SWORDFISH:

skillfully grilled with parsley butter in the gourmet kitchen at WELCH'S costs only $1.75. Don't let the low price fael you ... your portion will be large, fender and tasty ... that's the rule at WELCH'S, San Antonio Dr. at Atlantic Ave.

A Letter To Our NON-CATHOLIC Neighbors

rule, get along right well together.

Our families live amicably next door to each other and often become lifetime friends. Our sons fight side by side on every battlefield. We work together in the same shops and factories... root for the same baseball teams ...do business with one another in a spirit of mutual trust every day.

In these and other phases of everyday life, there is a close association which promotes understanding and respect. But in religion ... where this close association does not exist ... there is often a regrettable lack of understanding and a corresponding absence of good-will.

Many people, for instance, have all sorts of false ideas about Carholics and the Catholic Church. They actually believe that Catholics worship statues ...that many sordid things happen behind convent walls ... that Catholics do not believe in the Bible that Catholic teaching is pure superstition and the Mass nothing but mumbojumbo.

All non-Catholics, of course, do not believe such things. But enough of these false rumors are in circulation to cause some sincere and intelligent non- Catholics to look upon the Catholic Church with suspicion, and to reject Catholic truth without even troubling to investigate it.

It is for this reason that the Catholics and non-Catholics, as a Knights of Columbus, a society of Catholic laymen, publishes advertisements like this explaining what Catholics really believe. We want our non-Catholic friends and neighbors to understand us and our Faith, even if they do not wish to join us. We want them to know the Catholic Church as it really is ... not as it is so often misrepresented to be.

> It is also important to you personally, however, to inquire into the teachings of the Catholic Church. For unless you do, you cannot know whether the Catholic Church is or is not the Church established by Jesus Christ for your salvation. You cannot intelligently accept or reject Catholic teaching until you investigate it and know what it really is.

A distinguished Catholic author has written "A Letter To a Friend Not of My Faith." This letter has been published in the form of a pamphler which can be read in a few minutes . . . and which gives a remarkably clear and beautiful explanation of Catholic beliefs, worship and history. More importantly, it gives a blueprint of Christian living which will deeply move you whether you accept or reject the Catholic viewpoint.

This highly interesting pamphlet is well worth the few minutes it will take you to read it. We will be glad to send you a copy free on request, and nobody will call on you. Write today ... ask for Pamphlet No. PR-23.

my favorite iokes by Bill Dana

EDITOR'S NOTE: One of the most talented figures in show business today, Bill Dana numbers among his past and present activities: writer (was head writer for Steve Allen for many seasons), author (Pocket Books' My Name, Jose Jimenez), producer (Spike Jones summer show), businessman (Bill Dana Productions), actor-comedian, composer, symphony orchestra conductor (Indianapolis, Santa Barbara, Scattle), recording star (Kapp Records) and night-club performer.

Bill will soon begin his second TV season starring his alter ego "Jose Jimenez." It goes out under the Amigo Productions banner, a combination of Bill Dana Productions, Danny Thomas and Sheldon Leonard, who is executive producer. Dana's latest Kapp album (his sixth) is entitled Jose in Jollywood and acclaimed as one of his best, although all of them have been in the top sales bracket.

. A modest bachelor of 39, Bill lives in a beautiful 9-room home high above Hollywood's famed Sunset Strip. A personal friend of America's astronauts, Bill owns a home known as "NASA West." Whenever the astronants are in town, they stay there. In turn, Bill is their guest whenever he visits Houston or Cape Kennedy. This mutual "love affair" began with Dana's two albums, The Astronaut and Jose in Orbit. Bill has a repertoire of astronaul stories that would fill a book -but he has refused to capitalize on his friendship with these outstanding men.

Dana recently completed an 8-week nightclub tour with appearances at Hotel Sahara in Las Vegas, the Nugget in Reno and the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. Herewith some of his funnies:

Jascha Heifetz gave a concert in Boston during the dead of winter. It was a miserable night, with snow, sleet and hail. As a result, the big concert hall, which normally seats 2,500 people, had 12 in the audience. Heifetz came out onstage and said, "I'm deeply appreciative that you folks turned out, but under the circumstances, we're cancelling the show. Your money will be refunded at: the box office."

Eleven of the 12 started to get their money. The lone man stood up and said, "Just a minute, Mr. Helfetz, I'm a music lover, I drove 20 miles through this snow. I even put chains on my car to come here and see you tonight. Won't you just sing one song?"

Two coeds at Oberlin College in Ohio were discussing their social lives. One was a freshman, the other a senior. Said the freshman to her older friend: "What would you do if you'd had five dates with a fellow and he never even attempted to kiss you?"

The senior thought about it for a minute, then offered her advice: "Lie about it," she answered.

Bookmakers these days have a special way of playing Russian roulette. They line up six phones, and one of them is tapped.

A fellow walked into a bar, saw no one in attendance, so he pounded and shouled, "Where is everybody? I want a drink." With that, a horse walked out of the back room. The man stared at him. The horse said calmly, "All right, you're making such a fuss. What do you want? Order up." The man continued to stare at him. The horse repeated, "All right now, let's have it. What's your order?"

Finally the man asked: "The cow sold the place?"

A Scotchman fell ill. After much coaxing on his wife's part, he reluctantly allowed her to call a doctor. The physician gave him a thorough examination. "I can get you well," he announced.

"For how much?" asked the Scotchman, "About $400," the doctor said, explaining about X rays and blood tests and specimens and a major operation.

"Too much," said the Scotchman. "I got a better offer yesterday from the undertaker."

"I'm Dr. Hamilton's nurse," a sweet voice announced to a well-known Hollywood writer, "and the reason I'm phoning you, sir, is that your check came back."

"Just tell the doctor," the writer answered, "That so did my arthritis."

"I met my wife at a dance," said Joe to his neighbor as they were setting out for a game of golf one morning.

"That-must have been romantic," mused the neighbor.

"No --- embarrassing," replied Joe. "I thought she was at home taking care of the

■ A Swiss journalist, interviewing an oil rich sheik from Saudi Arabia a few days ago, asked him why he insisted that his wife wear a veil. "Isn't it rather selfish, Your Highness," the journalist asked, "to hide such feminine beauty from the world?"

"You misinterpret my motive," explained the sheik. "I'm just tired of looking at her."

Four Beautiful Henk Bos Still Life Oil Paintings Reproduced For Your Home. Framed, Ready To Hang!

Still Life With Strawberries

Still Life With Melor

Still Life With Teapor

Still Life With Peaches and Grapes

A Special Parade Art Offer

Parade Magazine offers famed Dutch artist's oil paintings as full-color framed prints. Each 11 x 14 inches. Only $1.25 each or all 4 for only $3.95.

An awareness of the beauty of everyday objects, and a loving command of color and composition, are the special gifts of Henk Bos, the popular contemporary Dutch painter whose work is so reminiscent of the old masters. His luscious fruit looks as though it can be plucked right off the canvas. Ordinary household utensils . . . a pewter pitcher, a delft vase, a copper teapot, an earthen jug . . . become household treasures, appealing in their utter simplicity and rightness.

In the brilliant tradition of Dutch art, Henk Bos' paintings have a timeless, universal beauty that has captured the heart and imagination of art collectors throughout the world. These four still lifes, among the most notable examples of his work, are now available in fine reproductions to beautify any home.

Each picture is covered with unbreakable plastic and framed in passepartout with a wood-like finish. Ready to be hung. Overall size 11 x 14 inches each. Full set of four pictures makes a glorious grouping. To order for immediate delivery, mail coupon now!

ountless books and movies have dramatized how the West was won; but few Americans are aware that we are now faced with the problem of winning it for the second time. There will be no covered wagons jolting over mountain trails, nor Indians Jurking in forest shadows. This time, it must be a triumph not of pioneering but of engineering.

While technology will be the tool, the raw material of this struggle is water. The era of space probes and miracle drugs has not changed man's dependence upon "the lifeblood of civilization." Gities and nations grow in direct ratio to their water supply. When that supply fails, they perish.

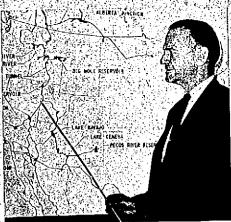

In many arid areas, the daily struggle for water is the accepted way of life. Yet it may come as a distinct shock to most Americans to learn that, even in our lush land, many communities now face water shortages. As our population increases, our water also becomes more polluted. It is not uncommon in crowded eastern cities to find tap water tainted or, equally had, to find the fap dry

The tenements and turnpikes of the East are teening with people and problems. Many Americans seek room to escape, and room is, what the West has plenty of. In 17 western states there are 48 million acres of usable land which only lizards and rattlesnakes now occupy. The missing ingredient is water. This land is irrigable and needs only water to make it bloom.

Only 117 years: ago) the Mormon pioneers pushed into Salt Lake valley and found a bleak, baked desert. In the whole valley, there stood only one stunted tree. Today, that tree is preserved as an historic shrine in a valley of shade trees and green lawns. Where sagebrash once soaked in the sun; a bustling city has risen with pure mountain water bubbling from street corner fountains.

CAPTURING THE SNOWS

What brought about this speciacular change? The settlers simply captured the water from the melting snows in the great mountains and used it to turn Salt Lake valley from a desert into a garden. It took vision in those days to look at a desert and see a future Eden, But the time has come to enlarge that vision in terms of the entire North American continent. By diverting water from the Accide we can transform the wastelands of the West Into a great, new productive area.

Sen. Moss indicates dry area which would benefit from proposed system to bring Arctic water south to U.S.

HOW TO MAKE A DESERT BLOOM

by FRANK MOSS

To study how this can be done, the Senate has appointed a water development subcommittee and has named me as its chalman. We are now gathering data on a bold new plan which could solve the continent's water problems for the next 100 years. The idea is to collect surplus water from the rivers of Alaska, the Yukon Territory and British Columbia, and draw it, southward through a gigantic system of canals, reservoirs, tunnels and rivers.

Heart of the system would be a vast reservous lake 500 miles long. This would fill to overflowing a gorge, known as Rocky Mountain Trench, high in the upper reaches of the Columbia, Fraser and Kootenay Rivers Situated near Banff and Jastper National Parks, this great man-made lake would open up a vast new recreational area in addition to watering the West from central Canada deep into Mexico. Of course, this plan would require the endorsement and co-operation of the Canadian and Mexican governments, and they have already indicated their interest.

Is this great rearrangement of nature feasible. The Ralph M. Parsons Co., experienced in water projects all over the globe, claims it can be done. Though the project would be staggering in size, it would utilize techniques now in everyday use and require no new technological breakthroughs.

How much would it cost? It is estimated the project would take at least 30 years to complete and would require a $100 billion investment. This figure may seem less prohibitive, however, if we keep in mind that the revenue from the water and power will eventually repay the cost.

WATER, POWER AND SOIL

Here's what the system would do

- Bring to the West its own, man-made Misslssippi River. The other ingredients for development are already there, but advancement will be limited until the water arrives.
- Provide a navigable waterway from Yan couver on the Pacific to Duluth on Lake Superior
- Raise the level of the Great Lakes enough to increase electric power production at Niagara by 50 per cent and cleanse the lakes of pollution.
- Not only double the water supply for all our own arid states but provide plentiful irrigation water for northern Mexico.
- water for northern Mexico.

   Finally, provide an adequate water supply for the United States for the next 100 years.

The water and power could give birth to new mining, manufacturing, commercial and financial enterprises, Great modern cities could rise in Utah Neyada and Arizona

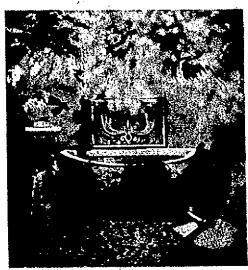

The rich soil would literally spring to life and produce a vast new food supply for our exploding population. Hunting, fishing, boating indeed all the fine recreational opportunities of the great West—would flourish. The mountains deserts and vast prairies would becken other Americans who could now have a choice of where to live their lives and how to live them.

This is a vast project, but we must not be deterred by its size. The challenges ahead are great and it will take just such a program to meet them.

It's "in" in Beverly Hills. Certain beautifullygroomed women wrap up their bouffant hairdos for the night in pale pastel double-ply Crown Chiffon toilet tissue. They're all customers of a famous hairdresser who insists on nothing less.

It's inspiring bathrooms in San Marino. You pick your favorite color Crown Chiffon — lilac, aqua, pink, yellow or white are twice as rich in double ply — and take it from there. The starting point for "Roman Ruin," above, was lilac Crown Chiffon.

It entertains rich kids. Gives them something new to do. Crown Chiffon is so soft and velvety. And strong enough for mummifying little sisters.

It's reached Manhattan. Several San Diego couples who go there regularly to welcome astronauts take supplies of Crown Chiffon with them. "At times like this," says one, "ordinary single-ply won't do. And ticker tape is out."

If we've come up with a new status symbol, that's fine. All we started out to make was the softest, richest, most luxurious double-ply toilet tissue there is: Crown Chiffon

It's created other two-ply status symbols.

Among them, this fur-lined fur coat, having your own plane plus your own pilot, owning an inside, and an outside, dog. (But among double status symbols, Crown Chiffon still has the distinction of being, at least, the least expensive.)

WHAT MAKES

In 1926, when he was 32 years old, Jack Benny met Sadie Marks, who was then selling hosiery in Los Angeles. A few months later, in January 1927, they were married, whereupon Benny made his wife part of his vaudeville act. She then took the name Mary Livingston, which she still uses. In 1957, she retired from show business.

n Friday, September 25, Jack Benny, an American institution of 70, will begin his 15th season on television and his 55th in show business.

Before the current season is finished, this beloved funnyman will have been tuned in by more video-viewers than any other performer of our time. In addition to his weekly Friday night stint over NBC at $75,000 per program, Benny will be televast by CBS, the network he recently left, via livo sets of old shows. One is called Sunday with Jack Benny, on from 5 to 5:30 p.m. The other set of 4:30 to 5 p.m.

Ordinarily such overexposure—no other comic is on TV six days a week—would doom any comedian. But Jack Benny is not "any" comedian.

reruns is entitled The Jack Benny Program and will be shown each weekday starting October 5, from

In the course of five decades he has devised such a sure stimulus to the public funny bone that he has become a legend in his own time, a household staple, a seemingly basic ingredient of the American culture—the lovable, endearing cheap skate with the helpless, glazed look, the inent butt of his own fabricated miserliness. He is the indispensable comedian perennially welcomed and wanted by the people.

No comedian of this century has sustained his success and popularity as long as Jack Benny. The longevity of his career—it started in 1909—is amazing. Almost all his contemporaries—Eddie Cantor, Groucho Marx, Ben Bernic, Phil Baker, Fred Allen, Will Rogers—have either died or passed into semi-retirement.

Only Benny continues to meet the challenge, to come out week after week, standing there on stage, arms crossed, egg on his face, warm, good-natured, done in by the script, evoking smiles, titters and sometimes boffs of laughter by his audience.

WHAT'S THE HITCH?

One imagines that age 70 would find Jack a happy, peaceful, serene, fulfilled personality. Best-paid co-median in the world—he grosses somewhere around $5,000,000 a year—admired and respected by fans the world over, honored and emulated by members of his own fraternity, happily married since 1927 to his first and only wife, incredibly healthy, surprisingly youthful-looking without once ever having submitted to a face lift—"I would have got one if I needed it, but luckily I never have"—possessor of every creature confort from Rolls-Royce to Beverly Hills mansion, Benny is nevertheless an insecure, frequently troubled man bedeviled by moods of moroseness and depression, nagged by a feeling of unfufillment and inferiority.

From time to time he wanders aimlessly along the streets of Beverly Hills, a loner, a man occasionally given to crotchetiness or hypochondria, or he drives a dispiritedly around Los Angeles or plays a solitary round of golf at the Hillerest Country Club, a man in search of life's meaning, not knowing how or where to find it, an incomplete and unrequited man, a paradox and anomaly.

JACK RUN

In an effort to find out what makes Benny tick—he's a fascinating human being to interview, glib and stimulating, unphilosophical but eloquent, full of dicta and contradictions—I asked him if in the winter of his life he liked the kind of man he had become.

"Not entirely," he answered frankly, "because I have a lot of faults that I shouldn't have. For instance, one of the things I don't like about myself is being moody. But nobody knows that, except maybe my wife or people very close to me."

Benny is convinced that only he and his wife and intimates are privy to his weaknesses. He believes firmly that from all others he manages to hide his inadequacies.

MORNINGS ARE BEST -

"You," he continued, "would never know that I'm moody in a million years. My closest friends would never know it. They think I'm the same jolly guy all the time. Good time Charliel But I get moody more than I should. And I don't know what starts it off.

"Usually it starts late in the afternoon and then by night it's over again. I feel best in the mornings. In fact I try to do all my work in the mornings if I can. I get much more work done. I'm an early riser. I like to get up early and do things. I practice my violin. The only thing I like to do late is play golf. But everything else I do in the morning.

"I'm not a party comedian. I don't know how to be funny in people's homes like many comedians— George Burns or Bob Hope or Jerry Lewis or Milton Berle. This I know nothing about. I'm a good listener.

"Maybe I'm moody because I'm a perfectionist. I want my shows to be good. But I must say this, that years ago I was much more nervous than I am now. I find my work a lot easier. Years ago I placed too much importance on every performance. Let's say when I was really 39, I had a feeling that everything liad to be perfect. It didn't have to be at all, but I thought it had to, and that made me nervous.

Some people think I'm insecure. But I don't think so. Maybe a long time ago I was, even after I had success for a while. But now it's too late for me to be insecure. Financially, I'm pretty safe. I maybe should be worth millions more and could have been if I were a good business man. But money doesn't mean that much to me. I've got enough to be secure. To have security money is the first thing you should havefor your wife, family, kids, grandchildren. So I have that. Fortunately I also have my health. Career-wise, the public still wants me. But let's go to another extreme? Let's say that I've had enough of TV and maybe the audience has had enough of me. I still have concerts that I can give. Mine are always very successful. They never miss. I could do stage plays. I could do shows. Probably make a picture or two like Chevalier does by playing older parts. Why should I get mondy or feel insecure?".

I suggested to Benny the possibility that he might not really like being a comedian, that perhaps he had always secretly hankered to become a business tycoon or a leading man like Cary Grant. "What omissions have there been in your life?" I asked.

Jack Benny and his daughter Joan, 30. She has been married three times, has had a child by each husband.

"'Omissions?'" Benny toyed with the word while he played with his spectacles. "I think," he declared, "that Mary and I should have adopted more than one child. That's a mistake I made. We adopted only Joan. But of course, right after that, Mary was going to have a baby herself, which she lost. So then I felt we should have adopted another couple of kids. But somehow we didn't. I kind of miss that. I would have liked to have had more kids, and more grandchildren.

"About being someone else," he went on, "if miracles could be performed, I guess I would like to be one of the world's great violinists. Then I could give concerts legitimately. They wouldn't take in as much as they do now and they wouldn't take in as much as they do now and they wouldn't be as interesting. But I would like to do that for about a year. If I could go back to being 50 or 60 and feeling as good as I feel now, that also would be wonderful. But otherwise, I'd like to stay right where I am."

Many of the comic's friends say that Benny's inferiority complex is founded in his lack of formal education. Born Benny Kubelsky, son of Russian Jewish immigrants who opened a salom in Waukegan, III., Benny left school in the ninth grade to take an $8-per-week job playing the violin in the pit of the Barrison Theatre. He never returned to school, but claims he has mixed feelings about his inadequate education.

"If you want to be in show business," he declares flatly—'flet's say as an entertainer or a comedian—a college education isn't good for that. It's not conducive to good comedy. You should never go further than high school. Very few men who have gone through college have become successful comedians.

"To be a successful comedian you've got to stay down to earth. There's something about having had a good college education that keeps you a little bit too aloof. Your wordings, expressions and delivery and the words you put together in a sentence for comedy become, I would say, a little too brilliant. It just isn't funny. I think that maybe writers could go to college without suffering. But even they, if they have a good high school education, would be better off.

"You asked me what I've missed in life. I'll tell you. I never even went to high school. You would never know it. Nobody would ever know it the way I now conduct myself. But I never had a proper education. I finished school in public school. I went one year to high school. I haven't got too much knowledge. I missed that. I even missed a public school education because I wouldn't study. I wouldn't learn anything. Whatever I learned, I learned all by myself. But I wished I had more—at least a great college education."

I repeated to Benny what he had previously said about a college education not mixing with comedy.

"Maybe," he conceded, "an education would have kept me from reaching my present position. But it wouldn't have made any difference. I wouldn't have known any better. Now, at my age in life, when am I going to go to college? I don't have time for it.

"A lot of people when they got old took courses in college. I remember Fred Allen did. He took English at Columbia. I've been wanting to do that for years. Just never got to it. So that's the only thing I miss, a proper education. But as I say, nobody else knows about that except me. Who could possibly guess that by talking to me?

"I regret the fact that if a book is hard reading I have a difficult time with it. My mind wanders. I have too many other things to think about. If I had had a good education, my brain would work in the proper way. It would be used to hard reading, hard thinking.

BAFFLED BY VIETNAM

"To tell you the truth I have a hard time understanding the whole situation in Vietnam. But I'm not the only one. Even highly educated people don't know what's going on. But I'm not as well versed in politics as I'd like to be.

"This is due to lack of education. Some people like Georgie Jessel have educated themselves. Georgie practically never went to school at all. But he was able to do it himself.

"You see, the trouble with me was that when I first got into show business, I toured in vaudeville in 1911. I liked it too much. I stayed in it instead of going back to school.

"Now, I'll tell you where a better education would have helped me. I'm a pretty good writer. I'd rather say co-writer. I'm a good co-everything: co-producer, co-director, co-writer and a real good editor. That's my business, but if I had the education that I wanted, I would have been a really good writer. I would have been able to write plays. With my sense of humor, Benny's great love in life has been his violin. He has raised more than $3 million for major symphony orchestras throughout the country by appearing in a series of concert engagements for which he accepts no money.

Benny will no longer entertain at stag parties such as this one given him by the Friars' Club. Secret tape recordings were made of some off-color routines and subsequently sold at high prices throughout the world. Today they are considered to be collector's items.

Dennis Day is one of many singers Benny has discovered. Others include Phil Harris and Frank Parker.

with the ideas that I turn over to my writers and the fact that I'm such a good editor—that's the only thing I brag about. I am a great editor—then I would have been a truly fine writer.

"It isn't the fact that I have a lousy vocabulary. I haven't. My vocabulary is all right. I just never use it."

Like most headliners of the show business world, Jack Benny isn't particularly sure of his true identity. He does know, however, what he is not. "I am definitely," he asserts, "not the kind of guy I play on stage and I'm constantly amazed that so many people, even sophisticated people, think I am."

A few weeks ago, for example, Benny was interviewed by a reporter who asked him seriously, "How long have you owned a Maxwell?" Maxwell is the name of an automobile popular in the early years of the century. Benny dropped the name into one of his early radio broadcasts as a humor prop, but many fans believe he still retains such a vehicle.

In truth Jack drives an $18,000 Rolls-Royce. When he bought it 3 years ago, he proudly drove it to the home of his oldest and best friend, comic George Burns. The Burns' maid inspected the sedan with its ultraconservative lines, later remarked to her employer, "With all his money, you'd think Mr. Benny wouldn't drive such an old-fashioned car."

Benny is constantly embarrassed by repeated references to himself as a veteran penny pincher. To dispel that specter he always overtips: $1 to a doorman, $5 to a cabbie, $10 to a waiter.

As a vaudevillian in the 1920's, Jack used to eat regularly in many of the automat restaurants, where nickels are dropped into machines to permit the purchaser to lift a glass window and extricate his food. For years following his great success, Benny was most anxious to continue eating in these New York City restaurants, but was fearful that his fans would recognize and chastise him as a miser,

- HOW TO EAT IN THE AUTOMAT

Not too long ago he finally figured out how to dine in the automat without embarrassment. He took over the entire branch on 45th Street, invited 400 guests, hired a dance band, installed 3 bars and hosted a gala black-tie affair. As each guest arrived Jack handed him 53 in nickels to work the food machines.

Benny claims sadly that he suffers from a poor money sense. "I don't think anyhody throws more money away than Mary and I do. Unfortunately I know very little about economics." But here again, what Jack Benny actually is and what he thinks he is are two different men.

In the entertainment industry he has long been recognized as a shrewd cookie when it comes to finance. In 1948 he moved his program from NBC to CBS, got Bill Paley of CBS to pay $2,260,000 for Amusements, Inc., a company he controlled. In 1961 he sold his production company, J and M Productions, for $2,750,000 in Music Corporation of America stock. In both deals he made fortunes in capital gains.

A few months ago, fed up with the tactics of Jim Aubrey, CBS program chief, he gave Aubrey's network exactly five days to pick up his option. When the network stalled he promptly signed next day with NBC, where the executives rolled out the financial red carpet for him, meeting all his demands.

By nature a generous man, Benny likes to be treated generously by others. His public cheap skate image bugs him. He was particularly clated therefore when the late President Kennedy wrote him a thank-you note for a money clip he had sent to the White House via Peter Lawford. The money clip contained a single dollar bill, but Kennedy wrote that he for one knew how truly extravagant Benny really was. He was sure Jack had sent him not $1 but $750, and he was equally sure, he joked, that Peter Lawford had kept $749 as his commission.

Unlike most comedians who are tyrannical and temperamental with their employees—especially their writers—Benny is kind, thoughtful and tactful. His four writers and his cast of characters, Don Wilson, Rochester, Mel Blane and Dennis Day, have worked with and for him from 15 to 32 years. Benny has almost always treated them as gentlemen. "I am not interested in myself," he tells them over and over again. "I'm interested in the continued excellence of our show.

BE A DIPLOMAT

"I've learned over the years" Benny maintains, "that one of the most important things in life is human relationships. I start on the supposition that people are just as sensitive as I am, writers are even more so.

"For me the best time to work with my writers and east is in the morning, that's when I'm most cheerful. I've learned never to tell anybody, especially writers, that this stinks or this satire is lousy, because then I merely put them in an antagonistic frame of mind.

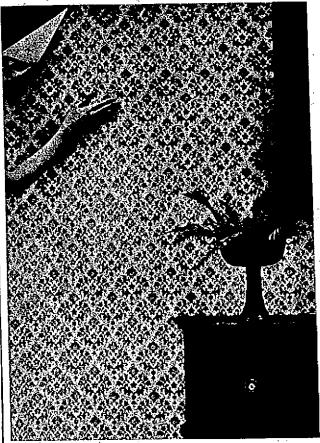

"In the first place, my writers don't write lines which stink. They get too much money for that. Second, I may disagree with them but I listen anyway. I like to let everybody know they're doing a good job, and even though it's for selfish purposes, I get the best results that way.

"I'm not an ad-libber. You know what Fred Allen said about me? I couldn't ad-lib a belch after a Hungarian dinner. But I appreciate ad-libs and wit and humor and talent. Nobody laughs as hard and as genuinely as I do at the routines and jokes of other comedians. I appreciate them and I don't mind showing it.

"This isn't because I'm such a nice guy. I know, it's the way to get results, to make friends, to make life pleasant. We all have selfish motives. Everybody thinks I'm a nice guy because I give concerts for charity, because I go overseas to entertain the troops, because I play at benefits. The selfish motive is that I like to do those things. They give me pleasure.

"Writers like to make me out a very complex screwed up guy. They say I have everything in life I can possibly want, that there's no need for my ever getting depressed or lost or moody. The truth is that I'm a simple guy, a grateful guy who loves what he's doing, and if I get moody once in a while, so what? I'm a character, not a 24-hour-a-day clown, a man, not a laugh machine, a tipper, not a tightwad.

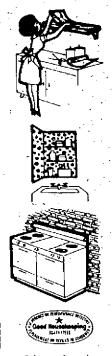

- "Matter of fact for a comedian I am surprisingly normal. I have never been to a psychiatrist and I've only been married once. A fellow could hardly be more normal than that."

A swinging dress just right for dancing is this black rayon crepe with flaring skirt below a princess style torso. Ann Barry $26.

I Ivaway skirts that move with the walk are swinging into the fashion picture this fall in mid-kneecap length for the young and covered kneecap length for the not-so-young. These new animated models come in box pleats, front pleats, accordions, pinch pleats and sunburst styles. Ladies, who for the past few seasons have had to mince along when they walked, will now be free to stride, run, get into a car or bus without fear of ripping their seams. What's more, when they're seated; their skirts will be graceful instead of riding up above the knees awkwardly. On these pages are several versions adapted for morning, noon and evening. All have a saucy air.

Free booklet tells how you can be sure you'll have the money to send your children to college!

In both public and private colleges, the costs of education have risen sharply in recent years. At an average private school, for example, the annual expense is about $3,000. By 1974 the cost will have soared to $5,220-and it will continue to rise about 5% each year.

These are the frightening figures facing today's parents. They are spelled out in detail in a timely new booklet written especially for New York Life by a nationally known authority on education.

> He points out the increasing importance of education beyond high school. "Generally, the youngster who goes to college will gain faster job advancement, higher income and greater economic security than the youth who does not."

> > Planning is the key. This expert holds out the hope that "any qualified student can find a suitable school to go to"—and will if parents plan ahead realistically. He suggests that "the earlier you start, the easier and cheaper it is to accumulate the funds you need." There are many ways available to finance a college education: long-term loans, installment loans, personal long-range savings; government bonds; stocks, life insurance and a variety of scholarships. The booklet tells you the comparative advantages of each.

YOUNG MARRIAGE. So many Americans are getting married in their teens that the U.S. "age-at-marriage pattern" is more rapidly approaching the Asian than the European model. A 50-vear survey of marriage trends by the Population Reference Bureau, Washington, D.C., reveals that American brides and grooms are now *vounger and closer in age at first marriage than are those in any other major urbanindustrial country in the world. " Parents who don't want their daughters to marry at 18, the age at which most of them are marrying, should try to get them into college. On the average, a college education delays a girl's marriage four years, to 22, which is the most common marriage age for women college graduates. For high school graduates, 18 is the wedding age, and for women who did not attend high school, 14 to 16.

CANNED FRENCH WINE. American tourists shopping Paris supermarkets this summer were surprised to find cans of Beaujolais wine for sale at 50 cents each. On sale by Faye et Cie as an experiment, the canned wine is selling well, may soon be exported to the U.S. The wine cans are equipped with a special preparation on the inside to prevent the wine from reacting on the metal. White wines as yet cannot be canned because of their higher acidity. Andre Simon, president of the Wine and Food Society, was asked to comment on canned wine. "In principle," he explained, "canning is a safe way of marketing a poor wine. Put wine in a bottle and oxygen will get through the cork. If it's a good wine, time will make it better. If it's a poor wine, time will make it worse. Putting it in a can will at least stop it from getting worse.

LAND PRICES. The cost of land is booming in most sections of the nation, up 20% since 1950. Basic reasons for the rise: (1) limited acreage for housing developments; (2) tendency of wealthy land-owners to keep their property off the market, feeling the longer they wait to sell, the higher the price.

COMPETITION. European auto manufacturers are worried about increased competition in their own countries from subsidiaries of Ford, G.M. and Chrysler. As a result, Volkswagen, Renault and Fiat are beginning a series of "informal talks" on how to handle the competition from U.S.-owned companies.

BOY SCOUTS. The British are worried. Membership in the Boy Scout movement, which they originally founded, fell by 31,000 last year. In this country, however, Boy Scout membership last November was up 3.4% over the previous November, from 3,668,711 to 3,792,232. Americans like being Boy Scouts.

Football star Paul Hornung and his mother. She raised him alone from the time he was 4.

THE STORY OF A MOTHER AND HER FAMOUS SON

CAN PAUL HORNUNG MAKE A COMEBACK?

by NEAL ASHBY

heavy too will thump against a football at 1:05 p.m. here today, and for a rugged halfback and a gentle woman that kickoff will launch far more than another season.

For the halfback, handsome Green Bay Packer star Paul Hornung, a glamorous and lucrative career is on the line. He fidgeted through last season in mental torment, under suspension for betting on National Football League games. The sports world wonders if he can come back.

For the woman, devoted Loretta Horning, it's an opportunity for restoration of family honor. As both mother and father, she's shared Horning's glorious football seasons, in high school at Louisville, Ky., at Notre Dame and in the NFL, as few women could share an athlete's career.

Touchdowns, field goals and cheering crowds can wipe away the stigma of gambling that blotches the record she's proudly watched her only child compile.

Through weeks of sweaty, punishing pre-season drills and exhibition games, Hornung, at 28, has been battling to return to his demonstrated form as a runner, pass-catcher and place-kicker.

Loretta Hornung will be in the grandstand at the Packers-Chicago Bears game today. To her, the Packers' No. 5 will be not simply a player but the son she raised by herself "with a lot of prayer, a little luck and a little discipline." And the son in whom she never lost faith.

It's been "Do or Die Together" for the Hornungs since Paul was 4, "Ret" Hornung and her husband were separated that year. She went to work.

At first they lived with her mother, who operated a grocery store. Then her mother, who had kept house while the daughter was away at work, unexpectedly passed away. Paul was 9. In her soft voice, Mrs. Hornung recalls telling her son after his grandtuother's death:

"You'll have to be a man now, Paul."

She rented the second story of the home of a woman friend. That way there was someone for Paul to come home to.

"But I was fortunate," the mother says in the tasteful Hornung apartment in Louisville, where she has waited anxiously for scraps of news of her son.

"Paul came home and changed his clothes and went out to play ball. Or he stayed at school to practice for teams. I always knew where he was."

Because of football stardom (though studies came easily for Paul), the years at Flaget High were proud and good. Notre Dame, where Hornung played quarterback and won the Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding college player, enlarged the picture.

After graduation, he joined the Packers for the 1957 season. It was a poor team and Hornung was unable to distinguish himself that year or the next.

Then new coach Vince Lombardi began to build a crisp and devastating football machine: Hornung quickly became one of the men who made it go. The team won the world championship in 1961 and 1962 and harely missed the Western Division title last year.

Hornung set a league scoring record with 176 points in 1960 and again was scoring leader in '61.

The crowds loved this true golden boy of sports—he has the face and physique (6-feet-1, 215 pounds) of a Greek gladiator. So did the girls. And so did individuals and companies eager to have the gridiron hero as a business partner or endorser of products. His salary and outside income climbed crazily:

THE SURPRISE OF 1963

In 1962, a twisted knee kept Paul out of action much of the year.

'63 was a bomb burst. In April came the stunning announcement that Hornung had been suspended by the NFL for "counselling" a businessman-friend known to be a bettor, and himself placing bets, for as much as $500, on games. However, the league investigation report stressed that Hornung never bet against his team or performed less than his best.

"Everything had been going so beautifully for us," relates Mrs. Hornung. "It all seemed to end with that phone call. We knew there'd been an investigation and that an announcement could be expected. But months went by and we had thought maybe there wouldn't be any action. I just felt limp."

As she spoke, her mauner was characteristically calm and unemotional. She is of medium height, slim and attractive.

HIS MOTHER'S REACTION

"Paul and I talked for hours. This has been his only big setback. He took it well. That was no surprise. He told me, 'Mom, I haven't done anything morally wrong.' That was what I wanted to hear.

"Then he said, 'I was a scoring champion. Wouldn't everybody know I was always trying my best?'

"My reaction? Love and tears. That's about it in a nutshell. He's my son, but he was wrong. Shoot, Paul's no angel. I'd be the first to say it.

"Other players may have done what he did, but other wrongs don't make a right. I'm a religious person. I told Paul, 'God has a purpose for everything,'

Hornung shook off bitterness. "I broke a rule that's there in black and white in the contract," he says.

"Who did I think of when I got the news? It's your own problem. You think of yourself, because you've hurt yourself far more than anyone else...

Then I thought of my mother, and I knew it would hurt her, too. I don't have much other family, and I'm not married or engaged."

The Hornungs were numbed, but they got themselves moving again.

Hornung began to see the first of what became an overwhelming mass of evidence that football followers would not turn against him.

He was hired to do sports commentary shows on local radio and television. The Louisville promotion firm with which he's associated did not drop him, nor did the national swimsuit firm for which he does promotion work.

Letters, from children and adults, and telegrams flowed to the apartment. Hornung found that:

"A lot of people placed a lot of faith. in me. Ninety-nine per cent of the messages were favorable.

"The Players Assn, of the NFL formally urged that I be reinstated."

Last March 16, Commissioner Pete Rozelle did lift Hornung's suspension. For Ret Hornung:

"My prayers were answered/

She saw a new buoyancy in her son. He talked a lot about the coming season. She wasn't surprised when he left for Green Bay on April 15-3 months before the opening of the Packers' training season-to begin conditioning hunself for the test ahead.

"I'll make them forget," he told her. He began by sprinting up the stadium stairs in a rubber jacket. On the practice field, where Coach Lombardi has driven his men hard under the summer sun, Hornung has looked good.

He has had a year to think about what 1964 means to bim.

"This year is the biggest thing that's happened to me," Paul Hornung says. "It's the chance to do again what I'd rather do than anything else.

"I've developed pride of performance. And I've learned that if you don't deliver, you don't get the salary, or get a charce at the outside money.

"I want to be a great player on a great team again. Life has gone good. It's all due to football.

"I'm optimistic. My knee is 100 per cent again. I'm aiming for a great year, for my personal sake and because of what people expect of me."

His suspension ended and comeback begun, halfback Hornung has worked hard during Packers' training season. Above, from top, he place-kicks, catches pass, carries the ball.

This microscopic photograph proves

This microscopic photograph proves that as normal dental plates age, thousands of tiny holes appear. Tiny cavities. Denture Cavities where years of yellowing stains and odor-causing bacteria hide.

A toothbrush is powerless. The bristles just can't reach into all these cavities to clean out all stains ... to eliminate all the causes of denture breath.

Now new, much more powerful Polident cleans with a burst of oxygen energy. The Power of Polident penetrates into denture cavities to help whiten away years of yellowing stains and sweeten away denture breath as toothpaste never could. Dentures stay sparkling clean and odor-free 'round the clock.

Now you can take years off your dentures with just one daily bath in the completely new Power of Polident.

You can't kick the tires... so look under the hood!

If you're a tough customer, welcome! If you're a person who kicks tires, squeezes melons, taps plaster... we especially invite you to "look under the hood" of the Conn Organ.

On the outside—you admire authentic console styling in genuine hardwood with beautifully hand-rubbed finish; overhanging keyboard for comfortable, easy playing; tapered solid plustic, non-sticking keys.

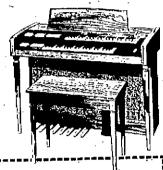

On the inside—you find gold and silver plated key rods; top quality transistors; individual tone generators for each pitch; large amplifier; voltage regulator which prevents changes in line voltage from effecting pitch; big stationary speakers; built-in Leslie speaker for unique pipelike quality.

By any measurement, the Conn Organ is truly a professional quality instrument... from the world's largest manufacturer of orchestral and hand instruments. Since 1875.

Look under the hood of any Conn model. There are nine, each handsomely crafted. Prices start at $995. Convenient terms are available. And Conn's new learning method, "Instant Music," will have you playing familiar tunes in minutes!

the mysterious inner ear

by FRED WARSHOFSKY

Drawing shows complex ear mechanism: A, outer ear; B, middle ear, which transmits sound waves; C, delicate inner ear, which contains hearing organs, controls balance.

hree of the astronauts to penetrate space,
John Glenn, Alan Shepard and Russian Gherman Titov have in recent months been grounded by afflictions of the inner ear. While doctors are unable to show a relationship between space flights and the inner ear problems of the astronauts, their fame has helped to dramatize the mystery and widespread nature of inner ear disorders.

The human car does far more than hear. It also controls balance, position and posture. It tells us whether we are standing up or sitting down, whether we are in motion or at rest, turning or moving in a straight line.

When disease or injury disrupts the complex mechanisms, the effects can be disastrons. Walls and floors heave and buckle as vertigo places its frightening clutch on the victim of an inner ear disturbance. "In severe cases," says Dr. Allan Sheer, famed ear surgeon at New York's Polyclinic Hospital, "it can be completely debilitating. Vertigo victims cannot even sit up in bed without the dizzying sensation that the entire world is tumbling about their ears. With vertigo a varlety of other ills—loss of hearing, ringing or buzzing noises in the head and nausea and vomiting—can result from disturbances of the inner ear."

These problems result from damage to or infection of any of three complex organs within the inner ear. One is the semicircular canals, three looping labyrinths of bone filled with fluid. This fluid flows back and forth in the canals, bending sensitive nerve endings in the direction of movement. The nerve endings send messages—"I'm turning left," for example—to the brain, which sets up reflex actions such as turning the eyes and head to adjust to the movement.

The other two organs inform the brain of the relationship of the body to the pull of gravity. These are the utricle, affected by acceleration, and the saccule, which flashes deceleration signals to the brain.

In normal activity, the inner ear usually performs flawlessly. But certain types of motion place quite different stresses upon it. The rolling motions of a ship, a plane or even a car in very sensitive individuals cause the fluids of the inner ear to bend the nerve endings in an abnormal fashion. The brain reacts with feelings of nausea and sometimes vomiting, the dread symptoms of seasickness.

RESULT: SCRAMBLED SIGNALS

But seasickness is a transitory disturbance. Far more stubborn and serious are the effects of injury and disease upon the inner ear. When Col. Glenn slipped and cracked his head on the bathtub, he probably sent shock waves smashing through his inner ear. As a consequence every step he took, every tilt of his head sent scrambled signals to his brain.

More common are infections which begin in the throat and climb the Eustachian tube to the ear and produce the same effects. These infections are generally less lasting. Their duration is about one to two weeks.

Often diseases of the inner ear are lumped together under the name Ménière's syndrome. This occurs when the fluids build up great pressure and force the nerve endings to send confusing signals to the brain.

Until recently there was virtually no effective treatment for Ménière's syndrome. Opening the inner ear is an extremely dangerous procedure and the risk of causing permanent damage is great. Surgical treatment was aimed at destroying the organs of balance in the afficted inner car to allow the healthy ear to take over the entire job of maintaining balance. But more often than not, the surgeon destroyed part of the hearing mechanism as well and possibly part of the nerve which also controlled the facial muscles.

Now a new technique beams ultrosonic sound at the affected organs and offers hope to victims of Ménière's syndrome. But for astronauts and those of us who encounter temporary infections of the inner ear, time is still the best healer.

Seven months after leaving hospital, Astronaut John Glenn is still grounded by inner ear injury.

CARTER LAKE, IA.

temporary truce prevails today in the border war between Iowa and Nebraska. But the approximately 3,000 persons here caught in the middle are uneasily looking forward to the next skirmish.

In the modest homes, the gas stations, the shops, the overriding topic is: Will Carter Lake remain in Iowa, to which it has belonged since Iowa became a state in 1846? Or will the bordering state of Nebraska win its suit in the U.S. Supreme Court to take over Carter Lake, lock, stock and barrel?

"You read about some of these countries going to the United Nations to complain about their territory being taken over—I can understand how they feel." I don't want to be taken over!"

That's the aroused declaration of an insurance salesman here. He voices the feelings of the great majority of Carter Lake's citizens.

Carter Lake's trouble is that it's on the Nebraska side of the Missouri River. All the other Iowa towns and cities along the twisting Missouri are on the Iowa, or easterly, side.

Nebraska has taken its claim to the Supreme Court. "What Nebraska wants' is our money!" cries an elderly Carter Lake resident. "We've got close to $4 million in assessed valuation. If we were to become part of Omaha our taxes would be double or triple."

His mention of Omaha points up Carter Lake's unique geographical position. During a great flood in 1877, the Missouri cut across a loop in its course. An isolated horseshoe of water was left on the westerly side and a community grew up around it. Nebraska staked a claim to the tract in 1890 and took that to the Supreme Court. Nebraska lost.

ALMOST SWALLOWED BY OMAHA

Since then, the large city of Omaha (pop.: 310,000) has almost surrounded Carter Lake, leaving the town like a thumbprint at the edge of a sheet of paper.

Actually, there is disputed land all along the Iowa-Nebraska border. Rivers commonly wander. Soil deposits build up and stream channels shift. Since the last time the two states agreed that the center of the Missouri's channel would be their boundary, the Missouri has meandered. Shoals and islands have been left on opposite sides of the channel from where they had been.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has now stabilized the channel. The two states are ready to make a new center-of-the-channel compact.

But Nebraska demands everything on the west side —including Carter Lake, Iowa, Pottawattamie County and most Carter Lake residents say "No?"

"We want to stay the way we are," says fatherly-looking Wilson E. Mabrey, who is both mayor and police chief of Carter Lake. We get along fine in lowa. We don't want anyone to bother us."

Says a Carter Lake widow: "Our lowa income tax costs us money, yes, but in our state we have a homestead exemption. Everyone who owns his own home and lives in it pays a lower property tax rate. Iowa also gives war veterans property tax exemptions. Nebraska doesn't give any exemptions."

A young auto mechanic castigates Nebraska, asserting, "I wouldn't be found dead there." But he admits he regularly makes the five-minute trip into Omaha on which 1,091 citizens signified their desire to remain Iowans. Only 48 indicated they'd prefer that their hometown be part of Nebraska, or were neutral in the matter.

'Here you can walk right in and pay your taxes," says an elderly night watchman."In Omaha, if we were part of that, why you couldn't even find a place to park

In fact, as many folks in Carter Lake see it, Omaha is the bully of the piece. Robert Hamilton, 73 and born and raised in Carter Lake, declares: "I don't like the big shots of Omaha, the way they're doing. I

In 1963, Carter Lake officials circulated a petition enjoying lower property taxes as an lowa resident.

But the pro Nebraskans state definite reasons for their attitudes. "This is only a lick town," scoffs a home-owner. "The mayor and his bunch run things the way they please."

"This place is asleep," says another. "I'd like to see it grow. It won't do it as long as it stays in Iowa." "There's no supermarket or shopping center," objects a gas station operator.

The report of a subcommittee of the Iowa House of Representatives rebuts the last complaint. "It appears that the criticism regarding no grocery stores is simply not well founded," states the report, pointing out that adjoining Omaha has many.

Another criticism has been that organized gambling has been carried on in Carter Lake.

"Shucks, we don't have any gambling here in town anymore," Mayor Mebrey responds.

The Iowa House subcommittee came out foursquare on the side of the Carter Lakers. And it said no ruling which would give the little city to Nebraska should be binding until affirmatively voted upon by its citizens and approved by the county. But there is much concern in Carter Lake over Nebraska's bid to gather it in. Says one citizen:

"I don't know if we can stop them. They can buy and sell us anytime."

Most citizens hope it remains "lowa." But a Supreme Court ruling might necessitate a change to "Nebraska."

"You don't want to lose the marvelous advantage your haircoloring gives you," says Frederic Jones. "The right color lights up your looks to new beauty. Fortunately, you have another big advantage in Clairol Shampoo. This special colorfast shampoo won't change your hair color, or turn it cloudy—as some shampoos do." Very different from other leading shampoos, colorfast shampoo by Clairol was specifically created for women who color or lighten their hair. Two unique formulas: Clairol Blue for all light delicate blonde shades of lightened and toned hair. Clairol Green

words on wide-awakes and sleepyheads

Think you've got a little night owl on your hands? No cause for worry. Sleep patterns, like all baby behavior patterns, vary. Some babies simply need less sleep than others. A rarin'-to-go baby, for example, is apt to sleep less and more lightly than an easy-come, easy-go baby. But, according to the experts, "forty-winks" babies blossom just as beautifully as sleepyheads.

Basic for all bables

I'm talking about Gerber Baby Cereals...menu basics from babyhood through toddlerhood... for the special nutrients they supply, namely, iron, calcium and important B-vitamins. Nutritional goodness galore and in the nicest forms imaginable—Rice Cereal, Barley, Oatmeal, Mixed Cereal and High Protein Cereal. Each one has a delicate but distinctive flavor. All have a dreamy-smooth texture. Gerber Cereals come in 8-oz, or 16-oz, sizes and Gerber Cereal Sixes, a variety package of small-size boxes for beginners.

Sandman suggestions

While you can't make your baby sleep more than he wants to, there are ways to encourage him to enter the land of nod:

- Plenty of fresh air and reasonable activity during waking hours help baby succumb to sleep naturally.
- Peace and quiet before bedtime.
   An over-stimulated body doesn't give up easily. Grandmother-methods, like lullabying and gentle rocking still work wonders.

Fruit-ful ideas

Always in season and for good reason. Gerber Strained Fruits are year-round favorites with babies. And small wonder. The eye-appealing colors and true-fruit flavors are enough to make any baby sing for his supper. What makes them so extra-special? Why, they're flash-cooked in a matter of seconds to protect natural colors and flavors and preserve the utmost in precious vitamin values. Have you treated baby to the new Applesauce with Pineapple? Marvelous!

Everything you need.
